

ADMISSAGE'S NOT PERSHING'S IDEA

Secretary Weeks Denies Charge by Kipling.

POET'S VIEWS COMMON

Administration Places Great Importance on Statement Made in Attacking America.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—American responsibility for the armistice which closed the European war was denied today by Secretary of War Weeks and placed on French and British leaders.

This contribution to the history of the war was made as a result of publication of the interview with Rudyard Kipling in which the British poet charged the United States with having entered the war late and with having quit too early.

The formal statement made by Secretary of War Weeks demonstrated the importance placed on the Kipling statement which has caused bitter resentment in many quarters.

Americans Not Responsible.

The publication of the Kipling statement has revived the controversy of "who won the war" and connected with it the question of who stopped it prematurely, assuming that the armistice was a premature settlement and the war should have been fought to a finish.

4 SWIM THROUGH FIRE

GASOLINE BLAST DESTROYS RIVER BOAT, 90 PERISH.

Professor Kemmerer of Princeton, Wife and Two Children Escape Death in Sheet of Flames.

(By Chicago Tribune Licensed Wire.) NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Edward Kemmerer, professor of Princeton university, arriving here today on the Grace liner Santa Teresa, related his experiences and those of his wife and two children, Ruth, 12 and Donald, 15, which included survival of an explosion of thousands of gallons of gasoline which tore a hole in the hull of the Argentine river, scattering blazing oil upon the water for many yards.

The boat was carrying 5,000 gallons of gasoline up the Amazon river, when the explosion occurred at 2 o'clock the morning of July 4.

Had it not been that all four were expert swimmers, Professor Kemmerer said today, all would have been lost. As it was, he added, they were the only ones of the 25 first cabin passengers who got out of the burning boat.

The Villa Franca, at the time of the explosion, was fortunately but 200 yards from the little German settlement of Hohenaun, and there the survivors were cared for. Most of them had to be treated for burns.

Mrs. Kemmerer, whose head, neck and shoulders are scarred from the blazing gasoline through which she had to swim and both children suffered burns, though less severe.

CHURCH NEEDS CHILDREN

Dr. Villers Pleads for Young Sunday School Workers.

The advisability of winning children to the church was emphasized last night by Dr. T. J. Villers, pastor of the White Temple Baptist church, to the Sunday school teachers and officers of Multnomah county assembled in annual convention at his church. About 170 workers were present.

Dr. Villers charged his audience not to offend the young by telling them they are too young to engage in church work, and cited many examples in his pastoral experience where small children have done most effective missionary work.

Special music was furnished by a 40-piece orchestra, composed of musicians from the various Sunday schools of the city, and conducted by Robert Louis Barron. The orchestra will play again today. Features of today's session will be a notable discussion on "How to observe Decision Day," and a mock trial of a Sunday school teacher who, the evening before, is in progress. Today's programme will conclude the convention.

FUR THIEVES ARRESTED

Alabama Maru Seamen in Custody for Robbery at Tacoma.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 26.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Two members of the crew of the steamer Alabama Maru were arrested here today by the Tacoma police in connection with the disappearance of $20,000 worth of furs during the steamer's last voyage to Tacoma. As soon as the steamer arrived here the police made a thorough search of it at the request of American authorities, who reported that when the steamer reached Tacoma it was found that 300 furs included in a shipment from the Japan Fur company were missing.

The American police discovered 80 of the furs but the others have not yet been recovered.

VICTORY FOR LODGE, SULLIVAN FORECAST

Primary Election in Massachusetts is Today.

BOURBON PLANS FADING

Effort of National Democratic Leaders to Put Senator Out of Public Life Fails.

BY MARK SULLIVAN. (Copyright, 1922, by New York Evening Post, Inc. Published by Arrangement.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 12.—(Special.)—Senator Lodge may be expected to win his Massachusetts primary today, not only easily but conclusively. The estimates vary from assertions that Lodge will get two out of every three republican votes next estimate of four out of every five.

