

FAIR IS POPULAR IN EASTERN OREGON

Sentiment Is Growing for 1925 Project.

BOOSTERS GET WELCOME

Citizens Openly Favor State Participation, Though Against General Tax.

LA GRANDE, Or., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—Sentiment for the 1925 exposition is growing in eastern Oregon. In the opinion of Mayor George L. Baker and other leaders of the caravan, based on the official response they have met with in the towns listed and on personal expressions from a large number of citizens at various points.

"It is my sober judgment," said Mayor Baker, "that the official response they have met with in the towns listed and on personal expressions from a large number of citizens at various points. This I believe to be due to the fact that through our efforts and through the publicity given them by the newspapers people are coming to understand us and to understand our plans. Such an understanding was what we needed and all that was needed. People are for us when they know what we are proposing. There is little sentiment that would support a general state tax for exposition purposes, but we have sold and still are selling the exposition idea and the people like it."

State Participation Aim. At Baker last night Mayor Baker told the audience, which completely filled the Baker theater, among other things, that participation in the fair was one of the things to be aimed at ultimately.

Mayor's Words Approved. Mayor Baker's words were received in Baker with plainly apparent approval. At other points along the route people approached and openly favored state participation, while generally frankly stating their belief that there should be no general state tax for the exposition.

Meeting Held in Open. A concrete dam built for the small cost of $20,000 raises the water of the lake eight feet in the spring and feeds ditches which irrigate 25,000 acres of land. The project was arranged and financed by farmers without outside aid.

Enterprise Presents Grouse. Entering the same automobiles at the close of the party was driven to Enterprise, where it was announced that the dining car had been presented with grouse enough for all the caravan by the citizens of the two towns.

Reaching Elgin at 2 o'clock the train was met by C. L. Hazen, president of the Elgin A. C. club, and E. J. Bailey, school superintendent, proceeding to the opera house, where Mr. Bailey presented Alfred A. Aya, chairman of the meeting.

Caravan Notes. Charles Piper, "still" photographer for Sandy, not familiar with a pet bear at Wallowa lake and as a result lost some spiders off of one arm. The chief casualty, however, was to a sleeve of his coat, which emerged a total wreck.

On the Joseph reception committee were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gaulke, former Portland residents. Mr.

Gaulke is a leading banker of Joseph. Rev. Charles McCaughey, Portland pastor, has won the reputation among the caravan speakers of being the champion funny story teller of the crowd. He opens every speech with an anecdote which gets his hearers laughing before he springs the more serious message.

Judge Walter Evans of Portland was upstairs holding court in the prominent condition at Enterprise, while the caravan was "doing its stuff" on the front steps outside.

They hauled Mayor Baker up town in a service truck at Wallowa. Another passenger in the machine was a live sheep, but the mayor and the sheep rode in perfect harmony and seeming mutual understanding. At La Grande tonight the citizens turned out with a brass band to welcome the caravan. A street parade was formed and marched to the tabernacle, where an enthusiastic meeting was held.

KNIFE USER CONFESSES

CHARLES ARNOLD STABBED BY J. E. WEATHERLEY.

Wounded Man Said to Have Been Aggressor in Fight at Labor Temple.

Charles Arnold, who is lying at the Good Samaritan hospital in a precarious condition from wounds received last Saturday which he insisted were caused by flying glass in an automobile accident, was stabbed by J. E. Weatherley, sheet metal worker, announced Stanley Myers, district attorney, yesterday.

A voluntary confession in which Weatherley contended that he acted in self-defense, was given to the district attorney Monday, but no information was released concerning it until yesterday.

Mr. Myers declared that he was convinced that Weatherley's story was true, as it was corroborated to some extent by Otto J. Hartwig and E. J. Stack, union labor officials, and that he would not be arrested unless Arnold preferred charges or died.

