ALLIES AND TURKS MEET IN MUDANIA

Neutral Zone at Dardanelles One Issue.

THRACE ALSO IS PROBLEM

Conference Is Opened in Greatest Secrecy.

GREEKS ARRIVE LATE

Newspaper Correspondents Shut Out From Sessions; Communiqués Promised.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—The preliminary conference for the settlement of peace in the near east began at Mudania today with the allies general and Ismet Pasha, representing the Turkish nationalists, present. The meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, but was adjourned to Wednesday to permit the attendance of the Greek representatives.

The two most important questions to be taken up were the demarcation of a neutral zone on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles and the evacuation of Thrace.

Newspaper correspondents have been excluded from the sessions, daily communiqués on progress having been promised.

Greek Delegates Arrive.

General Mazarakis and Colonel Barriyannis, who were yesterday appointed by the Greek cabinet to represent Greece at the conference on behalf of Greece, arrived at Mudania on a Greek destroyer and will take their places at the conference table tomorrow.

General Harington, commander-in-chief of the allied forces, will deal with the military questions in the negotiations as he deems best, a free hand having been given him by his government in these matters. Subjects of a political or economic nature will be referred to the allied high commissioners who will communicate with their governments. The commissioners will be in continuous contact with Mudania by wireless.

Control of Greeks Urged.

The allied ministers in Constantinople were understood to have drawn the attention of the Greek government to the necessity of keeping the Greek troops in Thrace under control so as to avoid the possibility of a conflict. This was due to representations of the Ankara government that the Mohammedan population in Thrace were suffering exactions at the hands of the Greeks, and that the Greek troops were in a dangerous state of unrest.

Up to tonight the Turks had made no real preparations for their withdrawal from the neutral zone, and, according to an official report, their slight retirement today was not of appreciable depth.

PARLEY SETTING IS UNIQUE

Presence of Warships at Mudania Seems Incongruous.

MUDANIA, Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Never was there a stranger setting for a conference of world powers than this little village on the southern shore of the Sea of Marmora. Even the presence of the great warships of England, France and Italy seemed incongruous in the tiny cove belted with rocks and mud which is Mudania's harbor, for their only neighbors were a few scattered fishing boats and nondescript barges.

Never was there a stranger setting for a conference of world powers than this little village on the southern shore of the Sea of Marmora. Even the presence of the great warships of England, France and Italy seemed incongruous in the tiny cove belted with rocks and mud which is Mudania's harbor, for their only neighbors were a few scattered fishing boats and nondescript barges.

A few hundred yards from the point selected for the anchorage of the great Iron Duke lay the gaunt skeletons, half submerged, of two Turkish transports sunk by British submarines during the world war. There is no sound of railway or motor truck to disturb. There is no evidence of modern life.

Such was the setting of the conference to which the military representatives of the allied powers hurried across 70 miles of water from Constantinople.

The British delegation included the commander-in-chief, Brigadier-General Sir Charles Harington and Colonel W. H. Gibbons and Major T. G. Heywood of the general staff.

JUDGE FREES SLAYER WHO PLEADS GUILTY

INDIAN DISCHARGED AFTER PALS WIN LIBERTY.

Wasco Circuit Court Rules That to Send Man to Prison Would Be Travesty on Justice.

THE DALLES, Or., Oct. 3.—(Special.)—All precedent in the history of the Wasco county circuit court was broken when Judge Wilson this morning freed Columbia Dick, an Indian, the confessed slayer of a fellow tribesman, Jim Starr. Altogether three Indians were involved in the killing, according to the testimony of witnesses at a preliminary hearing. George Billie and William George were tried on a charge of manslaughter and acquitted by Wasco county juries. Columbia Jack pleaded guilty to the charge, and was to have been sentenced upon the completion of the trial of his associates.

"It would be a travesty on justice for me to send this man to the penitentiary with others at large who are more responsible than he for the crime that was committed," Judge Wilson declared.

"While he may have been at the scene of the murder and may have had something to do with it, I would never feel at ease if I sent this man to prison. While I recognize that this man has entered a plea of guilty," the judge continued, "he has been very evident to the court that there was pressure behind his plea."

A companion fired at a bird and struck Myllesbeck in the face. One shot lodged back of his left eye and he may lose the sight of this optic.

ISOLATION IS HIT BY 23,000 BANKS

Partial Cut in War Debt, if Necessary, Favored.