Not only will Lodge win the republican primary, but the result in the democratic primary of the contest among four democrats for the privilege of being Lodge's opponent in the November election will mark the rebirth of the plan made six months ago by the national leaders of the democratic primary to put Lodge out of public life. It was a formidable plan and nothing in the policies of the present year was so close to the hearts of Wilson, of Cox and of all those who had wanted revenge on Lodge for leading the fight against the league of nations.

Whipple Out of Race. The plan was to force the democratic organization into nominating a Boston lawyer, Sherman L. Whipple, as the best man to make the fight against Lodge. But after Whipple entered the race for the democratic nomination his campaign went badly, and it was soon more or less accepted by the politicians as a foregone conclusion that Whipple would not win at today's primary.

For three years it enabled the government to secure willing soldiers to go to the place of holding trials. This was requested by Attorney-General Daugherty.

Representative Hoch, republican, Kansas, introduced a bill to abolish the use of the labor board and penalize lock-outs and strikes affecting the public welfare.

Mayor of London, nodded his approval of his colleague's opinion that it is exactly what think," he said, "and, I believe, what all of us think."

WHETHER GASTON OR ANOTHER IS CHOSEN TO MAKE THE RACE AGAINST LODGE, THE CLEAR FACT THAT HAS SIGNIFICANCE FOR HIS BEARING ON NATIONAL POLITICS IS THAT THE PLAN TO TAKE REVENGE ON LODGE FOR HIS FIGHT AGAINST THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS HAS FLATTELED OUT.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION FILED AT SALEM. ANNOUNCEMENT CONCERNING PORTLAND COMPANY CAUSES FINANCIAL FLURRY LOCALLY.

Announcement that articles of incorporation for the Portland Flour Mills company had been filed at Salem, the incorporators being Wallace McCannant, Robert J. Leo and Russell G. Griggs, all of Portland, caused something of a flurry in local financial circles yesterday.

Mr. McCannant, admitting that he has filed the papers and that he has been interested in the affairs of the Portland Flouring Mills company, one of the city's large grain handling corporations, refused to give any additional information on the subject.

The Portland Flouring Mills company operated a large mill plant on East First and Washington streets and maintains a number of warehouses in various parts of the city. Rumors have been current that outside interests had contemplated the purchase of the company's properties and that a large amount of outside capital would be brought into the city.

Mr. McCannant is the chairman and legal adviser of the reorganization committee of the Portland Flouring Mills company. Mr. Leo is a resident of the city and is of Haskins & Sells, certified accountants, and Mr. Griggs is the Portland manager of the bond firm of Bly, Bly & Co.

"We are not prepared to make any announcements regarding any possible deal," said Mr. McCannant, "but it is anticipated that we will have filed papers of incorporation at Salem and that I have been working on it for some time." Beyond that I have nothing to say."

HAMMOND MILL BURNS

Plant on Youngs Bay Could be Started.

The Hammond mill was built about 20 years ago by George W. Hume and later purchased by A. B. Hammond. It was one of the largest plants in the Pacific Northwest, employing between 600 and 600 men and had a cutting capacity on two shifts of about 425,000 feet of lumber daily. It had been occupied night and day for several months.

Late tonight the fire was still burning, but was under control and no further damage anticipated, although it was slowly eating into the yard.

LOSS SEEMS WELL COVERED. Amount of Insurance Carried Not Yet Determined.

Officials of the Hammond Lumber company in Portland last night estimated the value of the mill property at $1,500,000. It was impossible to learn just how much of the loss is covered by insurance, since a check of the records will first be necessary, it was said. The statement was made that the loss will be rapidly paid in 40 minutes it had consumed the Jurfunk building and every building west of it for two blocks on the south side of the main highway.

Losses were suffered as follows: Jurfunk building, $300,000; postoffice building, owned by W. G. Adams, $200,000; store building, $750,000; warehouse, $350,000; three dwelling houses, $250,000.

