

EDSEL FORD HERE FOR CONFERENCE

Motor Company Head Shuns Newspaper Interviewers.

SPECIAL CAR IS LATE

Heir Presumptive to Millions Keeps Local Chiefs Busy at Night Meeting.

Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, and his presumptive heir, Mr. Henry Ford, arrived in Portland late yesterday afternoon from the south aboard his private car.

Both the Fairlane and Mr. Ford were late, several hours late in fact, owing to an early morning departure from the Shastis station of the Southern Pacific and by reason of this tardiness plans for the entertainment of Mr. Ford and his party were virtually abandoned.

Reported to be a keen young business man, the chief of one of the greatest industrial enterprises in the world insisted upon the night conference, and did not even dine at a downtown hotel.

Edsel is a fine fellow, said Cadet Bryant. He was my brother's club back in Michigan before Mr. Ford made his fortune. I was only a little chap, of course, and I remember those days quite clearly.

Edsel was treated fairly by the newspapers during the war. It is quite true that he didn't enlist, but he wanted to. Uncle Henry wished him to stay and help with the company.

Edsel Ford has twice before visited the coast—once when he visited the San Francisco exposition passing through Portland, and once at the wheel of a special model racing auto, a Clever for all that in a try for the transcontinental motoring record from New York to Seattle.

Race Won by 18 Hours

It was one of the seasons of the Seattle boat race, and the record reads that Edsel Ford won his boat race by a matter of 18 hours. He was then a boy in his teens.

Mr. Ford is accompanied on his tour of inspection by W. A. Ryan of Detroit, B. L. Graves of Los Angeles and several other members of the Ford organization.

United States Senator Johnson is expected to win over his democratic opponent, William J. Pearson, by a quarter of a million votes. The race for governor between Friend W. Richardson, republican, and Thomas Lee Woolwine, wet democrat, is being hotly contested, with both sides claiming victory.

There is only one congressional contest, that in the sixth district, where L. MacLafferty, republican, is figured an easy winner. In the first and second districts the republican incumbents won the democratic nomination at the primaries and have no opposition today.

WRIGHT BANDITS' VICTIM

How Wisconsin ex-Professor Met Death Is Explained.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Lester James Wright of Waukesha, Wis., formerly a professor at the University of Wisconsin, whose murder near Aleppo, Syria, was reported early this week, met his death at the hands of eight Kurd bandits, a sylvanian republican plurality could be assured the ticket, one learns at headquarters, for of course, you understand that these bandits were due to the judicious use of money by the late Mr. Penrose. That $200,000 in currency found in the Penrose safety deposit was for some purpose, but Penrose died and the cash went to his estate.

Pinchot Digs Up Little

Pinchot decreed that the collection of campaign funds from state employees must cease and it did cease. The business of the state came across. Those who did not like Pinchot gave their contributions to the national committees and Senators Pepper and Davis Reed. Those who did not mind Pinchot still failed to loosen up, opining that a millionaire never would feel if he saw his name on a drive out the bootleggers. That made him popular with the drys but exceedingly unwelcome to wet districts. One nominated Pinchot seemed to take special delight in detailing to wet communities his plans for reform. In vain did the republican managers protest and point out that McSparran, though a dry also, was keeping mighty quiet on the liquor issues and improving the chance of garnering wet support.

Republican Is Preferred

The job holders and contract beneficiaries figure they will vote for a republican, even though an uplifter, than under a democrat. Also they would be regular against the time when a republican will dig up the other party and the old guard will expel Pinchot and his followers to stay on the reservation.

Pinchot Digs Up Little

No, if Pinchot should be beaten it will not be the result of any plot on the part of the old guard. It will be because of a combination of circumstances over which the organization has had no control.

In the first place the republican candidate figure they primary have is no money for campaign workers and propaganda to counteract the democratic drive. If the republicans only had a bare-bones old-time Pennsylvania republican plurality could be assured the ticket, one learns at headquarters, for of course, you understand that these bandits were due to the judicious use of money by the late Mr. Penrose. That $200,000 in currency found in the Penrose safety deposit was for some purpose, but Penrose died and the cash went to his estate.
