

NEAR EAST RELIEF DRIVE IS INDORSED

President Harding Authorizes Appeal for Funds.

U. S. CHARITY IS ASKED

Special Committee Named to Help Gather Money for Assisting Refugees From Turks.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—A nation-wide appeal for funds for relief of the thousands of refugees in the near east was authorized today by President Harding.

This statement was issued by the president. "A recognized and most appalling emergency exists in the near east. After full conference it is unanimously agreed that the American Red Cross and the Near East Relief, two governmentally recognized organizations, are the logical instrumentalities through which this relief may be extended.

A special committee has been named to assist in the emergency joint appeal. The committee is headed by the American Red Cross and the Near East Relief, two governmentally recognized organizations, are the logical instrumentalities through which this relief may be extended.

Money may be sent to Elliot Walworth, treasurer of the American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer of Near East Relief, 151 Fifth avenue, New York, or the Literary Digest, 104 Fourth avenue, New York. A special emphasis and appeal for funds will be made during the roll call of the Red Cross in November.

Committee Is Named.

The relief work already afforded will be followed at once by the most prompt administration which the American Red Cross and Near East Relief can bestow in co-ordinate efforts, proceeding on the assumption that the heart of the American people will respond generously in enabling these agencies of relief to meet the emergency.

Announcement that additional measures for relief in the near east already had been taken was made tonight by Charles V. Vickery, general secretary of the Near East Relief. Three purchases of cargo boats have been made and a fourth ship, the Sargis, is now loading at Philadelphia for Constantinople.

WARSHIPS NOW TARGETS

DREADNOUGHTS GIVEN OVER TO GUNNERS AND BOMBERS.

Vessels Costing More Than $15,000,000 Each Junk Dealers Offer Only $20,000.

LONDON.—Having found no buyers for the great group of battleships which the Washington conference decreed to be scrapped, Great Britain is using the monsters as targets for the gunners of the royal navy and the bombers of the United States and France.

Thunderer, Monarch, Conqueror, Colossus, Lion, Ajax, Centurion, King George V, Princess Royal, Erin and Orion, monsters of 20,000 or more tons, once the pride of the Seven Seas, are all doomed. Costing more than $15,000,000 originally, junk dealers have offered the government only $20,000 apiece for them.

The heavy iron engaged in a series of target tests on the famous battleships Agamemnon and Superb, which like their sister ships, are to find their graves in the ocean at the hands of the gunners and Jack taws that once manned them. The admiralty is trying by these tests to determine how direct hit can be prevented from passing from the turret down the ammunition tube.

In the battle of Jutland, invisible, indetectable and Queen Mary Law up because of a flash passing from the ammunition tube to the magazine being so superbly so in the English channel and is being shelled at punishing ranges to see whether or not the flash of explosion cause down to the powder and hell magazines under given conditions.

Agamemnon, too, may soon need a successor. She is a moving target, more difficult to hit than Superb, which is stationary. She is propelled by oil. The supply of oil is turned on her engines are started, and the engineers flee from her before she gathers too much headway. Her speed as well as her steering apparatus are controlled by wireless in another ship.

The most exciting part of these tests is that played by the sloop Spadragon. She is responsible for taking accurate motion pictures of what happens to the target as the result of the shot. At times she runs the risk of being hit by the monster armor-piercing projectiles as well as being rammed by the 26-foot-ton Agamemnon.

BASEBALL CZAR, IN NEW YORK FOR SERIES, MEETS FELLOW TOWNSWOMAN.

JUDGE LANDIS AND MRS. CLARENCE B. CHADWICK. Snapped as they met in the lobby of the Hotel Commodore—where he is staying during the world's series period and where she is attending the annual convention of the American Bankers' association—Ex-Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, his commissioner of baseball, and Mrs. Clarence B. Chadwick of Chicago, who is active in the Chicago Civic Opera association and other club affairs as well as in finance, were a center of interest last Tuesday.

GIANTS TAKE PENNANT

FURIOUS UPHILL BATTLE IS WON FROM YANKS.

Two Runs Let In When Huggins Differs With Pitcher in Strategic Programme.

