

What's What

By Helen Decie

To send a wedding gift without a card inclosed savors too much of mystery or of practical joking to be in good taste for one of the most sacred events in life. There are would-be humorists, masculine and feminine, whose idea of a "good joke" is to keep everybody guessing. This sort of thing might not be out of the way at a juvenile birthday feast or a "freedom party," but it is not suited to a wedding. It may be that the sender forgot to inclose a card. In that case it is correct to write a little note to the bride's mother inclosing the missing card, together with an explanation of the omission and a description of the article sent. It is true that the shipping clerk may have neglected to attach the sender's card, and then the only possible way to discover the identity of the sender is to exhibit the gift with the other presents, but bearing a (ticket inscribed "Received without a card." Then the giver or some guest in whom he confided will set matters right.

Housewife's Idea Box

New Way to Keep Rubbers, Shoes.
An economical and tidy way to keep rubbers and shoes in a closet is to use a box. Divide a large wooden box into pigeon holes, each large enough to hold one pair. You can paint the box white and with black paint place the name of the owner beside the division. This is especially convenient where there are a number of children in the family.

Bond for Support Exact.
MONTESANO, Wash., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Grover A. Ray of Porters, arrested last week on complaint of his wife, Grace Ray of Elma, on a non-support charge, yesterday was placed under bond of $500 to insure execution of the court's order that he pay $50 a month to Mrs. Ray. It was alleged that Ray was able to earn $125 to $150 monthly, but that he has not given any money to his wife or children for a considerable time and that they have had to be supported by Mrs. Ray's father.

State's Cement Stolen.
LA GRANDE, Or., Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Eleven and one-half barrels, or the equivalent of 45 sacks, of cement were stolen from the State highway camp six miles west of La Grande recently. They were taken from the roadside and carried off, apparently in a truck. On the following night the same persons, supposedly, returned and stole two tarpaulins. No trace of the thieves has been found.

New Teacher Makes Hit With Pupil

"Well, how is Evelyn getting along in school this year?"
"Oh, splendidly, and we are so glad. Last year she did not like her teacher, and nothing we could do would make her take an interest. Her father and I were worried about her, too. But this year she is in love with her teacher and does her very best to please her. As the result she is getting along fine."
"Well, that's fine. It does make a difference how well they like their teacher."
"Oh, yes. Evelyn even wants me to have Miss Henderson out for dinner soon, and I guess I must do it. I was going to get a new dress soon, and I am sort of putting off having her come until I get it."
"Is that so? Let me tell you about a new dress I got last week. It pleases me so, and my husband thinks it is the prettiest dress I have had in a year. Well, I got it at Cherry's at 549 Morrison street, second floor. I got it on credit, too. Imagine having six months to pay? Why, the small monthly payments don't seem to matter at all."
"I have heard much about Cherry's. I think I must try them, too. Everyone speaks so well of their styles, their prices and their easy terms."—Adv.
