Ironize More Foods
One of the body's daily needs is food-iron for the blood.
Raisins furnish iron—the natural, organic iron which is most easily assimilated by the system.
Add raisins, therefore, to cakes, cookies, breakfast foods, bread, etc., and you add this benefit as well as luscious flavor.
Sun-Maid Raisins should cost you no more than the following prices:
Seeded (in 15 oz. blue package)—20c
Seedless (in 15 oz. red package)—18c
Seeded or Seedless (1 oz.)—15c argument about drawn butter. What do you mean by drawn butter?

H. M. S.
NOT knowing what recipe you use, I cannot say whether your technique of mixing the two parts of the parfait is at fault, or whether you use too much liquid in proportion to your "whip." It is sure to be one or the other, I think.
You can use practically any closely woven heavy white cotton material. Those sold in stores are usually made of a rather fine duck or else of a waterproof material. They can be obtained at any large hardware store.
If you make the bag yourself you will still have to buy the metal boxes or tubes. If you do not want fancy tubes, but only plain ones (for shaping eclairs and lady fingers, for instance) a paper cone will be found just as satisfactory for family quantities and will save the time spent in the necessary scalding and cleaning of the fabric bag. For fancy things the metal "force" is better than the old-fashioned bag.
I do not mean anything by the term "drawn butter" because I never use it. I am sure that if I can avoid it, and if I do use it I carefully explain in which sense it is intended. Both "drawn butter" and "melted butter" are terms used in old-fashioned cookbooks to indicate two quite different products.
One set of writers used to describe "drawn butter" and "melted butter" as meaning simply butter served hot as a sauce with or without a little seasoning or flavoring.
Another set of writers would always describe "drawn butter" or "melted butter" as a sauce made by combining butter and water with a little thickening. The "argument" about it over 100 years old, and has never been settled.
Hence it is best to avoid using these ambiguous old-fashioned terms and to say "hot butter" when you mean hot butter, and "plain butter sauce" when you mean sauce.

DEAR MISS TINGLE: I have a faint recollection of some reader recently requesting of you a recipe for pickled raisins or raisins like she had had in California.
I just came across some while adding some new items from the Sunday paper to my collection. This one was clipped from a magazine. I have not tried it, so can not vouch for same, but thought it might serve its purpose.
Thanking you for your many kindnesses. I am a persistent reader of your column below my name.
Many thanks for your recipe. I hope it is the one desired by my correspondent.
Sweet Raisin Pickle (Mrs. L. H. D.).—Eight bunches of raisins, two teaspoons powdered cloves, one quart vinegar, four cups granulated sugar, powdered sugar, two teaspoons powdered cinnamon. Dissolve the granulated sugar in the vinegar and add the spices. When the vinegar begins to boil add the whole bunches of raisins and allow to boil for 10 minutes. Remove the raisins from the vinegar and place in quart jars. Allow the vinegar to boil six minutes longer, then pour over raisins and seal.

When ready to serve, take a bunch of raisins from the jar, sprinkle with powdered sugar, place in a saucer for a few minutes, then set aside to cool.

Problems of Dressmaking
by Madam Richey

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 4.—Dear Madam Richey: I have a dark blue serge dress which is very plain with nothing on it. Has little gathering on the waist. I would like to wear it for winter wear. I have a narrow giraffe of the material as in your dress and finish the long ends with tassels made of the combined heads. The sleeves are gathered at the wrist with a red canton. I am sure your dress will seem quite new with these changes.

NEWBERG, Or., Oct. 2.—Dear Madam Richey: I have a navy blue serge suit that I should like to make into a dress. The jacket is plain and straight, 20 inches long with plain sleeves. The skirt is a two-piece model fitted to waist line and is 25 inches long and 60 inches around lower edge. Would you please suggest a narrow giraffe to combine with it? Also to make it, I do my own sewing and have a dress form, an iron and 5 feet 8 1/2 inches tall, weigh 150 pounds; have good complexion, dark blue eyes and dark brown hair.

A tan jersey cloth will make a splendid coat and cap for the little lad. Line with the good quality of saten matching the material as closely as possible.

Dear Madam Richey—My small son, 14 months old, received a present of a very nicely made coat, dark green in color.
Somehow the dark color doesn't look right on such a "baby." He has blue eyes and light brown hair.
Could you suggest a little trimming or brightening up for it?
Yours very truly, MRS. F. W. W.
F. W. W.—The green coat for such a young son is rather trying, but I am sure that with the collar and cuffs of the gray caracul you will see a very pleasing change. A cunning cap with a button or two of the caracul would be attractive and make quite an outfit for the little lad.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD
Woman Relied Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago when I was a girl. For several years I had severe menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies without obtaining relief. I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion and do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. You may use these facts as a testimonial."
EVA ALDRICH, 215 Union St., Emporia, Kansas.

There are many women who first used our Vegetable Compound during their girlhood days. They found it a valuable help during trying periods. In later years they use it whenever they feel those annoying symptoms which women often have.
It is prepared carefully from medicinal plants, whose properties are especially adapted to correct the troubles women have.
