

MISTAKE IN RAID ON HOME PROBED

$50 Reported Stolen; Owner Threatens Damage Suit.

CASE STUDIED BY CHIEF

Members of Morals Squad Said to Have Entered Wrong Residence on Mill Street.

Official investigation of the actions of the police morals squad, accused of conducting an unauthorized raid on a home at 210 Mill street last Friday night, was started yesterday by Chief of Police Jenkins, after charges had been made by the owner to the effect that $50 in currency disappeared from the house during or immediately after the raid.

Members of the raiding squad, led by H. F. McGrath, a special policeman, admit entering the house, but say it was done by mistake. They held a search warrant for a home at 228 Mill street and simply got in the wrong house, they contend. The raiding party has been denied by the members of the party.

Court Action Promised.
Court action will follow the raid, attorney Arthur C. Dayton announced yesterday. He stated that he had been employed by the householder, Earl W. Simonds, to commence suit for damages in the courts. Simonds and his wife were absent at the time of the raid.

The case was laid before Deputy District Attorney Mowbray Saturday afternoon and that official, through Special Policeman McGrath, secured the names of three other members of the party. Patrolmen Albert Fair and Chamberlain, and a man not connected with the department, are said to have participated in the raid.

Mistake, Says Officer.
The affair came to Chief Jenkins' attention in an official report submitted by McGrath. The policeman said he held a warrant to enter the home at 228 Mill street and that with his party, he entered the house at 210 Mill street. When he arrived through mistake. Allegations that there were evidences of liquor in the Simonds home were also made by McGrath.

AUTO THEFT IS CHARGED

Suspect, Arrested at Tillamook, to Be Arraigned Today.

ASTORIA, Or., Oct. 9.—(Special.)—John Stevens, who was arrested at Tillamook Saturday and brought here yesterday to answer a charge of stealing an automobile, will be arraigned tomorrow and says he will plead guilty to the charge.

Stevens had a woman, May O'Brien of Tacoma, with him. According to her story, Stevens invited her and her sweetheart to take a ride from Tacoma to Portland and return and they accepted. While en route to Portland, Stevens tried to get the other man to assist in robbing a filling station, but the latter refused. As a result, the man quarreled and the male passenger was left about 20 miles out of Portland, while Stevens continued on to Tillamook with the woman.

It was said a white slave charge might be placed against Stevens.

ASTORIA, Or., Oct. 9.—(Special.)—R. E. Clanton, state supervisor of hatcheries, is spending a few days here to direct the taking of eggs for hatchery purposes from the hundreds of chinook salmon which are entering the Klaskanine river. He hopes to obtain a large number of eggs, which will be hatched at the local plant. Mr. Clanton says that during the last week he transferred 5,000,000 sockeye salmon from Alaska to the Willoughby hatchery where they will be developed and the young fish reared.

All the young sockeyes from the Klaskanine river hatchery have been released and about 150,000 of them were planted in Big creek.

M town.—With a raglan which you wish to keep as a coat there cannot be a great deal of change unless it be in the length and the collar and cuff trim. The large pockets can be added, should you care to shorten your coat, using that piece for the pockets, the top edge to be trimmed with the strip of sealskin or black caribou. The collar and cuffs also be trimmed, the former to be of the "all-fur" effect. You can use your bottom again, as they doubtless are a splendid match with the checked material of coat. The handwork as shown on one of the pictures included would not be in keeping on a checked material.

I don't believe that you would like the collar with your scarf, which is very attractive in texture and shade. Might I suggest that you use the crocheted links to match your material. The same style as used for the fur collar. The linked chain on one side and the waiting eye on the other will, I am sure, solve the problem and keep the scarf "put" where it should be.

The association has received 2,245,000 pounds of prunes and has graded 582,000 pounds of the dried product.

Self-Consciousness Spoils Evening's Fun

"Hello, Molly! I suppose you had a wonderful time last night at the theater. Wasn't last night the night you were going with Bob, his married brother and his wife?"

"Yes, just night was the night. But you know, Mary, I didn't have a very good time."

"You didn't? And you had been looking forward to it for weeks."

"Well, it was all due to my clothes. Bob's sister-in-law is too pretty for anything and she had on the loveliest clothes. I felt sort of shabby and self-conscious. It is a terrible feeling and spoils everything."

"Of course it is a miserable feeling. I've had it myself, but I think we often exaggerate our own shabbiness."

"They were very nice to me, of course, but I felt it just the same. In fact, Bob and I are invited up to their home for dinner next week, and I am going to have a pretty new dress or gown why?"
