

SISTER SAYS CLARA ONCE ATTACKED HER

Hammer Slayer Is Declared
Subject to Epilepsy.

EX-CHORUS GIRL WITNESS

Friend of Mrs. Phillips During Stage Career Also Testifies to Convulsive Spells.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Clara Phillips once attacked her sister, Mrs. R. S. Jackson, while suffering from periodical epileptic convulsions, Mrs. Jackson testified today in Mrs. Phillips' trial for the murder of Mrs. Albert Meadows.

This occurred, Mrs. Jackson said, in San Antonio, Tex., some time in May, 1918. Mrs. Phillips, she said, threw her across a trunk and beat her with a shoe, inflicting a wound on her head of which the scar still remains.

Mrs. Jackson testified that her sister's mental attacks were preceded by a "peculiar look" in her eyes. Clara, she declared, would lose control of herself for from five minutes to two hours when one of the seizures came. Twice during 1917, she said, Mrs. Phillips went into convulsions, bled from the mouth and tore her hair. When the attacks passed she was left in a weakened condition, according to the witness.

Mother Said to Be Invalid.

The witness said her mother, Mrs. Hannah J. Weaver, was subject to epileptic convulsions and is now an invalid at Tampico, Mexico.

Miss Ola Weaver, another sister of the defendant, corroborated the testimony already given and stated that Dr. Edward H. Anthony, who said he attended Mrs. Weaver on October 13 last when she was in a convulsion.

The defense also called Mrs. Wilhelmina Atkinson. She was the first witness.

Mrs. Atkinson, garbed in a large picture hat and a dress that dragged the ground, took the stand and testified that she was in a chorus at San Antonio, Tex., with Mrs. Phillips and that they worked and roomed together for eight months.

Both Chorus Girls.

Asked who formed the company, she said there were three principals and ten chorus girls, and that her stage name was Billie Moody. She said all of the girls in the company were "perfect ladies, each and every one of them."

Mrs. Atkinson said that on one occasion she and Mrs. Phillips were reporting for work. Mrs. Phillips fell in what appeared to be a faint, was carried to a dressing room by the other chorus girls and was revived there after about 25 minutes. Mrs. Atkinson's expression was that she "snapped out of it."

Some Girls Married.

Enlarging further on the character of the company, Mrs. Atkinson said in response to a question as to whether the members were all professionals that "some of the girls were professionals and some had husbands in the company."

Her evidence, voiced in up-to-the-minute phraseology, kept the capacity of the courtroom at a tension of interest. Mrs. Phillips followed it closely but without visible emotion.

Mrs. Atkinson then testified that on one occasion coming home late on an evening when Mrs. Phillips had not worked, she found the latter in bed, apparently in coma or convulsion. She said she called a doctor, who restored Mrs. Phillips to consciousness. The witness said Mrs. Phillips later disclaimed any knowledge of what had happened.

Room in Wreck.

At that time, Mrs. Atkinson said, their room was a wreck. She said the bedding had been destroyed, the chairs broken, the water pitcher thrown out of the window and other signs of a destructive activity were apparent.

After their engagement in San Antonio closed they went to Orange, Tex., she said, where Mrs. Phillips had more of the attacks such as the witness described.

Both Women Laugh.

When cross-examination began the state took Mrs. Atkinson back to the incident she had described in San Antonio when Mrs. Phillips was found ill with the room in disorder. In response to questions she said the room "looked like a madhouse." She then began to tell about the long time it took physicians to bring Mrs. Phillips to normal and as she testified Mrs. Phillips suddenly burst into laughter and stuffed a handkerchief into her mouth to suppress the sound.

The witness looked at Mrs. Phillips, listened to another question and then when she tried to answer it she likewise burst into helpless laughter and rocked herself in the witness chair in an effort to control herself. After she did so cross-examination was resumed.

PANTS TO BE VOTED ON

BITTER FIGHT OVER DRESS TO BE SETTLED TODAY.

Brisk Campaign Is Carried On at Franklin—Girls Join in Warfare Over New Garb.

A plebiscite on peon pants—a solemn referendum on the question of sartorial freedom at Franklin high school, will take place this afternoon and the fate of tuxedo trousers and their co-partners in dress radicalism—Spanish skirts—will be settled by the vote of students.

For ten days Franklin has been divided in two hostile camps by these invaders from old Castile. The opposition has far outnumbered the champions of the new garb and several cases of violence have been reported.

It was not until the fad spread to girl members Tuesday that Franklin awoke to the seriousness of the situation and the discord and hatred engendered by the wearing of the eccentric but colorful garb.