CONVENTION ENTHUSIASTIC

Overwhelming Sentiment for Change Is Encountered.

BRANCH BANK IS ISSUE

Gathering Is Divided on Question Which Is Expected to Dominate Remaining Sessions.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—An overwhelming sentiment favoring America's abandonment of her policy of isolation from European affairs and the substitution of a policy which might even involve partial cancellation of the allied war debt today swept through the convention of the American Bankers' association.

The subject was broached by Thomas W. Lamont, associate of J. Pierpont Morgan, whose plea in behalf of American "unselfishness" turned the convention into an uproar as the 10,000 delegates, representing 23,000 banks in the United States, voiced their approval.

The movement gained momentum when Mr. Lamont's plea was echoed by Thomas B. McAdams, president of the bankers' national organization; Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador to France, and other nationally known figures.

Great Surprise Expressed.

Financial leaders, who asserted that until recently the question of debt cancellation had brought protests from small and large bankers throughout the country, expressed great surprise at the changed attitude evidenced today. A year ago, they pointed out, a proposal similar to the one cautiously advanced by Mr. Lamont was emphatically turned down by the association.

Formal action on the question of European debts to this government or the formulation of a definite programme of new loans and trade contracts is not expected of this convention, however. Leaders declared they were satisfied with the evidence that bankers of the country are amenable to America's more active participation in foreign financial stabilization and will depend upon the early development of a public opinion which will justify the administration in making overtures to the foreign nations concerning the possibility of a basis for readjustment settlement.

The discussion will be resumed tomorrow, when Right Hon. Reg.

THE OREGONIAN BUYS POWERFUL RADIO SET

NORMAL RANGE 1500 MILES; 3500 OFTEN REACHED.

New Instruments Eliminate All "Dead" Spots Within 100-Mile Radius.

THE OREGONIAN'S NEW BROADCASTING SET

Type—Western Electric, 500-watt set; first of kind west of Rocky mountains. Range—Normally 1500 miles, heard as far as 3500 miles. All "dead spots" within 100-mile radius eliminated. Modulation—Perfect clearness guaranteed by manufacturer. Classification—Eligible for government's new class B license, sending on 400 meters and at any hour without interfering with other broadcasting.

Record—In the east this type of set has been found the finest made, a great step forward in radio broadcasting.

One of the most powerful radio broadcasting sets in America, and the first of its type and energy to be operated west of the Rocky mountains, has been purchased by The Oregonian and will be installed immediately. The installation of the 500-watt set, built by the Western Electric company, is of moment to thousands of radio fans as it will afford a service heretofore unparalleled on the Pacific coast. The new set, which is the engineering department of the Western Electric company, and A. H. McMillan, northwest radio specialist of the same company, are now in the city for the purpose of making a survey of the station and preparing for the installation. Mr. Evans was dispatched from New York city for the express purpose of giving expert advice respecting the new station and its intricate equipment.

The normal range of the great set will be 1500 miles, though identical sets have been heard more than 3500 miles. Broadcasting from such equipment, at the station of the Western Electric building in New York, was clearly heard 1000 miles at sea on the Pacific and duly reported. A similar set in Atlanta, Ga., from the station of the Atlanta Journal, is commonly picked up by radio fans of the Pacific northwest. It has been recently installed a set of this type and within a week had received reports of its programmes from 46 states, including many reports from Oregon.

With the low-power transmission sets hitherto operated in Portland and the northwest, it has been necessary for radio enthusiasts to use amplifiers and loud-speaking devices, often with the lamentable result that both music and speech were distorted. The high-power set will eliminate the use of such devices by listeners, who by using merely a phonograph sound chamber.

WOMAN IS APPOINTED SENATOR FOR GEORGIA

MRS. W. P. FELTON, 83, TO FILL WATSON'S TERM.

Appointee Declares Nation Will Be Thrilled by News; Courage of Governor Praised.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—A woman from Georgia today won the distinction of being the first of her sex to obtain appointment to the United States senate when Mrs. W. P. Felton of Cartersville, long known as the "grand old woman of Georgia," was named by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick as senator to succeed the late Thomas E. Watson, until the November elections, when a successor will be chosen at the polls. Mrs. Felton is 87 years of age and has been prominent in state politics for nearly half a century.

