SEVEN KILLED IN RECENT BATTLES WITH MOONSHINERS.

Killed.
Sheriff Roy M. Kendall, Linn county, on June 21, killed by Dave F. West in attempting to capture a still.
Rev. Roy Healy, Albany minister, on June 21, killed with Sheriff Kendall.
Dave F. West, moonshiner, suicide on June 21, after killing Sheriff Kendall and Rev. Healy.
Deputy Sheriff W. E. Rorison, Clarke county, Wash., on August 7, while attempting to arrest Paul Hickey at Stevenson, Wash.
Paul Hickey, moonshiner, killed in resisting arrest on August 7.
Glen H. Price, federal prohibition agent, killed on September 3 by Philip Warren at New Grand Ronde, Or.
Grover C. Todd, federal prohibition agent, killed with Price.
Wounded.
J. A. Morgan, federal prohibition agent, shot by Paul Hickey on August 7 at Stevenson, Wash.
Philip Warren, Indian moonshiner, shot by Deputy Sheriff Holden of Tillamook at New Grand Ronde on September 3.
Glenn H. Price and Grover C. Todd, federal prohibition agents, were killed and Philip Warren, Indian bootlegger, slightly wounded in a pistol and rifle battle staged on the streets of New Grand Ronde, Or., about 1 o'clock yesterday morning.
The two officials had attempted to arrest the Indian on a charge of violating the prohibition law, and in the course of the arrest struck the prisoner with the butt of a pistol. This angered Warren to such an extent that he made a dash for freedom, went to his home, obtained a rifle and returned to the scene, where he opened fire on the government agents.
Arrest Is Made Later.
Warren was later arrested by John W. Orr, sheriff of Polk county, and was placed under guard at the Dallas hospital. He will be charged with first-degree murder. "They didn't treat me right," the Indian explained to Sheriff Orr. "They beat me up and I got them for it."
The two victims are both well known in Portland. Todd was an old-time member of the Oregon national guard and served overseas as captain of Company I, 162d infantry, of Woodburn. Price also saw extensive war service.
The killing was the direct result of a campaign on moonshiners and bootleggers of the upstate districts of Oregon. A party of federal agents, consisting of Price, Todd, Benton, Kiffin and E. L. Marshall, left Portland Saturday and investigated conditions in Tillamook. There they picked up Jap Perry, an informer, and Deputy Sheriff Holden of Tillamook county and in a machine piloted by Robert Marshall of Tillamook drove to Grand Ronde, arriving there about 10 o'clock Saturday night. A dance was in progress in the town. Warren was said to have been intoxicated.

GRASS-CLAD MAIDENS FAIL TO WIN SEAMAN

SOUTH SEA ISLES HELD VERY FINE—IN MOVIES.

Schooner's Officer Prefers Beefsteaks and Open Plumbing to Tropical "Paardise."

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 3.—South Sea Islands, with their coconut groves, intoxicating moonlight nights, coral wave-splashed shores and dancing grass-clad maidens, are very fine—in books or the movies. But as for N. P. Benson, first mate of the American schooner Henriette, give him beefsteaks and open plumbing.

Such, in substance, was Mate Benson's assertion yesterday when he arrived in San Francisco on the British motorship Hauraki from the island of Nakuakalali in the Ellice group of the South seas.
Benson and his crew were on their way from Fiji to San Francisco some weeks ago on the schooner Henriette. The schooner was wrecked and the crew found refuge on the little tropical isle.

In a recent interview in Honolulu Captain J. A. T. O'Brien of the Henriette described the island as a miniature replica of the oriental idea of paradise, where the women outnumbered the men 14 to one. Not disputing the captain's word, Mate Benson avers his own wife had a group of 14 women on the island beat in every way and, besides, "fish and coconuts all the time are no kind of a real diet," he averred.