(Continued From First Page.)

The sudden command plainly displeased Bush. He wanted to work things out his own way. He warmed up his congue with a couple of hot words and then shouted at Huggins, "Let a play baseball." Huggins was insistent, and he repeated his signal to pass young Bush. Bush obeyed. His face showed his disapproval at each of the four wide throws to the catcher.

And Kelly, who has eight-handed, appeared at the plate. The next was a speedy curve.

It cracked off Kelly's bat and into center at a fast clip, scoring Frisch and Meusel. Huggins had guessed wrong. Bush perhaps had won a moral victory, but never, think else was lost.

Still apparently bereft of his temper, Bush lobbed a key throw up to the plate and King killed it, but the ball fell foul near the left-field bleachers. He swung earlier the next time and dropped a Texas leaguer back of short, scoring Young.

For a time this afternoon it seemed the Yankees had awakened from a spell of dumbness in which they tossed away every opportunity to win that came to them. But they never appeared so much awake as did the bright and snappy Giants, who seemed day by day, in every way, to grow better and better.

The Yankees simply could not run the bases well. They were apparently wiser in that branch of their business. This, at least, was the impression that prevailed when they tossed away the hope of an over-run when Scott was boxed on the third-base line after Bush had singled.

Bush's Single Is Dropped. The single by Bush was dropped in center field and Ward scored on it. Scott, who had just singled, followed Bush and went to third safely. Huggins was coaching there. Some thought the Yanks had learned a lesson yesterday, when Mettray's runners twice returned hits so speedily that runners were tagged between bases. Today was another day with Scott. However, he overran the bag and was caught.

Facing the fast-breaking curves of Neff, the Yanks, as had been their custom through all the series, played along for one run at a time, while the Giants stuck to their rushing while habit of letting the hits fall where they might in the hope of rushing several runners over the plate. The Yankees were held to five hits by Neff.

A single by Dugan, a sacrifice by Ruth and Pipp's single gave Bush one run to start with in the first inning. The Giants took the lead in the second, getting two runs on Meusel's single, Young's walk, Kelly's sacrifice and a single by Cunningham.

GIANTS TAKE PENNANT

FURIOUS UPHILL BATTLE IS WON FROM YANKS.

Two Runs Let In When Huggins Differs With Pitcher in Strategic Programme.

(Continued From First Page.)

The sudden command plainly displeased Bush. He wanted to work things out his own way. He warmed up his congue with a couple of hot words and then shouted at Huggins, "Let a play baseball." Huggins was insistent, and he repeated his signal to pass young Bush. Bush obeyed. His face showed his disapproval at each of the four wide throws to the catcher.

And Kelly, who has eight-handed, appeared at the plate. The next was a speedy curve.

It cracked off Kelly's bat and into center at a fast clip, scoring Frisch and Meusel. Huggins had guessed wrong. Bush perhaps had won a moral victory, but never, think else was lost.

Still apparently bereft of his temper, Bush lobbed a key throw up to the plate and King killed it, but the ball fell foul near the left-field bleachers. He swung earlier the next time and dropped a Texas leaguer back of short, scoring Young.

For a time this afternoon it seemed the Yankees had awakened from a spell of dumbness in which they tossed away every opportunity to win that came to them. But they never appeared so much awake as did the bright and snappy Giants, who seemed day by day, in every way, to grow better and better.

The Yankees simply could not run the bases well. They were apparently wiser in that branch of their business. This, at least, was the impression that prevailed when they tossed away the hope of an over-run when Scott was boxed on the third-base line after Bush had singled.

Bush's Single Is Dropped. The single by Bush was dropped in center field and Ward scored on it. Scott, who had just singled, followed Bush and went to third safely. Huggins was coaching there. Some thought the Yanks had learned a lesson yesterday, when Mettray's runners twice returned hits so speedily that runners were tagged between bases. Today was another day with Scott. However, he overran the bag and was caught.

Facing the fast-breaking curves of Neff, the Yanks, as had been their custom through all the series, played along for one run at a time, while the Giants stuck to their rushing while habit of letting the hits fall where they might in the hope of rushing several runners over the plate. The Yankees were held to five hits by Neff.

