tomatoes, 12 medium cucumbers, 12 onions, one head cabbage. All should be finely chopped, sprinkled with salt and left over night. Usually twice as much cabbage as any one of the other ingredients may be allowed. Some people, however, prefer about equal parts tomato, cucumber, cabbage, onion and celery. Drain, after standing, cover with weak vinegar, and let stand two days. Drain again and add three quarts good olive vinegar, one cup grated horseradish, four ounces white mustard seed, two tablespoons celery seed, four tablespoons dry mustard, two tablespoons tumeric, four tablespoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ground cloves, one cup (or more if liked) brown sugar, four finely minced green peppers, a little cayenne to taste, if liked. Mix thoroughly, bring to boiling point and can while hot. The above quantity will fill seven or eight quart jars.

HERE IS A PRETTY, ELABORATE HOUSE GARMENT OF A PLEASING DESIGN.

Here is shown a new kimono of satin princess, wrought with butterflies and daisies. It is considered one of the most beautiful of recent creations.

August, page 56, No. 3583. Have your skirt of the black canton, duvetyl or broadcloth and line the duffle cascade with tan of your blouse. The hand work as shown on the model is a charming design and I would do same in the black chenille or the very heavy rope silk. Personally for your dress I would choose the chenille. You will have two attractive gowns and I am sure you will look well in the lines they offer.

TILLAMOOK, Aug. 6—Dear Madam Rickett: Would you please help me as you have in the past. I am sending a sample of old suit which I have ripped up. The skirt is in two pieces, one in the back and one in the front, which is panels continued from the skirt into the bodice. Do you think it worth making into dress? If so please tell me what to combine with it as upper section of coat has coat darts and arrow heads both front and back. I am planning a dress for very best Do you think navy canton would be suitable and how should I make it? I would like to see you for a moment. I will have to wear them for a long time as I do not get many clothes. I am 28 years, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weight 155 pounds, 44 bust, 48 hips and 34 waist, medium brown hair, hazel eyes and blue freckles.

Will you please answer in Sunday Oregonian, please not get me on I thank you so much. MRS. D. E. Mrs. D. E. Tillamook, Or.—For your suit which you would make over to the one-piece dress, there does not seem a better model for one of your proportions than that one shown in the Butterick quarterly for autumn, page 21, No. 3753. The general line can be quite the same and the best will permit of more room across the bust line. The sleeve can be shorter and will cuff well. Have the vest and cuffs of the henna canton with the dots done in the black rope silk. Wear the sash of the black soft crepe canton and the fringe of the henna. I am sure that you will enjoy this model. For the evening gown, wear a line which should be exceptionally good for you, will you please turn to page 25, No. 3908, in the Delineator for September. The hand work in this work is also good and would be effective done in an emerald green, your material to be a becoming blue. The long line from the shoulder will give you an element of style which few dresses afford for the stouter figure. The vest I would have in the self material.

There are two models which would seem right for your tricot dress and so I shall refer you to the issues in which they are found and let you make your choice. In the Style for August you will find on page 17, No. 8 692 and in the Style for September, page 16, No. 3901 D. Either model will make up splendidly and will be well carried with your nice hair. The blue will, I think, be the better selection.

Why we make Clicquot at Millis, Mass.

Under the ground there are springs of cold, clear water. Summer rains and winter snows are filtered and refiltered many times in nature's own way, so that when the water is drawn from the rocks it is purified.

And this is the water of which all Clicquot Club Ginger Ale is made. The ginger is the finest grown on the sunny island of Jamaica. Every other ingredient of Clicquot is pure and good. The blend is never varied, so that the taste of Clicquot is a constant delight.

Get Clicquot by the case for the home. If you prefer variety, you can get Clicquot Club Sarsaparilla, Birch Beer, and Root Beer.

Letters to Joe No. 3
What a wife writes her husband when she is visiting the city.

Been swimming, Joe, in the Willamette. Great stuff! Pretty chilly when we got home, but Mary lighted the Radianfire which stands in her fireplace upstairs and we sat in front of that for over an hour; the warm glow was so fascinating.

She says it costs about 3 cents an hour, Joe. That's less than our wood stove at home costs, if we figured your time for you've got to fall and haul the trees and split the wood, etc.

When we move to the big city, we'll have to have one of those Radianfires, only let's go Mary one better and get a fancy one. I saw some at the gas office, on Alder Street, that are pippins.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair
Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

Two or three teaspoonsful of Mulified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair rinses quickly and evenly, and it leaves it soft, soapy, and the hair fine, silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get Mulified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your drugist gives you Mulified.—Adv.
