Answers to Saturday's Questions. Consciousness is the state of being conscious; conscience is moral consciousness. Of no avail is properly used only with some form of the verb "to be." Say: "He tried, but to no purpose" or "His attempt was of no avail" not "He tried, but of no avail." "I had no doubt that (not "but what") it would rain."

CATHOLIC CITIZENSHIP. ARTICLE 13. Previous articles stated that because of attacks upon the citizenship of Catholics—due to false concepts of our attitude on Christian education—a definite statement of our REAL principles would aid well-disposed Non-Catholics to see for themselves the injustice of these criticisms. A Decalogue or Platform of Catholic principles on education was therefore formulated, the first plank or precept thereof being: "Let there be universal education" so that every child born or reared in the United States MAY ACQUIRE elementary training; which principle or precept was studied in article 11. To this our SECOND precept or principle is almost a necessary corollary:

"LET THERE BE COMPULSORY EDUCATION so that neither the poverty, nor the ignorance, nor the indifference of parents can halt our war upon illiteracy." That our religious leaders no less than our American citizenship inspire us with this principle—is evident from the recent pastoral letter of the Catholic Archbishop of Oregon; which having been read in every Catholic church in the Archdiocese, necessarily reflects the private interior sentiments of Catholics and their religious organizations; after commending various phases of our American educational system,

THE ARCHBISHOP'S LETTER CONTINUES: "Here also we commend in our public schools their wide sphere of activity. Aided and backed up by compulsory education laws which different states have enacted, the percentage of illiteracy is rapidly declining. On this subject of compulsory education, let no one deny that the state has a right to insist that all its citizens receive elementary training. While the parent has rights over his children that antedate all others, and these include the right to designate the kind of school the child is to attend, yet should this same parent fail to educate the child, the state has the right to pass and enforce laws to attain that end."

OREGON ALREADY HAS A COMPULSORY EDUCATION LAW, a summary of which is this: "Every parent, guardian or other person having control and charge of any child between the ages of nine and fourteen shall be required to send such child to the public schools, or to private schools, excepting any child who is being instructed elsewhere in the branches covered by the public school course," etc. In this law, TWO POINTS should be emphasized: 1. Children MAY receive their instruction in other than public schools. 2. These schools MUST TEACH THE SAME BRANCHES as the public schools. In fact, the legislature has clothed school authorities with investigatory powers over all private educational institutions. (See section 406, paragraph 1 on page 132 of the 1921 school pamphlet). What more than this can fairness and reason demand?

THE OBNOXIOUS BILL NOW PENDING makes various non-essential and ONE DRASTIC change in the present law, which is amended so that all children obliged by law to attend grade-schools must attend PUBLIC schools. No matter how precisely private schools may follow the state curriculum, no matter how willing and anxious to give every reasonable proof of their equality, even superiority, to state supported institutions, they are completely outlawed by the present bill. It has been said that the new school measure would only REGULATE denominational and private schools. But READ THE LAW IN THE VOTER'S BOOK issued by the Secretary of State, on page 21, and the intelligent citizen will wonder how anyone able to read could seriously make such a wild assertion. The law reads: "Provided that in the following cases children shall not be required to attend public schools: (d) 'Private instruction—Any child who is being taught for a like period of time by a parent or private teacher such subjects as are usually taught in the first eight years in the public school, but before such child can be taught by a parent or a private teacher, such parent or private teacher must receive written permission from the county superintendent and such permission shall not extend longer than the end of the current school year. Such child must report to the county superintendent or some person designated by him at least once every three months and take an examination in the work covered,' etc.

QUESTIONS. 1. By what process of mental deflection can one interpret the words "a private teacher" to mean "a parochial school" or private institution? ANSWER: Only by deceit or self-imposed blindness. 2. What is there in the law that would EVEN JUSTIFY a county superintendent to put that interpretation upon it? ANSWER: Absolutely nothing; its whole avowed purpose is to EXCLUDE denominational SCHOOLS. 3. Under what conditions would the superintendent be OBLIGED to give a parent this permission? ANSWER: None; it is purely arbitrary with him. Therefore only the favored few who could secure permission and pay for a private teacher, could use this exemption. Even were permission given now and then to send a child to a private school, there WOULD BE NO SUCH SCHOOL to send them to. No private institution could continue just because it might have a pupil now and then. WARNING TO THE PUBLIC. WHEREAS, there already is a Compulsory Education law in Oregon which forces children to attend some standardized school up to the eighth grade; and WHEREAS, there are state laws authorizing school authorities to supervise private schools, that these standards be maintained; and WHEREAS, parochial schools welcome opportunity to prove their competency, even superiority; but "Compulsory School" law has been placed upon the ballot largely through misrepresentation and deceit, which law aims at the destruction, NOT THE REGULATION of private schools; which is the alpha and omega of un-Americanism (as detailed in article 12)—and which would uselessly expend many millions more of taxpayers' money; THEREFORE, it behooves all fair-minded citizens regardless of creed or religious affiliation to actively oppose this invasion of their natural, parental, constitutional rights as citizens, mindful that: THOSE WHO WOULD DICTATE "SCHOOL" TO YOU TODAY WOULD DICTATE RELIGION TO YOU TOMORROW. Article 14 to appear Monday, September 18. Correspondence solicited. Drawer K, Milwaukie, Or. Copies of pastoral letters referred to above, sent free upon application. CATHOLIC DEFENSE GUILD. By E. E. Eberhard, Secretary. (Paid Advertisement)
