A BEAUTIFUL bride was Miss Helen Haller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller Haller, who was married last night to Harvey Nicol Black at a large wedding at the Westminster Presbyterian church. Rev. E. H. Pence officiated. Clarence Bruce Stephenson acted as best man and Helen E. Becker played the wedding march, and preceding the ceremony Mrs. Minnie Pelz sang "By the Waters of Minnetonka."

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. Her handsome wedding gown was of crepe back satin, cut on the graceful lines and exquisitely decorated with pearls. Her veil was of tulle and fell in a long court train from a Spanish coronet elaborated with orange blossoms. Her flowers were a large shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Neale P. Sealy, who was the matron of honor, was most attractive in a creation of coral chiffon trimmed in silver. She wore a large Spanish comb, which was a present of the bride to her attendants. Her bouquet was of the late autumn flowers in the pastel shades of pink, orange and yellow.

Miss Agnes Black, maid of honor, wore a striking gown of orchid chiffon and carried flowers corresponding to the color of her gown.

Mrs. Harry B. Edward and Miss Patricia Smith acted as the bride's attendants. Mrs. Edward's frock was of spriged chiffon elaborated with crystal beads, and Miss Smith was smartly attired in peach-color chiffon with crystal trimmings.

Little Patricia Anne Temple was flower girl in her adorable costume of pink organza. Master Harry Haller Sealy was the ringbearer. He was attired in a white satin suit. The ushers were Neale P. Sealy, Franklin Kerrell, Douglas Nicol, Harry P. Edward and Colin Livingstone and Wallace Moore.

A reception followed immediately at the Haller residence in Irvington. Receiving with the bride party were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller Haller and Mr. and Mrs. George N. Black. The house was beautifully decorated in autumn leaves, asters and gladioli. Presiding in the dining room were Mrs. Neale P. Sealy, Mrs. Andrew R. Porter, Mrs. Charles W. King and Mrs. Louis Gerlinger. Assisting in serving were Miss Grace Kerns and Miss Miriam Weber. Assisting about the rooms were Mrs. C. Lewis Mead, Mrs. W. H. Smith and Mrs. William J. Hofmann.

About 250 guests called to congratulate the couple. After a wedding trip in California Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside in Portland.

Mrs. William L. Brewster, a prominent matron, who is assisting with the symphony society campaign.

The marriage of Miss Louise Isabel Macy, daughter of Mrs. Isabelle M. Macy, 1273 Thompson street, to George W. Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hansen, 1350 East Lincoln street, was solemnized Tuesday morning, October 10, at 10 o'clock in the presence of relatives. Rev. Norman K. Tully read the marriage ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white Bohemian lace with a point veil and carried an heirloom in the family. She carried a shower bouquet of Michaelmas daisies.

The home decorations were typical of the autumnal season.

Mr. Hansen is division supervisor of material with the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company.

Announcement cards were issued. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen will be at home after November 10 at 1273 Thompson street.

A brilliant wedding tonight will be the double wedding of the sisters, the Misses Jane and Katherine Seller. Miss Jane Seller will become the bride of Allen Meier and Miss Katherine Seller will marry Lawrence Dickson of San Francisco. The ceremony will take

I do not think it worth while you could make apple jack or lanterns (using red and yellow apples alternately) as containers for an apple, celery and nut salad (if that will fit in with the rest of your menu), setting them on the table to simplify service and be part of the table decorations. Brushing over the cuts with lemon juice and mayonnaise will tend to prevent darkening. Good pumpkin pie (with or without whipped cream) is usually popular. If you wanted to take the extra trouble (which, again, I think is not worth while really) you could bake individual pumpkin pies and "pipe" on a goblet face for each, using whipped cream slightly stiffened with gelatin and a pastry tube. If you prefer you might serve ice cream with or without a nut and butterscotch sauce accompanying it with small cakes or cookies with Halloween decorations in icing.