The mate described the inhabitants of the island as good-looking, hospitable and healthy. He said that they had acquired religion from missionaries who occasionally visit the islands and that they held services for about three hours each Sunday which the crew had to attend. "But they made up for it," Benson said, "by giving a dance every night. The sailor said the women were not hampered by clothing any more than actresses are in many American stage performances."
"The principal thing the south sea island is good for is to make a man glad to get back to civilization," Mate Benson said. Mrs. Benson was present throughout the interview.

AUTO MISHAP HURTS TWO

Mother and Son Injured Slightly in Accident.

When the car driven by Mrs. Bertha E. Hoberham, 815 Irving street, skidded into the rear of another automobile and then a telephone pole three miles east of Scappoose she sustained a broken rib and her son, James, was cut about the head. Both sustained other slight wounds. After treatment by a physician at Linton they returned home, but their car was wrecked.
The report received at the sheriff's office was that Mrs. Hoberham was attempting to pass the other car when she lost control of the machine.

Fragments were hurled hundreds of feet.

SEATTLE WOMAN HELD FOR KILLING

Clara Skarin Winborn Is Arrested at Oakland.

VICTIM IN CASE WEALTHY

Prisoner Wanted to Explain Death of Guardian.

MAN ALSO IS SOUGHT

Estate of Realtor, 72, in Courts as Result of Shooting in December, 1921.

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 3.—Mrs. Clara E. Skarin Winborn, 28, wanted in Seattle in connection with the death of Ferdinand Hochbrunn, 72, wealthy retired realty dealer, whose body was found in a vacant apartment December 21, 1921, was arrested here today at the request of Seattle police.

Mrs. Winborn declined to discuss the case.
Mrs. Winborn's presence in Oakland was communicated to the police by acquaintances who had met her in Seattle and who saw her in a local electric concern's office, where she was employed.
Mrs. Winborn said she left Seattle for San Bernardino, Cal., late last November for her health. Five months ago, she said, she came to Oakland, and two weeks ago to Seattle. She said she had worked at several places under the name of Betty Parrish.

Man Also Sought.

The police tonight were searching for a man known as Phoenix Markham, said to be a friend of Mrs. Winborn, and who was declared by the police to have posed as Hochbrunn.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 3.—The crime in connection with which Clara Skarin Winborn was arrested in Oakland, Cal., today is the murder of Ferdinand Hochbrunn, a wealthy German realty dealer, 72 years old, whose ward the young woman had been from the time she was 12 years old until his death.
Hochbrunn, a bullet wound in the back of his head, was found dead in a small alcove off the bedroom of his ward, who was also his housekeeper, early the night of December 21, 1921. The coroner declared Hochbrunn had been dead two months when the discovery was made. The body was found by Pierre Chetodai, who occupied apartments on the first floor of the dwelling. Chetodai had gone upstairs with a plumber to repair a water pipe.

Constant Search Begun.

Police immediately began a search for Clara Skarin Winborn as she was known to have visited the Hochbrunn apartments two to three times a week over a period of five weeks following the disappearance.

IDLE PUT TO WORK; WAGE PANIC BLOCKED

AMERICA ON THRESHOLD OF GREAT PROSPEROUS ERA.

Secretary Davis, in Labor Day Message, Reviews Year's Record With Pride.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—Secretary Davis in a Labor day message to the American people, made public tonight, declared that "we can look with pride and gratitude upon the achievements of the last 12 months," and that during this period "America has been brought to the threshold of an era of unexampled prosperity."
But for the industrial strife which has been evident for several months throughout the country, the secretary added, the outlook of the nation would not have been darkened during the year.
"We must find a common ground of fairness and co-operation for employers and employees where they can adjust their differences without recourse to an appeal to force," he said. "There can be no justification for bloodshed and destruction in America today."

The labor secretary declared "that two great things have been accomplished in American industrial life."
"We have conquered the menace of unemployment which threatened us," he said, "and we have prevented a wage panic in the ranks of labor. We have put between four and five million men back to work and we have put them back to work with wages which leave the general wage level of the nation very little below the high point reached following the war."

Despite the pressure of unemployment, Mr. Davis said, we have forestalled those short-sighted employers who saw in the situation only an opportunity to beat down the price of labor, adding that through this we have brought America to the threshold of "an era of unexampled prosperity."