The Methodist Episcopal church edifice also was destroyed. The store building, warehouse and dwellings were owned by C. J. Schaffer, who had a stock of merchandise valued at $25,000. About half of this was removed. Another building destroyed was that owned by J. A. Davis and occupied by Ed Wilkerson as a barber shop.

Lebam has suffered heavily from fires in the last 11 years. A large part of the business section formerly was destroyed.

Due to the operations of the Lebam Mills & Timber company the town is prosperous.

DAY'S HIGH MARK IS 93

(Continued From First Page.) tember here, however, for in 1917 a high temperature of 93 degrees was reached on two occasions. Neither is today's mark a record for this year, as once in July 1917 degrees were recorded and several other times the local weather observer reported 93.

ASTORIA, Or., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—While the hot wave is still hovering about the lower Columbia river district, the temperature today was only 87 degrees above zero,

WASHINGTON HOLDS ELECT TODAY

Senate Campaign Among Most Bitter in State.

BIG VOTE IS FORECAST

Senator Poindexter, Whose Record Was Attacked, Opposed by Four Candidates.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 11.—Candidates today closed their campaigns prior to the state-wide primary election tomorrow at which candidates for United States senator, five congressmen seats, four supreme court vacancies, state legislative seats and county officers will be nominated. Three parties, republican, democratic and farmer-labor, have tickets in the field.

The campaign for the republican nomination for United States senator, first elected in 1910, is opposed for the nomination by Mrs. Frances C. Astell of Bellingham; George B. Lamping, member of the Seattle port commission; Austin E. Griffiths, judge of the superior court of King county; George H. Stevenson of Seattle and Lee Tittle of Yakima.

Mrs. Astell was endorsed by a conference of representatives of so-called liberal groups, including the Washington State Federation of Labor, and a number of women's and farmers' organizations. Griffiths and Lamping have also been endorsed by so-called liberal organizations. Stevenson is generally regarded as representing the "old guard" in the republican party.

Poindexter's Record Attacked. Attacks on Senator Poindexter's record in congress, especially with regard to his vote in favor of seating Truman H. Newberry of Michigan, were the main theme of the republican primary and 200,000 of these will go to Poindexter. This proportion is two-thirds of the total republican vote and has been taken throughout the state in the last week.

Colonel Lamping Confident. Colonel George B. Lamping said: "I have covered pretty well the entire state and I am confident I shall be nominated by a majority of all the republican votes cast."

Several Sure to Win. John W. Summers, republican, incumbent; Charles R. Hill of Colfax, democrat; and Eilhu Bowles of Prosser, farmer-labor, are unopposed for nomination in their respective party C. D. Hill of Spokane, ex-representative, is opposed by Lyman Seelye of Bellingham and James Cleveland Longstreet of Port Townsend, who conducted his campaign from a bed in a veterans' hospital in Colorado.

The representatives in congress from the five districts of the east are all candidates for the republican nominations in their respective districts. Opposing John F. Miller, incumbent in the first district, are Philip Tindall, H. Alvin Moore and Thomas Jefferson Casey, all of Seattle, and ex-representative James W. Bryson of Bremerton.

Seattle Man Unopposed. Edgar Snyder of Seattle is unopposed for the democratic nomination and Fred M. Nelson of Bremerton for the farmer-labor nomination.

In the second district Lindley H. Hadley, republican incumbent, is contesting the nomination with Nelson J. Craigue, and Charles A. Turner of Everett, farmer-labor, who is a close contender for the nomination. Albert Johnson, republican incumbent, is unopposed for the nomination.

ASHLAND IS 98

Water Supply Is Becoming Low Because of Lack of Rain.

ASHLAND, Or., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—The mercury reached an altitude of 103 degrees here Sunday, breaking all records for hot September days for the past 42 years. The highest point attained in September in the 42 years the weather station has been in this city, Sunday broke all previous records, the thermometer going to 100 degrees at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The previous record was 99 degrees, this point having been reached in 1888 and 1905.

THE DALLES, Or., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—The temperature climbed to 97 here today, the hottest it has been during September.