A single by Dugan, a sacrifice by Ruth and Pipp's single gave Bush one run to start with in the first inning. The Giants took the lead in the second, getting two runs on Meusel's single, Young's walk, Kelly's sacrifice and a single by Cunningham.

GIANTS TAKE PENNANT

FURIOUS UPHILL BATTLE IS WON FROM YANKS.

Two Runs Let In When Huggins Differs With Pitcher in Strategic Programme.

(Continued From First Page.)

The sudden command plainly displeased Bush. He wanted to work things out his own way. He warmed up his congue with a couple of hot words and then shouted at Huggins, "Let a play baseball." Huggins was insistent, and he repeated his signal to pass young Bush. Bush obeyed. His face showed his disapproval at each of the four wide throws to the catcher.

And Kelly, who has eight-handed, appeared at the plate. The next was a speedy curve.

It cracked off Kelly's bat and into center at a fast clip, scoring Frisch and Meusel. Huggins had guessed wrong. Bush perhaps had won a moral victory, but never, think else was lost.

Still apparently bereft of his temper, Bush lobbed a key throw up to the plate and King killed it, but the ball fell foul near the left-field bleachers. He swung earlier the next time and dropped a Texas leaguer back of short, scoring Young.

For a time this afternoon it seemed the Yankees had awakened from a spell of dumbness in which they tossed away every opportunity to win that came to them. But they never appeared so much awake as did the bright and snappy Giants, who seemed day by day, in every way, to grow better and better.

The Yankees simply could not run the bases well. They were apparently wiser in that branch of their business. This, at least, was the impression that prevailed when they tossed away the hope of an over-run when Scott was boxed on the third-base line after Bush had singled.

Bush's Single Is Dropped. The single by Bush was dropped in center field and Ward scored on it. Scott, who had just singled, followed Bush and went to third safely. Huggins was coaching there. Some thought the Yanks had learned a lesson yesterday, when Mettray's runners twice returned hits so speedily that runners were tagged between bases. Today was another day with Scott. However, he overran the bag and was caught.

Facing the fast-breaking curves of Neff, the Yanks, as had been their custom through all the series, played along for one run at a time, while the Giants stuck to their rushing while habit of letting the hits fall where they might in the hope of rushing several runners over the plate. The Yankees were held to five hits by Neff.

A single by Dugan, a sacrifice by Ruth and Pipp's single gave Bush one run to start with in the first inning. The Giants took the lead in the second, getting two runs on Meusel's single, Young's walk, Kelly's sacrifice and a single by Cunningham.

GIANTS TAKE PENNANT

FURIOUS UPHILL BATTLE IS WON FROM YANKS.

Two Runs Let In When Huggins Differs With Pitcher in Strategic Programme.

(Continued From First Page.)

The sudden command plainly displeased Bush. He wanted to work things out his own way. He warmed up his congue with a couple of hot words and then shouted at Huggins, "Let a play baseball." Huggins was insistent, and he repeated his signal to pass young Bush. Bush obeyed. His face showed his disapproval at each of the four wide throws to the catcher.

And Kelly, who has eight-handed, appeared at the plate. The next was a speedy curve.

It cracked off Kelly's bat and into center at a fast clip, scoring Frisch and Meusel. Huggins had guessed wrong. Bush perhaps had won a moral victory, but never, think else was lost.

Still apparently bereft of his temper, Bush lobbed a key throw up to the plate and King killed it, but the ball fell foul near the left-field bleachers. He swung earlier the next time and dropped a Texas leaguer back of short, scoring Young.

For a time this afternoon it seemed the Yankees had awakened from a spell of dumbness in which they tossed away every opportunity to win that came to them. But they never appeared so much awake as did the bright and snappy Giants, who seemed day by day, in every way, to grow better and better.

The Yankees simply could not run the bases well. They were apparently wiser in that branch of their business. This, at least, was the impression that prevailed when they tossed away the hope of an over-run when Scott was boxed on the third-base line after Bush had singled.