CHURCH MUSIC HELD BAD

Show and Dance Hall Getting Young People, Says Bishop.

MISSOULA, Mont., Sept. 3.—New things must be offered by the church to her young people if their interest is to be held, Bishop Charles L. Meade, presiding officer of the Methodist church conference here, told conference members.
Music offered in many churches is not of the kind to compete successfully with the wonderful music of the show and the dance hall," Bishop Meade suggested.

BURGLAR IS KILLED BY SPECIAL OFFICER

ROBBER IS CORNERED IN L. ALLEN LEWIS HOME.

Patrolman Fires When Ordered to Put Up Hands as Flashlight Blinds Him.

Special Patrolman Robert L. Whiteside about 9:30 last night shot and killed an unidentified burglar in the second-floor lavatory of the home of L. Allen Lewis, 706 Park avenue. Whiteside began stalking his prey in the darkened manston after he had found a side door open that earlier in the evening he had found locked.

"I noticed the fellow cross the street and walk up Park avenue in front of the Lewis home," Whiteside told reporters, "and I went to the other end of the block and waited for him to appear. He did not. I became suspicious and tried doors of houses I knew to be vacant. When I found the east door to the Lewis drawing room open, I entered and began searching, revolver in hand."

The house is of brick, three stories high, set in shrubbery, rather lonely of aspect and was completely secluded. As Whiteside searched the lower floor he found nothing and did not hear anything suspicious.
A wide staircase led to the second floor. At its head Whiteside saw a light flash in a doorway. He stepped toward it, tense to shoot at a flash of warning. As his footstep sounded at the door, he said, his quarry flashed a light upon him and ordered: "Stick 'em up!"

That was all. As the words left his mouth Whiteside pressed the trigger. He heard his man bump to the floor and did not shoot again, but went cautiously to him. He was dying.

Whiteside did not know whether the burglar was armed or not. The second floor was entirely dark. The spotlight, at which he fired, blinded him, and he did not feel under obligations to ask the burglar whether he would enforce his commands with a revolver.

Whiteside lives at 63 Jessup street. He has had more territory than any other special officer in the city, due to his penchant for catching burglars at work. About three years ago he tried a rear screen door of the Edward A. King home, 196 King street, found it unlocked and entered to investigate. He flashed his light as he stepped through the door and a burglar, who never was caught, shot him in the right side. He fell backwards down the steps, where he was found by Ray King. Whiteside at that time had not drawn his revolver. Last night he was taking no chances.

Whiteside was shot in the face last year during an attempt to make an arrest for disorderly conduct, also near the King home. He is in the hospital for several weeks. That the man killed last night is a burglar much desired by police was proved when watches found on the body, bearing initials "G. G." were identified by Lieutenant Thatcher as having been taken on Saturday night from the home of Graham Glass, 215 Vista avenue. Police endeavored to connect him with other burglary jobs if they can identify him and find the place where he has been living.

The Lewis family has been away from home for several weeks, according to a neighbor. (Concluded on Page 6, Column 2.)

WAR ON DIVORCE CANON KEPT UP

New York Rector Tells Views in Detail.

DR. GRANT SENDS MESSAGE

Episcopal Law Is Stricter Than Catholic, Claim.

BISHOP MANNING SILENT

Gotham Prelate Refuses to Comment on Attitude of Pastor in Metropolis.

HOT SHOTS AT CHURCH LAWS BY DR. GRANT

"The canon is based on a text in the New Testament which is disputed and racial. . . . I do not believe Jesus ever said any such thing. . . . The opinion I hold is not of recent date or merely personal. In 1902 I was asked to write an article on the subject of marriage and divorce. My views now are better founded, but are the same as they were 20 years ago, in April, 1902."
"Civil marriages are on the increase and will be more respected as the church shows its lack of sympathy with modern ideas."
"The non-representative and undemocratic method of voting in the general convention of the Episcopal church permits control by a minority. . . . What respect can we have for such legislation?"
"The question of divorce is today a part of the woman's question. Two-thirds of the divorces are asked for by women. . . . Divorced women are thought a disgrace and put forward by men to gratify their passions. In reality it is relief sought by good women."

