

PROFESSOR DETAILS STORY OF BETRAYAL

Primitive Emotions Triumph Over Academic Stoicism.

SAVANT TORN BY AGONY

Husband of Woman Who Confessed Child Was by Another Tells Court of Sordid Triangle.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES. (By Chicago Tribune Licensed Wire.) SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 20.—John P. Tiernan, husband of a woman who confessed to a professor's sordid triangle.

Not as a legal expert, but as the husband of a self-confessed unfaithful wife, Mr. Tiernan late this afternoon told the court how he had charged Harry Poulin with the paternity of his wife's third child the day after Mrs. Tiernan had confessed to him and how Poulin had acknowledged his fatherhood, but begged for 24 hours in which to arrange a financial settlement.

With an agony of face and voice and body more convincing than his entire law library Professor Tiernan blazed out the sentences describing that meeting in front of the post-office at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of January 9, 1922.

Poulin Offers Friendship.

"I said, 'Harry, Gus has told me everything.' And he said, 'Yes, it's all true, but let's be friends, John, and I said, 'No, we'll always be bitter enemies.'"

Mr. Tiernan gulped as if choking as he continued. "Mr. Poulin wanted to know how much I would settle for and I said it would be somewhere in the neighborhood of $200, but Mrs. Tiernan would have to decide as she knew more about the bills for the birth of the child."

"What did Mr. Poulin say then?" asked Prosecutor Johnson.

"He said, 'Give me 24 hours to think it over,' and he agreed to meet me at the same time and the same place the next day," said the professor.

Almost as dramatic as the story of Poulin's admission of the paternity of Mrs. Tiernan's child was Professor Tiernan's testimony regarding the time he informed Harry Poulin that "We have a baby."

"It was November 23, 1921," said Mrs. Tiernan. "I said, 'It's a boy.' Mrs. Tiernan was subsequently to name William John after himself and his favorite brother."

Reputed Betrayer Hangs Head. "I was just going to board a street car when I met Mr. Poulin going home to lunch. I called to him, 'We have a baby.' He said excitedly, 'Is it a boy or girl?' I said, 'It's a boy.' He hung his head and walked away. He made no remark."

Across the room Harry Poulin hung his head and made remarks to his attorneys.

"Didn't he congratulate you?" the witness was asked.

"No," he did not, was the reply. Earlier in the afternoon Professor Tiernan recounted the series of ill-fated things, unnoted at the time of their specific happening, which are now recalled to emphasize the "friendly relations" between Mrs. Tiernan and Poulin. But the professor intent on academic duties and the preparation of a legal treatise, did not read the handwriting that primitive passion was writing on the wall.

He realized that his wife danced with Poulin four times to every time she danced with her husband. But he said with pathetic naïveté, "I always had the first dance with her."

Tiernan had not altogether blotted from memory, however, the recollection of a bathing party at Barron lake in August, 1921.

He received the invitation "indirectly" as a triple play from Mr. Poulin to Mrs. Tiernan to himself. The party left at 1 in the afternoon and he was the last to see Mrs. Tiernan at the university. He ate supper at home and hurried out to the lake just in time to find Poulin sitting at the table, assisted by the professor's wife. And at the conclusion of the meal, said Mr. Tiernan, "Mr. Poulin walked around the table and kissed all the ladies."

"Everyone present, including Mrs. Tiernan," the professor was asked.

"Yes, sir," he declared. The morning session ended in an impasse launched by the attorneys for the defense against Prosecutor Johnson who listened to their definition of his methods of trying to get the court to admit the testimony of Professor Tiernan regarding his intimate relations with his wife. But when the defense made use of the opportunity to imply that Allison had objected to trying the case before Judge Ducomb, the professor was unable to restrain himself. For five minutes cold law furnished more thrills than the hot session of ill-fated love. The judge finally adjourned court, after admonishing the attorneys to "settle" in the alley, not in the courtroom.

When the hearing continued this afternoon Judge Ducomb ruled that husband is not competent in a paternity suit, to testify regarding his marital relations with his wife.

ARREST EXPECTED IN CHURCH MURDER

OWNER OF GUN HUNTED

Minister's Wife's Brother Said to Have Denied That Revolver Was His Property.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The snare spread by the prosecuting and detective staffs of two courts on five days ago for the person or persons responsible for the double shooting of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, and Mrs. James Mills, choir singer in the church, were closing in tonight, the police said, on a man suspected of the crime.

"We will not be rushed in this case," said Prosecutor Stricker of Middlesex county. "To make an arrest now would be to open the way for habeas corpus proceedings, which would force us to disclose the lines along which we have been working."

Detective Totten and members of the prosecutor's staff of Somerset questioned every member of the family at the Hall home. Totten carried with him the revolver found yesterday, which was believed to be the weapon with which the clergyman and Mrs. Mills were killed. The detective quoted Willie Stevens as denying that the gun was his, while at the same time reiterating that he had a pistol.

Detective Totten said that he asked Willie Stevens, who is a town character, to repeat again his account of what he did on last Thursday night, the assumed time of the double shooting. Mrs. Hall had told the police early in the investigation that her brother accompanied her when she went to the church about midnight Thursday in quest of her husband. While declining at first to speak in corroboration of his sister's story, Willie was reported to have said later in a conversation at the fire house that he wasn't with his sister Thursday night. Detective Totten said that he had asked Willie Stevens during today's questioning.

JAIL SENTENCES GIVEN Liquor Operators Heavily Fined For Prohibition Violations.

W. P. O'Neal, arrested at 421 East Seventy-sixth street by morals squad officers Tuesday, received a 60-day jail sentence and a $500 fine on a charge of manufacture and possession of moonshine whisky from Municipal Judge Elwell yesterday. O'Neal declared that his product went for the flavoring of candies when he manufactures.

Appeal will be taken by Roy Hutchinson, who was fined $200, and given a 60-day jail sentence for possession and manufacture of moonshine. He was arrested at 4806 Forty-first avenue by morals squad officers. Andrew Scott, who was arrested with him, was discharged.

Schooner Owner Gets $750. ASTORIA, Or., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—The circuit court jury this afternoon returned a verdict awarding the plaintiff $750 in the case of Gerhard Flood, against the Rotterdam Lloyd of Rotterdam, Holland. The action was brought to recover for the loss of the plaintiff's gasoline launch, which was sunk last June near Westport by the defendant's steamer Bondowoso.

Farmers Warned Against Disease. BEND, Or., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—Deschutes county farmers are warned to take special precautions against the spread of potato diseases, by W. T. McDonald, recently appointed county agriculturist. He declared today that out of 27 fields entered for seed registration, 14 had been rejected because of the prevalence of wilt and leaf mosaic.

Club Finances in Good Shape. SALEM, Or., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—With debts aggregating only $2000, the financial affairs of the Salem Commercial club are in better shape present than for many years past, according to a report prepared by R. E. Duncan, secretary of the organization. The club activities during the past year have covered a wide scope, and the membership of the organization has been increased.

Vote Received in Silence. Announcement of the result of the voting was received in silence by both the membership and the fairly well filled galleries. The same was true in the senate.