Bush's Single Is Dropped. The single by Bush was dropped in center field and Ward scored on it. Scott, who had just singled, followed Bush and went to third safely. Huggins was coaching there. Some thought the Yanks had learned a lesson yesterday, when Mettray's runners twice returned hits so speedily that runners were tagged between bases. Today was another day with Scott. However, he overran the bag and was caught.

Facing the fast-breaking curves of Neff, the Yanks, as had been their custom through all the series, played along for one run at a time, while the Giants stuck to their rushing while habit of letting the hits fall where they might in the hope of rushing several runners over the plate. The Yankees were held to five hits by Neff.

A single by Dugan, a sacrifice by Ruth and Pipp's single gave Bush one run to start with in the first inning. The Giants took the lead in the second, getting two runs on Meusel's single, Young's walk, Kelly's sacrifice and a single by Cunningham.

Farrar Auditorium October 12. Attend the recital and note the individual qualities that distinguish this great soprano. Then go to any dealer in Victor products and hear the Victor Records by Farrar. Note how faithfully her renditions are portrayed on the Victrola. Victor Talking Machine Co. Camden, New Jersey.

At Paris this fresh violation of neutral territory is not likely to cause serious difficulty and that there will probably be no further infringement of neutrality. The question of how far the Turks are to be withdrawn in the neutral zone as required by the Paris agreement, will be left to General Harrington's discretion. It is presumed in authorizing headquarters here that the Greek evacuation of Thrace will begin forthwith. No agreement has yet been made regarding the date or place of holding the conference.

CONSTANTINOPLE MARCH ON

Turkish Operations to Seize City Are Reported Ordered.

By JOHN CLAYTON. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service. By Chicago Tribune Licensed Wire.) MUDANIA, Oct. 8, 4 A. M.—Our troops are marching. With these words a staff officer of the Turkish western army said early today that operations for the seizure of Constantinople had been ordered. The response from London had not yet been received at Mudania. Meanwhile the situation was becoming more dangerous between England and Turkey.

There was still hope, however, that an open clash would be avoided. In announcing that they had taken full liberty of action following the long delay in London, the Turkish staff made clear that they did not consider the British their enemies. "We are continuing the pursuit of our enemy, the Greek army," the Turks announced. "We have no desire for hostilities with the British. Unless they oppose our advance there will be no conflict between our nation and England."

The delay granted by Kemal during which operations were suspended, whereupon the Turks, while making no advance, reclaimed their liberty of action. As the situation now stands the Turks can begin operations at any moment. The spirit of optimism which prevailed during the morning after General Harrington at 8 A. M. announced that while no news had been received he was sure of a favorable reply gave place to gloom when at 5 P. M. General Harrington again came ashore with a request for a further adjournment.

The British general expressed hope that an answer still would be received within time to permit conclusion of the conference by midnight. The Turks, however, were doubtful. Their delegation sat on the veranda of the conference house, overlooking the placid waters of the Marmora, and chatted with American newspaper reporters. Ismet Pasha, speaking frankly on the situation, pointed out that during the period that the Turkish operations were halted the British had been reinforcing old and constructing new fortifications. He declared this had continued even during the conference period.

"It is a great sacrifice for us," the Turkish commander said. "There is no parallel in history of a victorious army halting while the potential enemy continues his preparations for war. We make this sacrifice because we want the world to know we do not desire further conflict."

How much longer the armed forces, straining at the leash with their own capital in sight from the forward lines—the capital from which it is expelled four years ago—can be withheld, is problematical. Those who suspect England of playing for time urge immediate action, declaring too much time has been lost already in fruitless discussion.

ALLIES TO HANDLE TURK

(Continued From First Page.)

tary of the foreign affairs, returned to London today from the Paris conference. The premier, Poincare on the Turkish situation, and in reply to inquiries said he had every hope that a reasonable settlement would be reached. Without being too optimistic, it might be said that the allies have overcome a situation fraught with considerable risk. It is understood that as a result of last night's cabinet council some slight amendments have been made in the form of agreement reached at Paris Saturday, and instructions have been sent to General Harrington at Constantinople authorizing him to reopen the conference at Mudania. This, according to government advices, was resumed at noon. One of the first matters to be discussed at the Mudania meeting will be the new incursion of Turkish troops in the Ismid region. The government view, however, is that because of the new agreement reached

PASCO BRIDGE OPENED

CITY LINKED WITH KENNEWICK BY VIADUCT.

