

43,000 PUPILS HEAR APPEAL OF CHEST

Speakers Give Ten-Minute Talks in 60 Schools.

SIGHTS HEART-RENDING

Contributions to Care for Babies, Unfortunate Girls and Helpless Held Real Privilege.

The 43,000 children attending the Portland public schools are this week hearing the message of the Community Chest, the entire speakers' bureau having concentrated on the 60 schools for 10-minute addresses. Miniature objects will be placed in every building in the city next week and into these the children will drop their contributions, many of which will be the nickels, dimes and quarters that would otherwise be spent for lollipops and movies. This division of the chest work is in the hands of William F. Woodward and J. A. Handmaker.

The Waverly Baby Home, the White Shield Home, Woodmere Old People's Home, St. Rose's Industrial Home and the Neighborhood Homes were visited Friday and yesterday by local ministers and women who are taking an active part in the chest campaign. In order to be able to care for themselves in their declining years, it is one that is bound to carry conviction to the heart of the most skeptical. I wish everyone might visit these institutions. They are now well they are managed and what noble work they are doing. They would feel that it was not merely a duty, but a real privilege to have a part in such an undertaking.

E. C. Sammons, general of the drive, said yesterday: "In order to be able to care for themselves in their declining years, it is one that is bound to carry conviction to the heart of the most skeptical. I wish everyone might visit these institutions. They are now well they are managed and what noble work they are doing. They would feel that it was not merely a duty, but a real privilege to have a part in such an undertaking."

Harry T. Humphrey has taken the place of Frank Ransom as director-general of the first division and Mr. Ransom will act as his assistant. The column in this division are Frank E. Sawyer, E. J. Hanky, Charles E. Gray, Lloyd Bates, Guy Thatcher, George F. Martin, Harry E. Cowgill, W. B. McKay, H. E. Coleman and Mrs. S. L. Eddy, brigadier-general. Adjutant, Leslie Cranbourne; colonels, T. W. Zimmerman, S. C. Kohls, Harold Jungst, A. Clark, L. R. Bailey, Charles R. Bayfield, Charles S. Holbrook, L. E. Williams, A. B. Carlson, F. R. Ephshaw.

Mere belief or suspicion that violations of the prohibition law are being committed on private property is not legal grounds for the issuance of a warrant for search of that property, maintained lawyers representing Louis Stancliffe, arrested recently at Prineville. An attack on the legality of Stancliffe's arrest was made in the federal court yesterday in the shape of a motion to quash the charge against him.

A week ago Wade Huston, ex-deputy sheriff of Crook county, appeared before United States Commissioner Beckel at Prineville and swore out a search warrant, declaring that he believed liquor was being made in Stancliffe's barn. The warrant was served by two federal agents from Portland on October 3, and two stills, a considerable quantity of mash and several gallons of moonshine were found in a room constructed in a haymow and covered with hay in Stancliffe's barn. The owner was arrested on a charge of manufacturing liquor and bound over to the United States grand jury by Beckel.

The attorneys for the accused man base their contention on recent rulings of federal courts in connection with the liquor traffic, holding that evidence of sale of liquor must be obtained before any federal agent can get a search warrant. Prohibition enforcement officials declared that if local federal courts insist on a strict following of the wording of the statute and the opinions of other federal courts, they will be seriously hampered in their work.

General George A. White, adjutant-general of Oregon, is president of the association. All members of the association, which was formed to promulgate the "one big army" idea and knit together the forces of the regular army, national guard and reserves, have been urgently requested to attend the reception, which will be held at 8 o'clock.

Man Attempts to Stretch Pay Check

"Hey, Tom, what are you up to with that pay check? You have a reckless look in your eye."

"I'll say I have. I'm going out to buy a suit if the old pay check will stretch that far. And the deuce of it is I need about $10 out of the old check for other things, too."

"Say, you must be making big money these days if you can stop out on Saturday noons like this and buy new suits on a weekly pay check and have some left over besides."

"Quit kidding me. I didn't say what was going to do. That's just what I ought to do. Deuce of it is, I simply have to have a new suit and I can't wait until I get more money. I must have it soon. It's bound to be a cheap suit that I am ashamed to wear."

"I've learned from experience. A good suit lasts twice as long as a cheap one and a man's never ashamed of his appearance, either."

"Yes, but what does a man do if he can't afford a good one?"

"He always can if he buys at the right place. Say, why don't you go to Chert's, 249 Morrison st., 3d floor? They have good quality suits and overcoats and you can make monthly payments."—Adv.
