

MRS. DE BOUCHELE PREPARES TO FIGHT

Trouble Coming for Candler and Informers.

JILTED WOMAN AROUSED

Slanderees Will Pay Dearly for Attempt to Wreck Reputation, With Insults, She Says.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Onesima de Bouchele announced tonight that she would return to her home in New Orleans tomorrow and continue the fight to obtain the name of the persons she said Asa G. Candler Sr., Atlanta capitalist, told her brought him reports reflecting on her and which caused him to break his engagement to marry her.

"Sympathy for a lonely old man, whose children had grown away from him and a companionship I craved, rather than love, inspired my engagement to Asa G. Candler Sr.," said Mrs. Onesima de Bouchele, beautiful New Orleans divorcee, whose engagement to the Atlanta capitalist was abruptly terminated. She was awaiting arrival of her attorney to confer over charges of indiscretion alleged to have been made against her by Candler. "I do not want a single penny of Candler's money," she asserted, "but they will have to pay and pay dearly for their attempt to wreck my reputation with insults."

In a public statement yesterday Candler had informed her it would be impossible for him to marry as he had received information that she had invited two men to visit her rooms in a local hotel during the confederate reunion here in 1913.

Disclosure Is Demanded.

"Mr. Candler shall tell the world that the slander of unprincipled men is not the reason he has cast off the woman whom he asked to be his wife," she reiterated today. "He must disclose the persons who told him and the world that women are not always fortune hunters—that heritage of pride does not succumb to material desires. This shall be done."

Mrs. de Bouchele, whose announcement of her engagement to Candler several months ago attracted national attention, is typical of the French type. Her eyes are grayish blue and her hair is auburn. She is wealthy and is said to have descended on both sides of her family from the French aristocracy.

When Mrs. de Bouchele attended the Confederate reunion in Atlanta as chaperon-general, she related, Candler entertained the ladies of her court, sent them candy and flowers, placed his automobile at their disposal and otherwise "acted as any gentleman would."

After she had returned to her home in New Orleans, a correspondence developed, she continued, and the capitalist told her that his daughter before her marriage had always met him at the door and placed her arms around his neck; but that now it was his plan to let her pass him to embrace her husband.

Rugged Elements Attracted.

The Louisiana woman took a trip to Switzerland on her return. Candler met her at the pier in New York, she said.

"Those rugged elements of his character, which enable him to rise from a comparatively low station in life to the height of financial standing, attracted and fascinated me," she said.

"While he did not have a background of generations of courtly refinement, he possessed all the elements of a gentleman. He was, I thought, the ideal type—kind, considerate and solicitous of my welfare."

"The most outstanding ruin which confronts me today," she continued after a pause, "is that the masterful personality is plastic, molded into shape by the will of others. At heart I believe he yearns for the Utopia we have planned, but he was overcome by the desires of others. And the worst of all is his lack of faith in me."

"That he would be made to believe in the face of proof the statements of dastardly slanderers; that I should be condemned without a hearing—these things have scarred my soul. And from this wound has risen the determination that the honored name of my ancestors shall not be blackened without defense, even though there is only a woman to bear the sword."

Young Men Distrusted.

Left an orphan early in childhood, in New Orleans, where she was born, Mrs. de Bouchele attended the Holy Cross and Ursuline convents there. Later she finished her education at Notre Dame in Canada. She then returned to New Orleans as a religious beauty.

After a marriage, which ended unhappily, she became convinced that the "young man" is incapable of "fidelity to his marriage vows," she said, adding that she became a "man-hater" until her engagement to Candler occurred.

Until she has conferred with her attorney, Harry Gamble, whom she expected to arrive today, Mrs. de Bouchele said she would be unable to say definitely what court action, if any, would be taken.

Candler's only reply to her published statements was issued through his attorneys after he was said to have left Atlanta yesterday. He asserted that confidential information given him by friends had made marriage with Mrs. de Bouchele impossible and that he would not disclose the names of the informants.

