

DEMOCRATS SPLIT OVER SCHOOL BILL

Pierce Is Repudiated by Party Leaders.

MR. OLCOTT INDORSED

Personal Advisers of Eastern Oregon Candidate Protest Alleged "Double-Cross."

What some of the personal advisers of Walter M. Pierce consider a deliberate knifing of the democratic candidate for governor by other democratic candidates came to light yesterday. This was the appearance of the "illy white" ticket, which advocated the election of Ben W. Olcott, republican candidate for governor, and advocated C. M. McArthur, republican candidate for congress.

The "illy white" ticket was the original title selected, but it was considered unsatisfactory, so late yesterday afternoon the name was changed to the "citizens' ticket." The new "citizens' ticket" has no connection with nor is it sponsored by the people who issued the "citizens' tax committee" ticket in the republican primaries.

Democrats Back Ticket.
Among the most active individuals behind the "citizens' ticket" is the name may be changed again before the ticket is distributed—are officials of the democratic organization and democratic candidates for the legislature.

Normally, democratic nominees for the legislature in Multnomah county have no chance of election. This campaign the school bill has caused turmoil in the ranks of both republicans and democrats. The republicans and the three democrats on the yellow tickets are for the school bill. This being the case, the rest of the democratic legislative candidates have come out openly in opposition to the measure. In other words, the democratic legislative candidates, with three exceptions who are on the blue tickets, have decided that they will sweep into office by attacking the school bill. As the school bill is considered on its last legs and likely to be defeated, the democratic nominees are prepared to take advantage of the sentiment against the measure.

Pierce Gets Boos.
To carry out this plan, the "illy white" or "citizens' ticket" has been devised. The democratic party officers therefore, and party nominees have kicked Pierce, the democratic candidate for governor, off this ticket, as Pierce is identified with the school bill. And with Pierce has been kicked off Watkins, the democratic candidate for congress.

The ticket virtually amounts to a repudiation of Pierce, the democratic gubernatorial nominee, and Watkins, by the majority of the democratic legislative nominees. Nothing like such a repudiation of the party candidate has appeared in Oregon when they gained an inkling early yesterday morning of what was happening. They attempted to have the ticket either suppressed or to be amended so as to include Pierce, on the plea that such a ticket might defeat the democratic chance to elect a governor.

School Bill Stumbling Block.
The break in the democratic ranks came with Pierce's championing of the school bill, and the denunciations have been occurring in steadily increasing numbers since then. This is why no democrats have put on the stamp to help Pierce, and forcing him to do all the talking himself. The "citizens' ticket," somewhat camouflaged with a sprinkling of republicans, is really engineered largely by members of the democratic county central committee and by democratic legislative candidates, who have no compunction in knifing Pierce because of his stand on the school bill.

The personnel of the "citizens' ticket" underwent several amendments and alterations yesterday. It was on the press Tuesday night and copies were passed around. At noon several changes were made and last night a revised list was being sent to the printer. In all the changes, eliminations and additions the candidacy of Pierce was ignored by the democratic sponsors of the list of recommendations.

Last night the ticket made its final appearance and is as follows:
For representative in congress, 3d district, C. N. McArthur.
For governor, Ben W. Olcott.
For justices of the supreme court, George H. Burnett, John McCourt, John L. Band.
For superintendent of public instruction, J. A. Chubbart.
For commissioner of labor, C. H. Gram.
For public service commissioner, Thomas S. Campbell.
For judge circuit court, department No. 1, George E. Bowman.
For judge circuit court, department No. 2, W. N. Gates.
For judge circuit court, department No. 3, Walter H. Evans.
For state senators, John H. Stevenson, Harry L. Corbett, Dr. E. T. Hedlund.
For representative (vote for only 1), Herbert Gordon, Mrs. C. B. Silmonson, Joseph K. Carson, Mrs. H. S. Lane, Mrs. Helen S. Johnson, Mrs. S. Lane.

CUTICURA HEALS SKIN TROUBLE

Eruption On Face, Itched and Burned, Lost Rest.