If you like you could make animal and goblin favors with nuts and raisins and toothpicks. I am sure you need no suggestions as to decorations. I am glad you find this column useful.

Dear Miss Tingle: I am a constant reader of The Oregonian and look for your column almost the first thing. I appreciate how ideas very much better never have asked for help until now. Kindly tell me how to get grapes for drying. I have taken the pits out of them, scalded in sugar about two minutes, then put in a jar. They are too much juice; they dehydrate too much in weight. Kindly tell me the name of the grape and all details in making raisins out of them. Please tell me all particulars through The Oregonian.

LOVER OF FRUIT.

I have not space in this column at present for detailed instructions on drying prunes and raisins, and as the season is passing, I would suggest that you inquire at the Public Library for bulletins on these topics. There are several excellent bulletins which will give you all the information you need. I am very glad that you find this column useful. Write again if I can help.

JEFFERSON, Oct. 8. Aug. 30.—Dear Miss Tingle: Will you kindly give directions for canning sauerkraut? I have heard of packing it in jars, but I don't seal without cooking when fermentation ceases. Is it good to hold and if not how should it be treated? Thank you very much for any suggestions you may offer.

I hope you saw the recipe for sauerkraut which has been given in reply to another correspondent since your letter was written. It is best to complete the fermentation in barrels and then pack the kraut in jars. The method you mention is very "chancy" and unreliable.

Baby Girl Wins Hearts of City Councilmen.

Youngster in Mother's Arms Makes Friends of Officials.

A BROAD smile on the face of a baby girl in the arms of Mrs. J. H. Dolbow, 18 West Watt street, won the hearts of several members of the city council yesterday.

Mrs. Dolbow and several other residents in the Kenton district came before the council to protest against the granting of the application of Frank A. Jerman to erect a frame garage for temporary residence on Watt street, between Interstate avenue and Fenwick street. The protestants pointed out that the applicant was now living in a double garage in that district and that it would not be fair to the home owners to permit him to build another garage for residential purposes.

When Mrs. Dolbow came forward to make her protest, the little baby looked at Mayor Baker and smiled. Then she turned her attention to City Commissioner Mann and again she smiled.

After giving these two officials considerable attention she caught sight of Commissioners Barbur and Pier, both staid granddaddies, who understand the language employed by infants. The baby gurgled, smiled and waved its little arms aloft.

"We're for the baby on this side of the room," announced Commissioner Mann.

"Have you kissed all the babies in town this year?" Commissioner Higelow, inquired Commissioner Barbur, who does not have to seek re-election this year.

"No, but I sure would like to kiss that baby."

The application will be referred to City Commissioner Barbur and I think the entire council will have to go out and view the property—yes, and visit the baby," announced the mayor.

It is correct to answer a wedding invitation in the wording of the engraved form, thus, for instance: Mr. and Mrs. Ruigers Yale accept with pleasure (or regret that a previous engagement prevents them from accepting) the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Douglas to be present at the marriage of their daughter, Lucile to Mr. Charles James Stuart, etc.

Invitations to the church alone need not be answered. It is only when a card to the reception or breakfast is included, or when the initials R. S. V. P. appear on invitation or card that acceptance or regrets need be sent.

No acknowledgement need be made in response to wedding announcements. Nor is it necessary to send a gift. Indeed, some people send announcements rather than invitations, not only to avoid the trouble of a large wedding but also as a token of remembrance which carries with it no obligation to send a gift in return. For that matter, all wedding gifts are customary rather than obligatory.

HUBBARD, Or., Oct. 8.—Dear Miss Tingle: I am a great admirer of your column and get so much good from it in many ways. We as a committee want to send you a letter of appreciation and a gift. Could you give us some inexpensive suggestions that would be suitable for the occasion? Please get this in as soon as you can find room in your column, as I must every week and want to make our plans.

Cider apples, pumpkins and nuts are traditional Halloween favors and you will, of course, want to have them on your menu in some form. If you want to take the trouble (though personally
