K. K. KUBBLI CLAIMS 35 SUBSIDIARY NOTES

Opponents in Speakership Contest Also Busy.

BURDICK MAKING RACE

Eastern Oregon Man Has Strong Lineup and Works With Kay of Marion.

"I have the speakership sewed up," declared K. K. Kubli of Multnomah county yesterday.

According to Mr. Kubli, the contest for speaker, which has been in progress since the day the primary votes were counted, is over. Others who are aspiring to that position have not given up the fight, however.

"I have," continued Mr. Kubli, "35 votes pledged to me in writing, verbally, and there is not a mistake about any one of them. In addition, I have a couple of votes on ice, which I am not at liberty to discuss at this time."

There are 60 members in the house of representatives and the constitutional majority is 31. Of the 60 prospective members, for not one will be elected until November. Mr. Kubli claims as committed to him more than sufficient to insure his elevation to the chair of presiding officer.

Second Choices Pledged.

"Not only have I 35 solid votes," declared the Multnomah aspirant, "but I have the second choice votes of many men who are now pledged on their first vote to someone else."

Mr. Kubli explained that in pursuance of the usual political routine, he cannot divulge the names of his supporters at this time. Not until his supporters have been elected in November, he says, will he make public the list of pledges which he has been gathering for the past four months. After that date there will be no occasion to conceal the identity of the legislators who are in the Kubli camp.

Only One Can Be Prevented.

"The only way I can be prevented from being elected speaker," Mr. Kubli said, "is for about ten of my supporters to be defeated in the general election. If they are, I will be a republican state like Oregon is inconceivable."

Opponents Continue Fight.

Those who are opposing Kubli acknowledge that he has a large number of votes, but they refuse to concede that he has enough to make him speaker. There is a coalition against Kubli, but if Kubli's figures are correct, and all not now pledged to him go together, the opposition can muster but 25 votes, or six less than the needed majority.

At present, the foremost contender with Kubli is Denton G. Burdick of Deschutes, Jefferson, Crook, Klamath and Lake counties. Thomas B. Kay of Marion county has an agreement with Burdick, but since the agreement there have been few changes on the surface. Unless Burdick or Kay soon begins showing new gains, there is a probability that a dark horse will come into the field. Tom T. Bennett of Coos county, now a Burdick supporter, is a possible dark horse and Herbert Gordon of Multnomah is another.

Easterners Lined Up.

Mr. Burdick is the eastern Oregon candidate and while he has the pledges of a majority of the prospective representatives east of the Cascade mountains, he does not have all of them in his basket. In fact, Kubli is calculating about five eastern Oregon representatives himself, with a prospect of two more. Mr. Kay has several votes in the valley, which have come to him for personal reasons, but there is doubt whether Kay can switch them to anyone else.

When the coalition was formed, Kubli says that he then went out to solicit second-choice votes among men supposed to be committed to Burdick and Kay, and in this he is said to have achieved satisfactory results.

Speakership is Discussed.

During the republican state conference the speakership was a live topic among the many legislative candidates who were mobilized in Portland and it is said that several changes in the situation developed at that time. Kubli, Burdick, Kay, Gordon and Bennett were all active at that time among the pledged and unpledged party nominees who were in the city.

Since the conference an independent has been placed in the field in Coos county against Bennett and another independent has been brought out in Lane county. There is also an independent in Jackson county. As a rule, an independent candidate does not cut much figure in a general election.

Problems of Dressmaking by Madam Richey

PORTLAND, Or.—Dear Madam Richey: Like many others, I am coming to you for help in planning two dresses. I have sufficient material (like sample) for skirt of dress. Could you kindly suggest a material for waist and trimming, and also a pattern?

I have also started a black taffeta dress. It has a tight, fitted waist, and scalloped skirt and puffs in the sleeves. Could you help me in choosing one color and material for the collar? It is a Peter Pan.

Am 15 years old, 5 feet 2 inches, weigh 120 pounds and have golden brown hair and blue eyes and lots of color.

PORTLAND, Or.—Dear Madam Richey: Will you kindly select a pattern to make over voile dress like enclosed sample? Would like it to wear for an afternoon house dress.

The dress is now made like enclosed picture, except sleeves, which I would like short, and skirt has a 3-inch fold which I can let down. Skirt is faced at bottom and is two yards in width. Would like organza to match blue in material be suitable for trimming? I wore white vest and collar with it before, which I don't care for. I have about a yard of new voile also.

Am about 5 feet 8 inches in height and weigh about 130 pounds. Am short-waisted; have hazel eyes and auburn brown hair, and fair skin, not much color; age 32 years.

Also will you please suggest style, color and material for silk dress for street and informal wear? MRS. G.

—There is really little to do for the voile as the style is very good. Use the new voile for the vest and that your dress will seem more a winter house dress. I would not use the organza but a blue taffeta matching your material. Try to bring your waist to a longer line than is indicated in picture and where over the seam of joining the strands of taffeta and voile entwined in what is called the turban girdle. End at the left side in a flat knot from under which let fall the half inch velvet ribbons; they too matching the roses in the voile. Remove the collar and replace with a taffeta. With this change you will have a frock for the house and the spring will hook you gardenward with an "all-made and perfectly good dress."

For dress which will meet the street wear I would not at this season of the year select the silk fabric but rather the twill with the blouse of all-over embroidered cloth, a thing which all tall women carry, for they balance the weight which the latter named fabric suggests. You ask for a style and I am sure that the one shown in the October Elite, page 21, No. 4197 D, will be the very thing you desire. The full skirt and circular fall is excellent for your length.

Housewife's Idea Box

Use Iodine on Brown Shoes.

CHILDREN usually scuff the toes of their shoes. If they are brown shoes a good way to cover these places is to paint them with iodine before polishing the shoes. Or, if you do not like to use iodine, it is just as good for the shoes of grownups. Try the iodine on a small spot. If the color is too dark for the shoe, rub the iodine with water until you reach the desired color.

NEAR EAST HELP ASKED

AMERICA URGED TO JOIN IN PROTECTION.

President Harding is advised of Resolutions Adopted by Portland Organizations.

J. J. Handaaker, state director of the Near East relief, dispatched a telegram yesterday to President Harding advising him of the adoption of resolutions by various Portland organizations urging this country to assume its share of responsibility in the protection of Christians in the near east and to seek an opportunity to co-operate with other nations in the coming conference. The telegram follows: "Seventy churches of Oregon, representing 26,000 communicants, a mass meeting of Portland citizens, the Oregon Civic League, the state Near East relief conference and the conference of the Scandinavian Methodist churches have adopted the following resolution: "Realizing that the Smyrna horrors may be repeated at Constantinople and elsewhere in the near east, we earnestly hope that America will assume her full share of responsibility to protect Christian minorities of the near east and will seek opportunity to co-operate with other Christian nations in the coming near east conference."

Courthouse Removal Up.

KALAMA, Wash., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—One thousand seven hundred and forty-seven names were signed to the petition for the removal of the Cowitt county courthouse from Kalama to Kelso, which was presented to the county commissioners Tuesday and later filed with the auditor. Only 1400 names were required to put the question before the voters. A very stiff fight is anticipated, as Kalama has won out on this subject several times before.