Federal Engineer Pronounces Structure in Accord With U. S. Requirements.

KENNEWICK, Wash., Oct. 8.—(Special.)—Material for a new span in Washington's history was provided this morning when the magnificent new steel bridge over the Columbia river, linking together the "Twin Cities" of Kennewick and Pasco, was officially opened to traffic with W. J. Honeycutt, a pioneer of Walla Walla, installed as toll master.

Colonel Schulz, United States army engineer of Seattle, in charge of this district for the federal government, made an official inspection of the structure yesterday and pronounced it in accord with the requirements of the national government. In granting a franchise three years ago for construction and operation of the bridge, the commissioners of Benton and Franklin counties established a schedule of tolls which became effective this morning.

The schedule follows: Automobiles, including driver, 75 cents; horse-drawn vehicles (one or two horses), 75 cents; three horses, $1; four or six horses, $1.50. Additional passengers on all vehicles, 10 cents. Pedestrians, 50 cents. Trucks, not more than one ton, $2; more than one ton, $5. Tractor engine, road rollers, tractors, etc., $10.

Man and Wife Drawn as Jurors. ST. HELENS, Or., Oct. 8.—(Special.)—Mrs. K. Perry has been drawn as a juror for the circuit court at this month's term and her husband, George Perry, drawn as a juror for the Federal court, term at Portland. Mrs. Perry says she will not ask to be excused from jury duty. The other woman drawn for jury duty is Mrs. Alice Trow of Rainier, who thus far has not notified the county clerk as to whether or not she will serve.

Columbia Institute Near. ST. HELENS, Or., Oct. 8.—(Special.)—The annual institute of the Columbia county teachers will open at St. Helens Wednesday and continue for three days. Among the state educators who will deliver addresses are T. H. Givens of Month normal school, Dr. C. E. Doney of Willamette university, and Professors Reed and Shepard of the Oregon Agricultural college.

Viscount Ishii Going Home. MAISEVILLE, Oct. 8.—Viscount Ishii, Japanese ambassador to France, sailed Saturday on board the steamer Kitano Maru for Japan. He is on leave of absence.

NOTED ENGINEER COMING. John H. Dunlap to Address Local Members of Profession. John H. Dunlap, secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers, who has been attending the fall meeting of the organization at San Francisco, will address the members of the Portland section next Wednesday. Mr. Dunlap, until recently a member of the faculty of the University of Iowa, is well known engineering circles of the country, specializing in hydraulics and sanitary work. The gathering at San Francisco, which opened Wednesday and closed today, is one of the four yearly gatherings of the engineers affiliated with the society.

Fulop's. If it's quality of fabric, tailoring and MORE that you want Fulop's new model. SUITS and OVERCOATS at $50 will be your ultimate choice. Tailored to meet the most exacting style demands. Stratford Clothes have silk-lined sleeves, fabric trims and essential touches that appeal to well-dressed men. Fulop's have others at $30.00 to $60.00. Remember Fulop's Service.

DRUGS. ACCURACY is a part of Nau Service. Accuracy is the foundation of prescription work. PRANK NAU. CORNER 6TH AND ALDER STS. SELLING BUILDING. When you want to entertain a guest. Go to YE OREGON GRILLE.

WEST COAST LIFE. INSURANCE COMPANY. In an institution such as West Coast Life, absolute integrity is not merely an attribute. It is an essential part of the very fabric of the organization. Integrity means more than honesty. It combines with honesty, the qualities of justice and unswerving allegiance to principle. These qualities in the men behind West Coast Life have been ingrained in the organization.

IT'S TOASTED one extra process which gives a delicious flavor. LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTE. only 7 more days to wait.