"A small, sore eruption broke out on the side of my face and kept spreading until it was the size of a quarter. It was rough and scaly, and at times I was most crazy with the itching and burning. I lost my rest at night, and my face was terrible to see."

"I tried different remedies without any benefit. A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Eleanor Beckman, Springdale, Mont., Jan. 19, 1922.

Rely on Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum to care for your skin.

BEAUVAIS PLOT VICTIM

Dynamite Used to Blow Up Home of Indian.

(By Chicago Tribune Leased Wire.)
MONTREAL, Quebec, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—A plot to blow up the home of a young Indian who made a hurried departure from the reserve and is thought to have made for Coteau Landing, where he is outside the jurisdiction of the Ingotons chief, Chief Big Six Jocks of Coteau Landing.

As a result of a visit paid to the police authorities in Montreal by Chief Big Six Jocks, it is being organized and will make a thorough search of the Coteau district in the hope of trapping the runaway Indian, whose motive for the attempted outrage is a subject for speculation amongst those interested in the Stillman co-respondent.

TEACHERS IN PENDLETON

300 Attending Institute for Umatilla County.

PENDLETON, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Umatilla county teachers assembled today in this city for a three-day institute and a general program, opened the event this morning. Approximately 300 will attend the sessions.

Rev. George L. Clark of this city delivered the address of welcome and public addresses were made by J. S. Landers, president of Umatilla county normal; William Clarence Weir, president of Pacific university; and Russell Blain, principal, head of the history department of the Walla Walla high school.

Throughout the day special classes were held in many branches of teaching and tonight a concert was presented by the faculty members of the Whitman college conservatory of music at the high school, where all the sessions are being held.

WIFE BOSS, SAYS HUSBY

Accusing Husband, However, Fails to Convince Judge.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—W. H. Bramlet tried to convince Judge Willbur in justice court today that Mrs. Bramlet is the head of the household, but he failed. Bramlet got a five-day sentence in the county jail for failure to send his children to school, but the sentence was suspended when he agreed to send the children.

"Who is the boss at your household?" asked Judge Willbur. "My wife," was the reply. "If I remonstrate with the children and tell them they have to go to school, my wife objects. She is the guilty party."

"If we brought your wife in and gave her a jail sentence what would happen then?" interposed Earl Benson, prosecuting attorney. "I wouldn't know until my wife came home," was the reply.

GASOLINE SALES BIGGER

September Gain Is 21 Per Cent Over Year Ago.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—During September, 1922, gasoline sales in Oregon increased approximately 21 per cent over those of September, 1921, according to a report made by Secretary of State Kozler. The decline, as compared to August of this year, was only about 4 1/2 per cent.

JURY CONVICTS SLAYER

Ex-Methodist Preacher Guilty of First Degree Murder.

STATESBORO, Ga., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—The jury returned a verdict early tonight with a recommendation for mercy. The verdict automatically carries a sentence of life imprisonment.

AFRICA TO BE EXPLORED

Chicago Publisher Plans to Circumnavigate Continent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Circumnavigation of the African continent will be one of the objects of W. D. Boyce, Chicago publisher and explorer, who announced today he would soon leave for an African expedition.

GERMAN OFFER DOUBLED

Assault of American Soldier on Rhine Is Sought.

COBLENZ, Nov. 1.—The American occupation authorities have offered a reward of 100,000 marks for the apprehension of the assailant of former Major W. A. Soureine, who was taken from a train arriving in Frankfurt Saturday night suffering from wounds inflicted by a robber. The reward was offered here in addition to the 50,000 marks offered by the German authorities.

U. S. COURT SYSTEM BRANDED OBSOLETE

John C. Veatch Says Many Reforms Are Needed.

METHODS HELD ARCHAIC

Retiring Prosecutor Suggests Inferior Tribunals to Take Care of Lesser Cases.

The federal government must revise its archaic legal and judicial system, a relic of the early days of the republic, if it is to enforce more national laws, said John C. Veatch, for almost five years an assistant in the office of the local United States attorney, who resigned his official position yesterday.

