

SENATE TO KEEP PIERCE IN CHECK

Any Display of Radical Ideas to Be Squashed.

SAFE POLICY TO GET AID

Welfare of State Is to Be Watched by Group; Eye to Be on Patronage, Too.

Although having a not unfriendly house organization at his disposal, Walter M. Pierce, when he becomes governor, will find that the state senate is proving a stumbling block if he displays radical ideas. This much has cropped up from remarks made by various members of the senate.

Provided Mr. Pierce's advisors are of the conservative type, represented by William Pollock, banker and editor of Baker, and the governor pursues a safe policy for the state, he will find the senate majority, republican though it is, offering no obstacles. If, however, Mr. Pierce launches radical ideas he will meet with determined opposition in the senate.

Power to Be Taken Away.

Furthermore, if Mr. Pierce begins swinging the ax at the senate, official heads for the sake merely of providing jobs for his followers to the extent that his appointees will impair efficiency of the government, there is a disposition to deprive the governor of as much patronage as possible.

Eye to Be Kept on Governor.

For strictly party reasons there will be an organization in the senate with an eye upon the governor's office. Belief is expressed that Mr. Pierce, now that the governor, will be shaping his course to run for United States senator in two or four years and to aid himself in that ambition he will, naturally, surround himself with men who will be the driving power of the Pierce machine.

Far-sighted republicans are preparing to prevent any such programme, figuring that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Then, too, a democratic state machine assembled by Mr. Pierce will make it more difficult to keep Oregon in the republican ranks in the presidential election of 1924. Consequently, for the sake of the party, the republican senators will maintain a vigilant watch on the moves of Mr. Pierce.

Safe Policy Is Demanded.

It is no part of the proposed republican organization in the senate to provide political ammunition for the democratic governor. Few, if any, bills will have their origin in the upper house which will enable the governor, with a wild whoop of publicity, to exercise power. The old game of "putting the governor in a hole" has no part in the plans of the republican senators. If the governor gets in a hole it will be a hole of his own design.

What the senate craves is to insist that Mr. Pierce be safe and constructive. There is to be no trouble from the senate, but a safe policy is pursued, but radical proposals from the executive's office are to be flattened out like a pancake. Neither do republican leaders propose having Mr. Pierce "pass the buck." Any time Mr. Pierce says: "This is an idea I have, fix up laws to make it workable," when the idea is not workable, it is not to be capitalized later by Mr. Pierce telling the people that the legislature refused to help him. Mr. Pierce's ideas are workable he will find co-operation, provided they are for the benefit of the state.

BEFORE AN IMPROVED ALTAR

Miss Jeanette Meier, bright-eyed, her troth last night to Walter Heller of San Francisco at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Meier. In the presence of a fashionable assemblage of people, Rabbi Jonah B. Wise performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was handsome in her stunning wedding robe of white velvet, adorned with pearls and cut on graceful lines with a long train. Her veil was of real lace, becomingly arranged with orange blossoms and falling to the length of her train. She carried a shower bouquet of white gardenias and lilacs of the day.

Miss Jean Meier, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She was most attractive in a creation of yellow chiffon and carried an armful of yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Elsa Meier, another cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Allen E. Meier, the bride's sister-in-law, were her attendants. They were much admired in their smart frocks of blue chiffon. Their flowers were yellow chrysanthemums.

Little Dorothy Frank, the daughter of Mrs. Lloyd Frank, and Elizabeth Erlman, the daughter of Mrs. William Heller Erlman, were the flower girls. They were attired in flesh pink chiffon and carried baskets of flowers in the pastel shades.

Richard A. Shainwald of San Francisco acted as best man. The ushers included Allen E. Meier, Lloyd Frank, William Heller Erlman and Joseph Erlman Jr. of San Francisco.

Following the ceremony, a beautifully appointed dinner was given. The dining room was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. Covers were placed for 125 guests. Mrs. Meier, the mother of the bride, was beautifully gowned in black velvet. Mrs. M. Heller, mother of the bridegroom, wore a costume of blue velvet and silver. Later in the evening the guests enjoyed dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Heller left for a wedding trip to the east, after which they will make their home in San Francisco. What's What

By Helen Decie

IN the social circles which used to be called "the four hundred," and which is still a small element in any large community, there are certain ultra-severe formalities which it is not possible for larger circles to follow—even if they would—and which, indeed, are not always obeyed by the freer spirits of the inner circle.

One formality, however, should be respected in all circles, and that is the code which safeguards girls. A very young girl should not be out alone late at night. In the narrow circle mentioned she is not supposed to be out with any man except father, brother or uncle, unless a chaperon accompanies her, but in wider circles, wider latitude is allowed. If her home social convention permits her to go to an evening entertainment accompanied by a young man known to her family, it is proper for some member of the family to go up to see to it when she goes for her and to exchange good-nights with her companion.

Housewife's Idea Box

Let bake and rise until the top side is quite full of holes like a honeycomb, then turn, ring and all, and bake on the other side. Wrap in a cloth when finished. They should be limp and leathery until toasted. Toast (without splitting) to a nice crisp brown; serve very hot with plenty of butter.