"The canon of the Protestant Episcopal church dealing with the remarriage of divorced persons is framed so loosely that a coach-and-four could be driven through it," declared Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, a most fashionable church of New York city, who expects consideration to be given the question of divorce at the general Episcopal convention to be held Wednesday.

Dr. Grant, who is engaged to Mrs. Rita Lydig, twice divorced, and prominent in New York society, has sent to The Oregonian his views on the subject.
"The Bible cannot be made a handbook for modern lawmakers," said Dr. Grant, declaring that the liberal ideas of an age break through and discard the ideas of the past. He also charges that the canon undermines the civil law, is not Protestant and that the general convention of the Episcopal church "is controlled by a minority."

Church Law Cited.

"The Protestant Episcopal church has a canon on law of remarriage of divorced persons," said Dr. Grant. "At present that canon only permits remarriage to the innocent party in a divorce for 'idleness.' The church does not recognize incurable insanity, habitual drunkenness, life imprisonment, cruelty or willful desertion as causes for divorce. The men and women divorced on these grounds cannot be remarried in the Protestant Episcopal church."
"The hardship of this situation falls upon good people whose tragic experiences require divorce but who, out of the kindness of their hearts, or who might be called Christian teaching, mention in their complaints as mild causes as the law will permit them to and yet grant a divorce. A mother of children and remember two-thirds of the divorces are granted to women) will generally choose the cause of divorce that is not scandalous and that will not blacken the name of her children. Having done what seems to her an entirely reasonable and Christian thing she finds that her kindness and consideration have ruled her out of her own church."

Opinion Not Personal.

"The real question is whether theology or science is to frame our social institutions, an ascetic conception, or the experience and needs of humanity; the dead or the living."
"The opinion I hold in this matter is not of recent date or merely personal. In 1902 I was asked to write an article for Ainslie's magazine on the subject of 'Marriage and Divorce.' I consulted several times. Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington, of Grace church, and all the books I used were from his library or from that of the General Theological Seminary, where he gave me a letter to the librarian. Dr. Huntington at that time was the leader of the Episcopal church. My views now are better founded, but are the same as they were 20 years ago, in April, 1902."

VALENTINO'S BRIDE STAYS IN NEW YORK

MOVIE ACTRESS CHANGES MIND ABOUT TRIP.

Screen Star and Spouse Refuse to See Reporters After Decision Is Made.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Mrs. Rodolph Valentino, bride of the motion picture actor and adopted daughter of Richard Hudnut, the perfumer, did not sail with Mr. and Mrs. Hudnut for Europe yesterday aboard the Olympic.

Although she posed for newspaper camera men and to ship news reporters told how she would divide her time between the Hudnut estate on the Riviera and the study of architecture in Paris until her husband should join her for a Paris wedding, she in fact was lifted. When his divorce from Jean Ackler becomes absolute, it was learned today that she suddenly changed her mind, had her baggage put ashore at the last minute and came off the ship, unaccompanied. Just before the gangplank was lifted, Valentino, at the Waldorf, like her foster parents, who sailed without her, she made herself inaccessible to reporters today.

Because she could not be reached, it could not be learned what caused her so unexpectedly to exercise her own chief prerogative—to amend her intention—but friends who read of the affectionate farewell Valentino bid her aboard the Olympic were of the opinion she canceled her passage on a sudden decision to remain a while longer in New York with her husband. Valentino, at the Waldorf, likewise denied himself to reporters today. Douglas Gerard, his companion, said the actor and his wife dined together last night, but would continue to live apart until his divorce is absolute.

GOTHAM AFTER BEGGARS

More Than Score Rounded Up by New York Police.