Mrs. Felton has accepted the office and in expressing her gratitude for the honor declared that it will thrill the nation when the news is conveyed from the lakes to the Gulf that a woman has been chosen to become a member of the United States senate.

"England borrowed an American-born woman," she said, "to sit in the British parliament, but noble old Georgia experienced no need to borrow and she alone of the 48 states in the United States had a governor with courage to say so, and to confirm the saying by an executive proclamation."

Before tendering the appointment to Mrs. Felton, Governor Hardwick, through mutual friends, offered the office to Mrs. Thomas E. Watson, widow of Senator Watson, who the governor said declined it because of ill health.

Mrs. Felton was born in DeKalb county, Georgia, June 10, 1835. She was the oldest child of Charles and Eleanor (Swift) Lattimer. She was married October 11, 1853, to Dr. W. H. Felton, who died in 1909. Five children were born to the union, but only one of them, Dr. Howard E. Felton, survives.

The New United States Senator

was one of two Georgia women on the executive committee at the Columbian exposition in 1893. She has always taken an active and lively interest in civic affairs. In the interest of temperance she toured Georgia in 1886-87.

REPUBLICAN IRE AROUSED IN IOWA

Party Candidate for Senator Denounced.

AID PLEDGED TO DEMOCRAT

Brookhart, Primary Nominee, Declared Radical.

RED PURPOSES ALLEGED

Hawkeye Republicans Start Campaign to Elect Candidate They Consider Safe.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Resolutions were adopted at a meeting of 200 Iowa Republicans here this afternoon denouncing Smith W. Brookhart, republican candidate for United States senator, and pledging support to Clyde L. Herring, democratic candidate.

Plans for a state-wide campaign among republicans to bolt the candidacy of Colonel Brookhart, who was nominated over a field of five other candidates at the June primary, were perfected at today's meeting.

An executive committee composed of leaders in the 11 congressional districts of the state was appointed with power to organize precinct committees for the purpose of bringing about the defeat of Colonel Brookhart. W. H. Powell, editor of the Ottumwa Courier, was named chairman of this committee.

Colonel Brookhart was denounced in practically every one of the scores of speeches made at today's meeting as a radical with socialist sympathies.

Herring Not Mentioned.

Herring was not mentioned by name in the resolution, but was referred to as "the only candidate for United States senator who is opposing socialism."

"We, the republicans of Iowa, speaking for ourselves, but voicing the sentiment of a great majority of those who regularly support republican principles, and being ourselves in full accord with the platform and aims of our party," the resolution reads, "do challenge the candidacy of the man whose name appears on the republican ticket as a candidate for senator of the United States."

"He has sought and captured a nomination by the republican party to promote principles and ideas in government which are not republican principles and never have been."

"His profession of republican principles can never camouflage his gross misrepresentation of the republican platform which was adopted by a convention of republican representatives and spokesmen."

"His constant appeal and invitation to democrats and socialists to vote for him is an acknowledgment of his insincerity as a republican candidate."

"If elected to the United States senate he would give voice in the name of republicans to class conflict, to radicalism and vagaries for the nationalization or socialization of private industry."

"He affiliates with avowed enemies of our government who are seeking the overthrow of fundamental national institutions; who deny the right of private property; who would take from the farmers all title to their lands and vest the same in the state; who demand periodic redistribution of other property; the most extreme of whom deny the existence of a supreme creator and mock the honored institutions of marriage and the family; who would supplant the authority of the courts with the rule of the mob; who preach the gospel of discontent and are themselves the harbingers of revolution."

"The language he talks is their language; the spirit he voices is their spirit; the things he advocates are in harmony with their purposes; their spokesmen insist rightfully that he advocates their doctrines, and he is in fact their candidate and not ours."

"Since the date of the June primaries it has developed that on February 21 last he attended a meeting in Chicago, which also was attended by Hillquit, Berger and Hoan, prominent socialists, by Townley of the non-partisan league and by Foster of the I. W. W."

"He knew the character of his associates in that meeting of radicals, and he came away from it with their indorsement and support in his candidacy, which he could not not have received nor retained unless he deserved it from them."

"When republicans find themselves without a republican who is a good faith running for an important office and they are therefore limited to a choice between a democrat and a spokesman of socialism, they must accept the democrat as an exponent of misguided political and economic judgment."

THOMAS W. LAWSON NOT AT PRINEVILLE

WHEREABOUTS OF MISSING FINANCIER STILL UNKNOWN.

