

REPUBLICAN PARTY ADVOCATES REFORM

istrict Economy Is Keypnote of State Conference.

OREGON LEADERS UNITED

Platform Deals With Big Issues, and Leaves Primary System to Will of Electorate.

(Continued From First Page.)... however, were spoken of in plain terms. The democratic candidate for governor was quoted as saying in his talk at Hood River that he does not believe in parties, and "show me corruption and I will show you party."

Resolutions Generally Sound. Report of the committee on resolutions was read by C. E. Ingalls of Corvallis, secretary of the state committee, immediately upon assembling the afternoon meeting. Willard L. Wainwright, state chairman, who presided, announced that any man who says that issues are greater than parties is simply looking for an excuse to bolt, and Chairman Toose's statement that all of the candidates for the republican nomination for governor have expressed their loyalty to the ticket with a single exception.

Delegates Not Hand-Picked. Seconding the motion for adoption of the report, Gus C. Moser of Portland took occasion to answer criticisms of the democratic press. He said that the delegates cannot be said to be hand-picked, for each has been elected or nominated by republican votes and therefore represents republican sentiment. He inquired how men could be secured for a meeting who would be making votes.

Republican Principles Clear. "Today we have declared the republican principles as we understand them. Our opponents say this is just a subterfuge to undermine the direct primary and re-establish the boss system, but we have reaffirmed our faith in the primary and pledge ourselves to protect the primary law. All democrats and republicans—recognizing there must be party government and not individual responsibility.

Party Spirit Revivified. "We have a programme and an objective and the republican party spirit," declared General White, "and now we should go out and attain our first objective, which is election of the entire ticket."

all." He said that there are some misguided people who labor under the delusion that the United States government is not competent to conduct its own affairs. J. D. Lee and L. L. Patterson, both of whom were candidates in the republican primaries for the nomination for governor, spoke and urged support of the ticket from top to bottom. The conference was opened with prayer by Colonel W. D. G. Mercer, veteran chaplain of the state senate, after which John C. Kendall of Coos bay submitted the report of the committee on rules, wherein it was decided the meeting should be known as the "republican platform conference."

COMMITTEEMEN IN SESSION Republican Leaders Consider Plans for Campaign. The executive committee of the republican central committee met at the conclusion of the general meeting to discuss plans for the coming campaign. All members of the committee were present except Harold Baldwin and E. C. Kirkpatrick. They are: E. B. Blanchard, Josephine; S. S. Smith, Jackson; George Neuner, Douglas; Willard L. Marks, Linn; Roy D. Smith, Hood River; Lloyd Riches, Malheur; Bruce Dennis, Union; Mrs. A. M. Dibble, Mrs. W. M. Calk, Mrs. C. E. Runyon, Mrs. Julius Louison, Mrs. Lee Davenport, Mrs. F. D. Northrup and Mrs. Edwin C. Giltner, of Portland, Mrs. Henry ing would be of greater benefit to the party nor more popular with real republicans everywhere than an opportunity to meet, discuss party affairs and adopt a set of principles. That men came here from all sections of the state at their own expense, many of them leaving important affairs at home to attend this meeting in the interest of their party, should be sufficient evidence of the serious interest in the matter that the people have. Every delegate present was there by direct vote of the people themselves and any insinuation to the contrary are made maliciously with a full knowledge of their falsehood. The resolutions adopted are sane and constructive. They embody every constructive plank contained in the 78 individual platforms adopted by candidates for the legislature. The platform is genuinely republican in its character and is one that every candidate for office in this state should be willing to take and defend as his own. It is not to be expected that every plank will meet entirely the wishes of every candidate, but any candidate who cannot accept the general principles therein contained should no longer pose as a republican, but get off and stand as an independent, where he belongs."

MASONS FORM LODGE

Mill City Gets Charter With Impressive Ceremonies. MILL CITY, Or., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—Masons from Salem, Albany and surrounding towns met in merry convalescence with visitors from distant states when Mill City lodge No. 189 was duly installed Saturday night under the direction of Frank J. Miller of Albany, past grand master of the state of Oregon. Two hundred guests with 45 members of Mill City lodge gathered at the banquet table. Later the Masons marched to the lodge hall, where Mill City lodge was installed as the youngest lodge in Oregon. Ceremonies of installation were under the direction of George G. Brown of Salem, grand master of the state of Oregon, Frank J. Miller, past grand master, and W. W. Allen, worshipful master of the Mill City lodge.

Mill Closed Many Months.

TUALATIN, Or., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—Tualatin is awaiting the opening of the Tualatin Lumber company's sawmill, which has been closed for many months. Efforts are under way to get the Oregon Electric to construct a spur to the pond so that the logs can come by rail instead of being shipped down

ENOZ KILLS MOTHS. (Won't stain or injure the most delicate fabrics) Moths work all year 'round Use Enoz now—save your clothes Remember that each female moth miller lays from 80 to 220 eggs. Every egg can develop into a moth worm. And just one worm can destroy your most prized sweater—sport skirt—wool hose—or summer suit. A moth egg is about the size of a pin point. You can't see it with your naked eye. So although your clothes may seem free from moths you can't know how many eggs are hidden in them. And the moth miller always lays the eggs where they are hidden—in the seams and folds. You never see them until they hatch into worms. Enoz is the original, guaranteed moth-killer. Not a drop of water—not an atom of grease in it. It can't stain or injure the most delicate-fabrics, furs, feathers or upholstery. You can use it freely on your finest things. It can't harm them. Yet it is so powerful it kills every moth—every moth worm and, what is more important it destroys the eggs. Being a fine spray it penetrates into the hidden places and destroys every vestige of moth life. It doesn't merely "smell" moths away. It kills them. Moths work all the year 'round. You may not see them flying this winter but the eggs already laid will be hatching into moth worms which will continue to eat and destroy. That is why you sometimes find a garment all eaten to bits, when you thought it was free from moths. A pint of Enoz and a Sprayer costs only $1.60. Your druggist or department store has it. Will you spend that amount to be sure that none of the garments you are putting away for the winter will be destroyed by moths? In Answer to Thousands of Inquiries You know that a rifle powerful enough to kill an elephant will kill a coyote. Enoz kills moths—the toughest of household pests. Of course it kills other household insects. If your home, office, warehouse, mill or plant is infested with any insect you don't understand our Department of Entomology and Research will be glad to help you, without charge. Enoz is packed in large containers for industrial use. ENOZ CHEMICAL CO. 705-7 N. Wells Street, Chicago. Sold by ENOZ BUTZER SEED STORE Front and Taylor Sts., Portland, Or.

CORNS Lift Off with Fingers. Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Adv.
