SOCIETY is greatly interested in the pageant drama, "The Sinner Beloved," which will be presented September 15 at the auditorium. With the exception of three of the ten principal roles all the players are Portland people, and while the pageant is a demonstration of the work of the religious drama as planned by the department of religious education of the Episcopal church, the players in "The Sinner Beloved" will represent all denominations.

The cast will number 600 men, women and young people. The pageant was written by the Rev. W. J. Wood for the normal conference held at Wesley, and produced there by Miss Elizabeth Grimbald, who will present it here.

either be baked or served as regular bread or it may be steamed in a double boiler or covered can and served with cream or a sweet sauce. Or it may be made slightly softer and baked in gem pans.

Scones—Add 2 tablespoons sugar and 1/2 cup raisins (the raisins may be omitted if you prefer) to the baking powder mixture and cook in round or triangles 1/2 inch thick on a slightly floured griddle or heavy iron frying pan. Scones may also be baked if you prefer.

Meat turnovers—Roll dough thin, cut in rounds and press out to an oval shape. Mix equal parts of chopped meat and potatoes seasoned with salt, pepper and, if liked, a bit of onion, with a little water. Put a spoonful of this mixture on each piece of dough and fold over like a parkerhouse roll. Press edges together and bake. This makes a nice change from sandwiches for lunch and is a whole "bread, meat and potatoes meal."

Cheese biscuit—Cut dough as for meat turnovers. Put piece of cheese on one side, fold over, press edges together and bake.

Bacon biscuit—Proceed as for cheese biscuit but substitute a spoonful of chopped cooked bacon for ham for the cheese.

Apple dumplings—Roll dough 1/4 inch thick, cut into squares. Pare, halve and core apples, fill center with sugar, cinnamon and a bit of butter. Place half an apple on each piece of dough, bring edges to center and press firmly together. Put in bread pan, add sufficient water to cover bottom of pan and bake in moderate oven.

At an afternoon tea my Canadian hostess served interesting variations on the ordinary hot tea biscuit. One was made like ordinary "pinwheel biscuit," rolled and cut across, but with roughly grated maple sugar in place of the actual cinnamon filling. The other had the dough mixed with orange marmalade diluted with water, in place of plain milk or water. This gave a very different flavor to the biscuits which were cut in an oval instead of a round shape but split and buttered in the usual way.

From these you can probably think of other variations for yourself. Some of the above dishes are good for school and business "carry lunches."

Problems of Dressmaking

PORTLAND, Or. — Dear Madam Richet: I have a jersey suit I would like to make over into a dress if possible. I have enclosed a sample so you may better know what it is like. The skirt is perfectly plain, having its pattern in front and a very few in the back. The sides are gored. There is a high length 20 1/2 with patch pockets and in the back there is a wide pleat the hangings are a pattern. I will give about four inches extra width. At present the suit is much too small. I wish to use the dress for maternity wear and also afterward. What way of making it would you suggest and what material can I combine it to have it large enough?

My usual measurements are as follows: Bust 28, waist 28, hips 45 to 44 inches. I am 5 feet 6 inches tall.

MRS. C. J. H. — For the use which you would have for the jersey I would suggest the model shown in McCall's Quarterly for fall, page 30, No. 2284. The long line rever will be especially kind and the soft and free line sash equally good. I would have the panel and the set-in front of black cation crepe with the jet-sey cloth forming a crosswise band trim at the lower portion of the revers. Have the width of bands about three-quarters of an inch and the set-in be of sufficient width that from time to time the waist opening of the top can be increased with assurance of the under finish being there. Unless you require the fullness in the back, I would let the pleat remain as it is. I do hope this will meet your need at this very treasured time.

SHELDON, Or. — Dear Madam Richet: I am enclosing my inquiry and answer of a month ago. I have tried to get the pattern mentioned and then have tried to get the pattern but neither seem possible to obtain in Portland. Would you please make another suggestion? Thanking you for the additional trouble I am. KATHLEEN.

Kathlyn Sheldon, Or. — The Elite styles are handled by a firm in the Morgan building, Portland. I am sorry you could not obtain your pattern. However, there is a model appearing in McCall's Quarterly for October, the very solution for the problem you now have. Page 21, No. 2284. The pleats should, of course be removed and thus a freedom produced in the blouse. Have the pleated section of the matching blue satin which is very much favored this season. The handwork I would have in the black rope silk and the satin can form the lower portion of sleeve, giving it the wider line should you fancy this scheme of change. The yoke will in no degree mar the line, for yokes are finding their way to the fashion world.

SPRINGFIELD, Or. — Dear Madam Richet: Inclosed you will find my request, also your answer. I cannot find that number in the August Designer on page 55, No. 3885, as that number is an error, as there must be a mistake in page, also number.

Will you kindly give this your earliest attention, as I would like to have the dress made for the second week in September for a certain occasion?

MRS. MABEL BURKE.

Mrs. Mabel Burke, Springfield, Or. — I sincerely regret the error made and will ask you to see the same page and number as stated but in the Designer for August. I have looked over the later issues with the idea that there might be a better model, but the original plan is by far the best.

Dear Madam Richet—Please suggest a way I could make over a dress like enclosed sample.

If a high-waisted with set-in sleeves, the skirt is 37 inches long and has two widths of 34-inch material in it. The yoke is too small. If possible please suggest a pattern from either the Pictorial Review, Designer or McCall's. I am 25 years old, weigh 115 pounds, am 5 feet 2 inches tall, brown hair and blue eyes. I would like to know what color of a slipover sweater you suggest for a girl of my type?

PEGGY—In the Butterick Quarterly, page 42, No. 3657, there is a model well worth your consideration. Combine your material with a crash or linen, the shade of the darker square. Do the handwork in the orange worsted to match the stripe in the material you have. I can promise you a very pretty and attractive frock.

The tan or sapphire blue should become you — and see the pretty models in the Craft and Needlework issues. The slipover type is splendid for general wear.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Wintler, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kertson, Mr. and Mrs. F. D'Arcy, Mrs. C. Meade, Miss Mildred Pratt, Miss Winnifred Meade, Miss Elda Lessing, Mr. Hodges and James Kertson.

HOPS DAMAGED BY PEST

Josephine County Growers Face Loss of About $50,000.

GRANTS PASS, Or., Sept. 12.—(Special.)—The hop crop of Josephine county will suffer a loss of $50,000 this year due to the red spider pest which got into the hops without being detected. When the picking was begun it was found that a large part of the crop of the county were infested.

The county agent has taken steps to combat the pest and the aid of the Oregon Agricultural college will be sought. It is probable that the atomic sulphur spray will be utilized, as the pest will also attack clover, alfalfa and certain fruits, which form the basis of the agricultural and horticultural farming in the Rogue valley. The county agent is certain that the pest will be eradicated this winter.