"Fresh as a daisy" looks Edward Payson Weston as the 84-year-old father of cross-country walking looks into the camera at the end of his 500-mile hike from Buffalo to the New York city hall. Mr. Weston made the total of 500 miles in 23 walking days, or two days fewer than his schedule called for, although at the start of the trip he was forced to travel through sticky mud and a driving rain.

His walk was undertaken to force again upon the world's attention that walking is better for the health than doctors.

BRITISH TO PAY INTEREST

$50,000,000 TO BE APPLIED ON WAR DEBT ACCOUNT.

More Than $25,000,000 in Gold Received at J. P. Morgan & Co. Banking House.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The British government, it was semi-officially stated today, "is taking steps to pay $50,000,000 into the New York Federal Reserve bank on October 16 on account of this year's interest on Great Britain's debt to the United States."

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Between $25,000,000 and $35,000,000 in gold has been received here in the last few months by J. P. Morgan & Co. for the account of the British government, the proceeds to be used as part payment of the year's interest on its war loan to the United States.

The balance due has been provided for by the purchase of dollars in the London and New York markets. While J. P. Morgan & Co. understand that the proceedings of the gold and other credits established here by the British government are to be used in payment of interest on the war loan when it falls due next Monday, they have not yet received definite instructions to that effect, officials stated today.

This $50,000,000, as the statement explains, represent payment on account of the interest. The exact amount due will not be settled until the conference in Washington, to be headed by Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, and the United States government officials.

DIRIGIBLE DOES 750 MILES IN 16 HOURS

C-2 Reaches El Paso on Its Return Flight.

PROPELLER IS BROKEN

Government Fliers Advance 12,000 Pounds of Mail Three or Four Hours, Says Official.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 11.—The army dirigible C-2 arrived in El Paso on its return flight at 1:30 P. M. today.

Flying time from Rose field, Arcadia, Cal., a distance of 750 miles, was made in exactly 16 hours, according to members of the crew.

Better time would have been made, it was said, except for a broken propeller. The accident happened at 5:30 o'clock this morning. The C-2 will be here until some time tomorrow. The propeller was being repaired this afternoon.

DETROIT, Oct. 11.—Development of aeronautics in America is possible only under federal supervision and regulation of flying, speakers representing all branches of aviation declared today in addressing the national air institute here.

The institute was preliminary to the annual meeting of the second national aero congress, opening here tomorrow in conjunction with the national air races.

Emergency Fields Needed.

Licensing of pilots and aircraft, supervision of landing places and insistence upon emergency landing fields, education of the business and general public to the safety and desirability of aerial development and regulation of the legal rights and liabilities of aircraft, all under federal regulation and supervision, were among the suggestions of the various speakers.

The speakers included Charles F. Redden of New York, president of a commercial aerial line; E. P. Warner of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and Dr. Joseph S. Ames, Johns Hopkins university; J. Rowland Bibbins, manager of the department of transportation of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

More than 12,000 pounds of first-class mail is delivered from three to four hours earlier each day than would be the case if the postoffice department had no air mail service, Assistant Postmaster-General Henderson said.

Night Flying Possible.

Mr. Henderson further explained that "to get from the airplane all that it may offer in the shape of postal service will be necessary to fly at night."

"With this thought in mind," he continued, "we have for the past four months conducted an extensive series of experiments and study on the subject. Our experiments and study have reached the stage where it is, I think, safe to conclude that it is entirely possible to fly at night. We expect within a few weeks to light an experiment over Chicago field, and I predict within six or eight months we will be able to fly from Chicago to Cheyenne at night."

"If we are successful in this it will mean that we will be able to make a transcontinental flight from New York to Chicago in the day time, Chicago to Cheyenne at night, and from Cheyenne to San Francisco during the early part of the second day. We should be able to establish and maintain a schedule of from 25 to 40 hours between New York and San Francisco if this night flying experiment proves out."

The time for county treasurers to remit to the state treasurer expires October 21. By that date Multnomah county will have remitted to the state treasurer approximately $1,000,000, it was said.