Peon pants and Spanish skirts will be discussed, pro and con, at this afternoon's assembly and on the vote of the majority will depend the final outcome of the matter. Campaigning is brisk and while opposition members expect to bury peon pants beneath an avalanche of votes, the devotees of the fantastic costume have not been idle. A meeting of the pro-peon pants party was held yesterday afternoon in the school cafeteria. A dozen of the leaders in the movement attended and mapped out an election campaign. Supporters of the movement are now at work among their fellow students, endeavoring, by argument, to win their fellows over to the side of sartorial tolerance and freedom.

About ten girls have had the courage to appear at school in the so-called Spanish skirts. The feminine opposition to dress radicalism, while not so violent, is far more bitter. Piercing glances and contemptuous looks take the place of direct action. Dress conservatives among the feminine students are far more outspoken than their counterparts among the males.

The daring 25 who have worn and sponsored the new garb are being classed as sartorial Bolsheviks by the opposition. The campaign was hot and furious. Both sides are displaying considerable political skill.

According to members of the opposition the faculty of Franklin has openly denounced the pro-peon pants party and espoused the cause of conservatism in dress. This afternoon's assembly, which will be open to all students, gives promise of being the best attended gathering Franklin students held during the current term.

VETERAN'S ESTATE ISSUE

Mother and Sister Claim Insurance Reported Left Bride.

The case of Kenneth C. Farley, American soldier, who died overseas and concerning whose insurance a dispute has arisen, was taken up at a conference yesterday between E. H. Horton, associate counsel of the United States veterans' bureau, and Assistant United States Attorney Maguire.

Farley's mother and sister claim to be the beneficiaries of the insurance. On the other hand, Farley, who was married after he entered the army, had declared his intention of changing the beneficiary in favor of his bride. The papers he prepared, however, failed to reach

BRIDGE DECISION UPHELD

Commissioners Must Use Money to Pay Off Debt.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—A judgment confirming the decision of Judge Simpson in the case of George Hopp against the Clarke county commissioners, involving the use of the interstate bridge fund, was received here today from the supreme court. Judge Simpson had decided against the commissioners and ruled that the bridge fund must be used to pay off the $450,000 bonded indebtedness which stands against Clarke county's share of the span.

The fund had been used for about two years previous on Clarke county roads, but the state law providing for this became inoperative June 1, 1921, and the legislature failed to pass any new legislation. Mr. Hopp instituted his suit as a test case.

PARADE WILL BE LARGE

JOINT NIGHT RALLY TAKES ON MONSTER ASPECT.

Exposition and Bridge—Projects
Give Impetus to Tremendous Community Enthusiasm.

From the manner in which civic organizations, corporations and organized groups of boosters generally are rallying to the mobilization call, the joint parade next Saturday night of the 1927 exposition advocates and Burnside and Ross island bridge proponents gives every indication of attaining greater magnitude than was first expected.

The exposition site promoters are busy arranging participation in the parade on a big scale and with the rivalry so keen as to the eventual site for the exposition, large delegations of these boosters are a foregone conclusion.

A meeting of the parade and stunts committee of the exposition management has been called by W. J. Hoffmann, chairman, for 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce when final details will be worked out and the assembling points for various divisions announced.

Following is the line of march: Assembly on Fourteenth street south of Morrison; east on Morrison to Alder, east on Alder to Broadway, north on Broadway to Pine, east on Pine to Fourth, south on Fourth to Alder, west on Alder to Fifth, north on Fifth to Oak, west on Oak to Sixth, south on Sixth to Morrison, east on Morrison to Fourth, south on Improve Their Property.

OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—At a recent meeting of the vestrymen of St. Paul's Episcopal church it was decided to retain the present location of the church that overlooks the Williamette river, at Ninth and Water streets. The little church has stood on this property since the early '50s.

An effort will be made to have the church enlarged and the church societies are engaged in working out plans whereby needed improvements can be made. Among the improvements will be installation of a heating plant and enlarging and repainting the exterior and repainting the interior of the edifice.

MOTHER WHO SIGNED SON AWAY Seeks to Get Him Back.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—A hearing on whether Mrs. Julia Paise of Portland is to have her son, Joseph LeRoy Davis, aged 10 years, or whether he is to be adopted by another family, in opposition to the mother's wishes, was held today in the superior court of Clarke county.

Mrs. Paise, who was Mrs. Davis, about a year ago signed a document which virtually took the lad out of her control and gave him to Mr. and Mrs. George Mills of this city. They liked the boy and wanted to adopt him. In the meantime Mrs. Davis had remarried and moved to Portland and wanted her son back. She opposed the petition of the Mills to adopt the boy.