The prohibition law, the Harrison anti-narcotic act and the various statutes governing offenses against interstate commerce have so cluttered up the work of the federal courts in the last few years that the government has had time for more important prosecutions and citizens find difficulty in getting trial of civil cases.

A system of federal courts inferior jurisdiction, similar to police courts of municipal governments and justice courts of states, is needed to dispose of the misdemeanors now brought before the regular federal courts for trial, he says. Especially in a state like Oregon, where writs are transported hundreds of miles to appear before the court at Portland, is such a system needed.

Little Progress Is Made.
Mr. Veatch, the oldest prosecutor in point of service in the local federal office, entered the government service in February, 1918, as a special war-time attorney. He has seen the volume of work in the federal court grow by leaps and bounds since the prohibition law became effective.

"The federal system of justice in Oregon is about in the same position as when the state was admitted to the union, but the laws have been increased a hundred fold," he said.

"In the last few years we have seen the enactment of the prohibition laws, the various laws governing interstate commerce, the narcotics acts, migratory bird acts, regulations governing motor offenses on forest reserves and public lands. The majority of these new laws are misdemeanors, calling for fine only, or a fine and a short jail sentence.

Procedure Is Illustrated.
"In Oregon, for instance, a man is arrested at Lakeview for violating the prohibition law. In winter he is returned to his home town, where witnesses have to be transported by way of Reno, Nev., to this city. They come to the grand jury hearing, are returned to their homes and the man called back for the trial and again returned at government expense. The defendant is found guilty and fined $200. The witness fees and expenses cost the government several thousand dollars."

"There has been considerable demand for a statute that would extend to the various United States commissioners now holding offices in practically all important county seats the right to hear such cases and assess fines up to $500 and impose jail sentences up to 60 days."

System Would Be Economical.
"Such a system would prove economical to the government, provide a speedier and less costly means of trial for the accused and do away with the necessity of dragging witnesses away from their homes and spending a week or so in attendance at court or the grand jury. It would make the prohibition law far more effective in that prosecutions brought before state and city courts could be carried before a federal commissioner."

"Punishment for first offenders could be dealt out by the commissioner; in cases where men continue to violate the prohibition law indictments could be secured by the federal court and the prosecution conducted as a felony."

"Pyro-Form" Continues to Banish Mouth Plague

Pyorrhoea Sufferers Highly Endorse Scientific Preparation

It is seldom that any new remedy for Pyorrhoea meets with any marked degree of success but an outstanding exception is evidenced in the remarkable sale of "Pyro-Form." The remedy was introduced on the Pacific Coast only four months ago. Thousands welcomed this preparation when an announcement was made that it was sold under a money-back guarantee to stop the dreaded disease of the mouth and gums.

COLDS
"Pape's Cold Compound" Breaks a Cold in Few Hours

Don't stay snuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Take "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken. The first dose opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages of head; stops nose running; relieves headache, dizziness, feverishness, sneezing. The

MINISTER PRAISES SCHOOL MEASURE

Rev. E. I. Goshen Speaks at Lincoln Auditorium.

MASONS HOLD MEETING

Pastor From Salt Lake City Declares Ignorance and Bigotry Are Menace.

TAX REDUCTION IS CITED

MR. MCARTHUR SPEAKS AT REPUBLICAN RALLIES.

Representative Principal Talker at Meetings in Brooklyn and Richmond Schools.

Republican rallies at which Representative McArthur was the principal speaker were held last night at the Brooklyn and Richmond schools. Mr. McArthur went into detail as to the operation of the new national budget law and quoted figures showing that the national debt has been reduced by more than $1,700,000,000 since President Harding's inauguration on March 4, 1921. He also explained that the annual operating expenses of the government were $1,743,317,789 less during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, than during the last previous fiscal year.

"This is the greatest reduction of public debt and public expenditure among the nations of the world since the armistice," said Mr. McArthur. "Furthermore, the record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record shows that the present republican congress has appropriated one-third of a billion less for the current fiscal year than it did for the year ending June 30, 1922. The budget law, passed early in the life of the present congress, is largely responsible for this reduction. The record