Tutti-frutti salad—(Mrs. C. H.)—Three apples cut up, three bananas cut up, one cup of pineapple cut up, one cup of walnuts chopped, four heart stalks of celery cut up, lettuce and candied cherries for trimming.

Dressing—Three eggs, one-half cup mixed vinegar and pineapple juice or lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon salt, three tablespoons of sugar, one-fourth cup olive oil.

Beat eggs, add vinegar, salt and sugar; cook over hot water until thick. When cool add cream; have fruit in bowl, mix in the dressing and line salad bowl with lettuce and garnish with cherries, or serve in individual portions as preferred. A little whipped cream may be added if desired.

Symphony Concert Series Inaugurated Tonight.

Royal Daddman, Voted Baritone, to Be Special Artist.

THIS evening at the Hellig theater the Portland symphony orchestra will give the opening concert of its 12th season, with Royal Daddman, a distinguished baritone, as assisting artist. One of the unfortunate things about the possession by a city of a symphony orchestra is that it makes it possible to hear not only symphony masterpieces, but also famous vocal numbers with orchestral accompaniment. All of the great arias from operas were intended to be sung with orchestra—and one of the most celebrated, the "Eri tu" from Verdi's "Ballo in Maschera," will be given by Daddman this evening. "Eri tu" is "Thou" is the reproach uttered by a husband to the friend who, he thinks, betrays his wife.

She has betrayed me, in whose love I felt all secret!
Oh, the pang of a joy departed,
Lost crosses that made life a heaven,

RADIO SHOW IS PLANNED

DEALERS' ASSOCIATION IN FAVOR OF EXHIBITION.

Amateur Organizations to Be Interested in Affair to Begin on November 25.

Portland has had its livestock shows, its automobile shows and a lot of other kinds of shows, which have attracted the admiration of many other sections of the country. Now comes the very newest kind of a show to demonstrate the wonders of the newest and most fascinating science—radio telephony. Radio shows have already been held in the eastern cities, in San Francisco and in Seattle, and each show has brought thousands of persons into closer and more intimate touch with the new science. Doubters came to scoff but remained converted into enthusiastic radio fans.

Plans for a Portland radio show to be held from November 25 to December 2 were brought before the local radio dealers' association at a meeting held last night at the Chamber of Commerce. A consensus of opinion among the radio men favored holding the show.

It is planned to interest the local amateur radio organizations, and also the various radio clubs in the schools and community centers of the city. Among the features presented are unique and interesting exhibits, vaudeville entertainment, radio concert demonstrations, radio contests of very description and other stunts.

The show will be held in the downtown district, close to the business center and theaters.

Problems of Dressmaking

by Madam Richet

Dear Madam Richet: I have two lengths of inclosed sample of American Beauty, the exact size of this copy, 40 inches long, 25 inches wide, 25 inches wide at the other. I wrote you before, but the letter must have been misplaced. I am 5 feet 4 inches tall, bust 36, waist 26, hips 37, bust 35, dark hair, blue eyes. Would you send me a pattern, or can you suggest something better?

MRS. S. J. M.

MRS. S. J. M.—Your letter must have been lost as I do not recall a letter such as yours. Copy in general line the frock shown in the cover design of the November issue, using the wonderful American Beauty for the bodice and the black lace for the skirt, all in one or in two-flounced effect. The velvet ribbons should match your silk and tone up the black lace of the skirt. A steel buckle would be a stunning touch at the waist line. With the velvet ribbons as shown need not be followed. Wear a large Spanish comb with jet motifs and the jet earrings.

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 6.—Dear Madam Richet: I have a black velvet suit that I want to remodel for the winter. It is made of 20 pounds, dark hair and eyes, some color, and in the 40s. Very sincerely,
MRS. M. C. E.

Mrs. M. C. E.—For a dress which will have the more tailored line which the model shown in the Butterick Quarterly for the winter styles, page 27, No. 3623. I would suggest that you have the buttons and the vest, also the collar, of the red velvet and steel beads, following closely the design as shown. Continue the braiding down the pleat rather than at the side as pictured. While the model to which I shall refer you is not strictly a negligee, it is far too like one to be used for a blouse and would seem to much better suit the needs you will desire in such a bit of apparel. See the Fashionable Dress for November, page 39, No. 2561. Have the sleeves of the dress and the vest with the contrasting shade being found in a flower of silver with the light blue ostrich willows as a background.

New Today in the Markets

RASPBERRIES and strawberries are still offered in the markets occasionally at about 25 cents a box. A few raspberries were shown yesterday at that price. They were of good appearance and are said to be more satisfactory than strawberries, which are quite watery. California walnuts are expected this week.

The first Florida cumquats have arrived. These are a small Chinese citrus fruit, resembling an orange, and are choice for marmalade, preserves and bitter sweets. They are sold at 60 cents a quart basket.

California lettuce is being shown in considerable quantity and is priced at 15 cents a head. The quality of it is poor, however, although better than at first shown.

Popcorn is offered at three pounds for a quarter, and is one more addition to the list of winter-time delicacies which are coming onto the market one by one.

Valencia oranges are coming down in price, the 35-cent variety being offered at 25 cents and the 30-cent size at 20 cents. Few large oranges are shown.
