Budget System and Efficient Workmen's Compensations Among Achievements.

OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 1.—Governor Ben W. Olcott and Senator R. L. Eddy, speaking on the same platform before a large crowd here tonight, flayed the legislative record of Walter Pierce, democratic nominee for governor, told how he had borrowed $20,000 of public school funds at 6 per cent interest and later had loaned it to the small farm owners at 8 per cent and urged the voters of the state to examine carefully into the affairs of his administration.

Governor Olcott spoke forcibly. He told how he had placed the workmen's compensation act on a basis where the taxpayers were receiving adequate consideration and of his connection with the creation of a budget system in Oregon which will save the taxpayers many thousands of dollars annually. The governor also mentioned conditions at the state penitentiary, which, he said, had been equipped with a system of industries which in time will provide for the maintenance of the inmates and set aside a liberal allowance for the dependents of the inmates.

Expense Is Avoided.

Brief mention also was made by the governor of his law-enforcement record and how he had avoided junketing trips at the expense of the taxpayers. In reply to charges that his administration had been extravagant, the governor showed that the money necessary for state purposes aggregated only a trifle more than $3,000,000. Mr. Pierce had charged that the annual administrative expense of the state totaled more than $15,000,000. Of the $3,000,000 needed for administrative purposes in Oregon, he was proved by figures obtained from the state tax commission that the larger amount of the money was applied toward the conduct of the state hospitals and other institutions.

Pierce Handed Roundly.

Senator Eddy handed the democratic candidate for governor with gloves. He said that Americans sometimes had been compared with trees. "Don't you see," he said, "the tree that has been cut down is the tree that has been cut down by the axe of the axe man. While Daniel Webster was compared with the giant oak, it has remained for fair Oregon to be the proud possessor of the willow of the Grand Ronde valley."

"If Walter Pierce has ever thought of the legislature he never discovered the burden of the money which he had to carry," said Senator Eddy. "If he did discover that he never could hit upon a plan for relief."

Senator Eddy said that he had all kinds of taxes paid in the state aggregate more than $40,000,000 a year, therefore a reduction of one-half would be to save—how many numbers—$20,000,000. "How is Mr. Pierce going to perform this wonder?" asked Senator Eddy. "There $10,000,000 of taxes are levied on the number of tax-paying bodies, including cities, towns, ports, school districts and road districts, with which the governor has nothing to do."

Senator Eddy declared that Governor Olcott is as much interested in tax reduction as any man in Oregon, and to that end some time ago suggested the selection of a commission to investigate the tax situation in this state. The legislature created this commission, Senator Eddy said, and a report probably will be forthcoming in the near future. "Out of this report," said Eddy, "I believe there would be outlined a programme looking to the relief of the taxpayers."

Use of Autos Explained.

Senator Eddy explained particularly to the charges made by Mr. Pierce that the state owns more than 500 automobiles, and by inquiring of state employees in their private life. It was pointed out by Senator Eddy that neither the governor, secretary of state nor state treasurer have state automobiles at their disposal, and that the great majority of the vehicles referred to by Mr. Pierce are trucks used in state highway work.

A large number of these trucks were given to the state by the federal government, while the state has turned many of the trucks over to the counties, Senator Eddy said. Practically all of the trucks are engaged in highway work, and were obtained at no cost to the state.

Instead of seven automobiles at the penitentiary, as alleged by Mr. Pierce, there are four vehicles, two of which are used by the farm and tax industry. The other two cars

W. D. Wheelwright Speaks.
William D. Wheelwright, president of the child welfare commission, presided last night and made an address outlining the work of the commission and what it expects to do for Portland's children in the future.

"Community service," said Mr. Wheelwright, "means, in the first instance, the care of individuals by the community, which not only makes laws for the protection of the members from the old-time perils of physical violence, but provides education for the young, hospitals for the sick, system of inspection, reform of delinquents, the investigation of poverty and even state parks and playgrounds for recreational purposes."

Duty to Schools Stressed.
"The community is a corporation of a complex character, fitting the complex life of the day. It is a legal entity, the soundness of which cannot be disputed, but corporations have no soul. But of greater importance than a maxim of law is the vital truth that a corporation is made up of men who are possessed of souls and the acts of the corporation, whether they be good, bad or indifferent, depend upon the character of the men who compose it. So, in the last analysis, I should define community service as the common obligations of all individuals to their fellows."

"Taking up one of its elements, the schools, opinions differ as to how far and in what details the state should control education. But there can be no difference of opinion as to the duty of every citizen to support the public schools and to every effort to improve them and to see that the impersonal state (also a corporation, he it noted) does not encroach upon the rights and liberties of the individual."

INDIAN SLAYER IS FREED

Watkins Davis Acquitted by Jury at Klamath Falls.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Watkins Davis, Klamath Indian charged with second-degree murder in connection with the death of Oliver Jefferson, Klamath Indian who died December 5 as a result of a blow over the head with a billiard cue delivered by Davis in a local pool room about a year ago, was acquitted tonight after the jury had deliberated 29 minutes. The trial began yesterday afternoon.

An outstanding feature was the number of character witnesses called in an endeavor to establish the good character of the defendant and the bad character of the victim. It was alleged that the quarrel that resulted in the fatal blow was started by Jefferson.

Hon. C. N. McArthur, Portland, Oregon.

Heartiest best wishes for your election. There are three qualities a public servant should have—fearless courage in the interests of the people; faith to his promises, and common sense. All of these you have to a marked degree. You made the fight for the navy last year when things looked darkest. You voted your convictions on every important measure. It would be a real loss to the country and the party if you were not returned. We need dead-game fighters like you.