(By Chicago Tribune Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Following a round-up last night of more than a score of the city's professional beggars, police today were searching for elubers on Seventh avenue, near Thirty-fifth street, which it was said beggar cripples repair to change into their "working clothes, and to "park" artificial legs and arms and other appendages of life more appropriate to their large income.
Some in rags and some in tags, and a number of them accompanied by wives in attire as costly as velvet, were rounded up by police and arrested. Three were given six months sentences. The others will be sent for tomorrow.

HEALING BY FAITH EPISCOPAL ISSUE

Warm Debate Before Convention Slated.

CHURCHMEN ARE DIVIDED

Church Paper Attacks Methods of Rev. Mr. Hickson.

CLAIMS HELD UNPROVED

New York Bishop Indorses Practitioner, Declaring Prayer Cures Bodily Ills.

Faith healing practices, such as followed by the Rev. James Moore Hickson, who visited Portland some two years ago, have won favor with perhaps a majority of leaders of the Protestant Episcopal church, yet promise to precipitate one of the hottest debates of the triennial convention of the churchmen here.

Rev. Mr. Hickson's methods are lauded and employed in numerous big churches of the denomination, yet he and his work have been vigorously attacked in The Churchman, by many considered the official church paper. Rev. Mr. Hickson, it needs be mentioned, is an Episcopal rector, and practically all his healing services throughout the United States have been held in Episcopal churches. In Portland he conducted his healing clinic at Grace Memorial church.

Report to Approve Healer.

The whole question of these healing practices will come up for consideration in sessions of the Episcopal general convention, sitting in Portland for 15 days, beginning next Wednesday. It is treated in the report of the commission to consider the fuller recognition of the ministry of healing. Bishops stated yesterday that this report will give approval to Dr. Hickson's methods. It was even said that there had been no division in the investigating committee over the matter.

To show that division over the question exists in the church it is necessary only to quote a recent editorial in The Churchman, which intimates that "it would be a almost irreparable calamity if the Episcopal church should be stamped into indorsing without reservation, work like Mr. Hickson's merely to prevent defections to Christian Science."

Claims Held Not Validated.

The editorial continues: "There are rumors that Mr. Hickson is to be in Portland. We hope that the rumor is unfounded. If Mr. Hickson is to be present, other reputable psychotherapists and physicians ought to be asked to give expert testimony. Many of Mr. Hickson's claims have been held valid. There is no evidence that he has effected the cure of any organic disease, yet Mr. Hickson, contrary to the trustworthy evidence of medical science, maintains that organic diseases may be healed by faith.

For the outcome which may be done by a ministry of healing in incompetent hands is considerable. Not a little damage has already been done. It is a cruel promise to make to sick and suffering folk that they may be healed of any sickness by faith. Better far to lose thousands of communicants to Mrs. Eddy's sect, than to assume the liability of Mrs. Eddy's medical and religious heresies. The Episcopal church can afford to wait for fuller knowledge of psychotherapy, the new psychology, new medicine, but it cannot afford to have Mrs. Eddy's and religious quackery. It must not, by ill considered and premature action, as regards the ministry of healing, place itself in ignorant hostility to medical science.

Experts' Views Wanted.

"For at least two decades, now, psychotherapy has been practiced by clergymen of our church and the ministry of healing has been spiritualized. Incalculable good has been done, both to men's bodies and souls, through that ministry. There is a considerable body of religious and scientific data which these pioneers in this new field can lay at the disposal of the general convention. If any experts are to be in Portland to give counsel concerning the ministry of healing it would be well to invite distinguished clergymen and practitioners like Dr. Worcester, Dr. McComb, Dr. Batten and others who have more recently entered the field."

The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, bishop of New York and member of the commission that will make the report, was entirely willing to comment on the matter yesterday and give his opinion of the editorial. Incidentally, he made known the fact that Rev. Mr. Hickson will not attend the convention. He has started for Australia to do healing and teaching there, said the bishop.

Belief in Healing Asserted.

"That editors," said Bishop Manning, "merely expressed his individual opinion of the writer. The healing work performed by Rev. Mr. Hickson is based entirely on first principles of the Christian religion."