Daughter and Husband Have No Knowledge of Disappearance From Boston Home.

BEND, Or., Oct. 3.—(Special.)—Henry McCall, rancher in the Prineville section, interviewed by long distance telephone from here to night, declared that neither he nor his wife, Mr. Lawson's daughter, had any knowledge of the whereabouts of Thomas Lawson, reported to have disappeared from his home in Boston. The questions formed the first information they had received of his disappearance. Mr. McCall said. He attached no particular significance to the report, however, declaring Lawson frequently disappeared. He had no knowledge that Lawson might have planned a trip to central Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. McCall did not take the disappearance at all seriously.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 3.—Thomas W. Lawson, financier whose fortunes have suffered the latest fall of a fluctuating career, was missing today.

Lawson recently had to put his south-shore estate, Dreamland, on the auction block to make up for stock-market losses. Relatives, business associates and friends were without word from him since he left the home of his sister, Miss Mary Lawson, at Southwest Harbor, Me., yesterday.

It appeared to be fairly well agreed among those interested that, upset over the loss of the home-stand which he built and furnished at a cost of about three and one-half millions, and in which he had brought up his family, now scattered by death and marriage, he had decided to go somewhere for a change of scene. The ranch home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry McCall, at Prineville, Or., was considered the most likely place.

With the financier, who is now in his 65th year, is a maid, a servant of many years' service in the Lawson home. She has always accompanied him to care for his things, his associates said, and when he decided suddenly yesterday morning to leave his sister's summer home he directed the maid to accompany him.

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

(Copyright by The New York Tribune. Published by Arrangement.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(Special.)—

The tumult and the shouting are now only a few hours distant. The captains and the camps are here. The advance guard of the fanatical army corps is on its way to the park and outside the park, the routine work of packing 10,000 fans into the big stadium of the Polo grounds there is no world series preliminary left at this hour until "Bullet" Joe Bush of the Yankee staff steps briskly forward at 2 P. M. tomorrow to match his blazing speed against the deceptive repertoire of Arthur Nehf, the Giant left-hander who closed out the championship upon the same field a year ago.

Nine years ago this fall a young right hander from Brainerd, Minn., pitching for the Athletics, made his world series debut by halting the Giants' attack. Then, at the age of 21, he was then just 21 years old, practically unknown to the big crowd that expected to see his hide removed at any moment. Yet as a novice he held the Giants to five scattered hits. Today, at the age of 30, with more stuff than he has ever known, through the greatest season of his career, the same Bullet Bush will make a valiant attempt to start the Yankees in the right direction by beating the game and crafty Nehf.

Yanks Struggle 21 Years.

For 21 years the New York Yankees have been struggling to reach the top of the game, and if Bush keeps back the left-handed defense of Nehf today the American leaguers of Manhattan will be on their way to glory with Shawkey.

Hoyt and Mays wait to face any selections which McGraw may elect to rush into future action. It is in this series that many fans get a decisive answer within a week after the drama is spread out before them and the heroes and the Goats are awarded the decorations that belong.

Thousands of Yankee fans will start for the Polo Grounds today, fixed in their belief that after the long drought in the wilderness their ball club at last is poised upon the border of the promised land. They have not underrated the managerial genius of McGraw, nor have they overlooked the speed, brawn and guile of McGraw's men. But they are far enough along in the wiles and ways of the game to know just how much a heavy advantage in pitching strength means and they are confident that Bush, Shawkey, Hoyt and Mays will be able to interpose four right arms that will block any Giant advance.

The study of the two fan camps is one of the most interesting angles of the series. Giant followers willingly acknowledge the pitching superiority of their rivals. They are not leaving for the battlefield with any of the radiant optimism that covers the Yankees line of march. But through the closing days of the winter when the test reached the dusty streets they saw McGraw maneuver his way safely by all trouble with a ball club that hit the ball and scored enough runs to win game after game.

Blind Faith Carried.

They saw the supposedly crippled Giant ship safely docked while the stronger Yankee craft was still out struggling with the game and won't, barely able by the margin of a game to make a landing in the nick of time.

And so just as many thousands will carry to the ball park this blind faith in McGraw and his hard hitting, fast fielding club, figuring that in some way enough good pitching will come around to pull the Giants safely through. There will be a number of opportunities for both camps to expand the human lung and leave the atmosphere rife with