The affair took place in the corridors of the Labor temple last Saturday and the cuts were inflicted by a jackknife owned by Weatherley. Weatherley is married and has seven children. A small boy, 12 years old, Weatherley was attacked by Arnold, a large man of about 30 years, according to the story told the district attorney.

MURDER CHARGES MADE

Three Indicted by Grand Jury for Killing Indian.

TEE DALLE, Or., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—Five indictments were returned by the Wasco county grand jury today, three charging first degree murder, one based on a statutory charge and another charging insanity. The murder indictments were returned against William George, Columbia Dick and James White, all Indians, accused of murdering Jim Starr, also an Indian, in a drunken quarrel on the beach below the city.

The first named two are held in the county jail here. White is said to have escaped from jail in Toppensish, Wash., where he was arrested and being held for the local authorities.

The statutory charge was against Earl Gamber of Friend, who is alleged to have attacked a 14-year-old girl. The insanity complaint was brought in by the grand jury against Pacific Rosa, who several months ago beat Mrs. A. P. Watterson over the head and body with an iron bar, inflicting injuries from which she has not yet fully recovered.

LUMBERMAN IS ON VISIT

Timber Owner Confers Regarding Cowlitz Development.

KEISO, Wash., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—R. H. Munson of Williamsport, Pa., president of the Cowlitz lumber company, which has approximately 40,000,000 feet of timber in the vicinity of Spirit lake, is here for a conference with George W. Taylor, western manager of the company whose home is in Castle Rock, regarding the prospective development of this timber.

The company recently purchased the Metcalf & Harris boom above Keiso and boomage rights and also obtained right-of-way for the railway and rollways on the Smith place south of Castle Rock. The company has timber within less than a mile of the Cowlitz river and construction of a mile of railway will permit them to start logging operations.

Woman Seeks Legislative Job. SALEM, Or., Sept. 20.—(Special.)—Miss Alice E. Hanley of Medford has entered the contest for representative from Jackson county as an independent candidate, according to a petition filed with the state department here today.

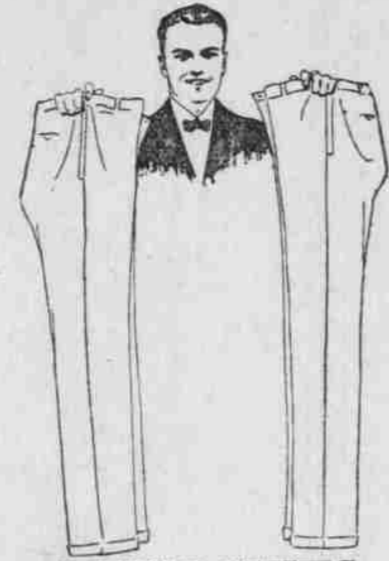

The petition included the signatures of 412 voters of Jackson county. There are two representatives to be elected from the Jackson county district. The candidates include John H. Carlin and Ralph P. Cowgill, republicans, and O. H. Johnson and J. O. Riggs, democrats.

CHURCH SESSION OPENS

NORWEGIAN METHODISTS HOLDING CONFERENCE.

Delegates From All Over Northwest Hear Reports on Missionary Activity.

The western conference of the Norwegian Methodist Episcopal church opened its annual session here yesterday with an eloquent address outlining the duties of the delegates in session delivered by the bishop of Helena, Mont., who is acting head of the western conference.

Delegates from various points of the Pacific coast are in attendance. Reports of committees on the various phases of church and missionary activity taken up during the past year occupied a greater part of the business session yesterday and these will be resumed today. Members of the various standing committees of the church have been here for several days preparing their official reports to be submitted at this conference.

Holy communion was administered by the presiding bishop, with the assistance of the elders, at the opening of the conference yesterday morning. Following the address of Bishop Burns, Rev. C. J. Larson, superintendent of the Pacific district, spoke briefly giving his report and requested that he be relieved from active duty.

The conference sermon for the visiting delegates and pastors was delivered by Rev. F. A. Scarvie of Portland. Rev. Melvin Olsen conducted the service last night.
