

BEDLAM IS LOOSED BY AGGIE STUDENTS

Corvallis Deafened by All Sorts of Noise-Making.

CANNON STARTS RALLY

Frenzied Parade Through Streets and Great Bonfire Features of Homecoming Events.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

Corvallis, Nov. 17.—(Special)

—Summarized to arms by the roar of cannon, the 3100 students in the Oregon Agricultural college and the hundreds of alumni already on the campus for the homecoming weekend, snatched up horns, drums, cymbals, Chinese crabs, cymbals and every other noise-making device they could think of and proceeded in a body to turn Corvallis upside out.

Not a citizen objected, but aided in the "painting" process instead, for all Benton county feels that this is the agricultural college's year for a victory in football over the state champion.

Old residents of Corvallis, stared in wonder at the exhibition of energy and life as the parade surged through the city streets, columns of men whipping like mad from curb to curb, huge trucks and wagons propelled by hand carrying symbolic displays, and as the din from drums, these persons declared that never before had the students "cut loose" in that fashion. Co-eds had to be contented with blowing horns during the parade.

Caravan Jolts Parade.

An irresistible force—the auto caravan from Portland, loaded with alumni—and an immovable object, the Beaver spirit of the students in the stadium—met on Second street, but a chemical affusion exploded and together they swept toward the campus to light the rook bonfire that is held the funeral pyre of hopes of the University of Oregon in today's football game.

Blachers erected in the armory served as a resting place for the students before the bonfire was lit.

Here the winner of the national peace oratorical contest, Clarence Hickok, used all his power in convincing the hearts of the students a final spirit that would be irresistible. Martial music by the college cadet band and singing of Angle fighting songs, a speech by Professor Henry C. Northam, president of the school, music by a quartet and a speech by Coach Rutherford roused the fighting blood in everyone present, and Dow Walker of Portland, with a tale of some of the experiences of the team of '04, led up to the singing of Alma Mater, led by Dr. D. V. Poling of Albany.

Lynn Conley of Portland, and G. V. Morrissey of Corvallis, yell leaders, then led the way to the bonfire, south of Waldo hall.

Great Stock in Flaming.

Built in 36 hours by the freshman class the structure that went up in flames presented an imposing appearance. Fully 40 feet high and 34 feet square, the oil-soaked "stack" lit the entire city when the four class presidents ignited the bonfire.

The party of editors from over Oregon, expected at first to number approximately 50, has grown by leaps and bounds until 140 will be reached and acceptances of the invitation of the student body are still coming in. Grandstand seats are ready for these editors and their wives, and the tickets will be given out at the luncheons in their honor at noon today.

CORVALIS GREETS ALUMNI

Great Reception Prepared for Old Grads and Many Events Billed.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 17.—(Special)

—Alumni are flocking into the city to attend the homecoming for the direction, and they were met with a reception that many of them declared they would remember forever.

The city resembles one in which a Fourth of July celebration is under way. Flags draped banners and special decorations windows greet on every side.

Registration at the alumni headquarters in the commerce building Saturday morning from 8 to 12 o'clock will assist Miss Zelta Felke, alumni secretary, in handing the crowd. The great rush at 11 o'clock will be a crisis event on the programme today.

A soccer game between the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural college teams at 9:30 will begin the day's activities. The afternoon events in the stadium will begin at 1:30 o'clock, with a luncheon given by students to their visitors. The Beaver feed in the college tea room at 6 o'clock and the home-coming dance in the men's gymnasium at 8 o'clock will wind up the activities for the weekend. General visiting Sunday afternoon will be observed.

OREGON STUDENTS IN RALLY

Big Parade Is Held in Streets of University City.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Nov. 17.—(Special)—The final rally in the battle with Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis tomorrow was held by the students of the University of Oregon tonight, when they serenaded through the city of Eugene to the tune of "To Hell to Hell With Agriculture," to Hell With Agriculture. The little city went out in mass cheering them on, stirring up the accumulated spirit which has been multiplying in the hearts of the lemon-yellow rooters since the game last year.

A howling, enthusiastic, almost crazed body of men and women tramped the streets of Eugene theaters, through the center of town, and back to the campus, bursting their lungs in the excitement.

The yelling and shrieking for two steady hours demonstrated the attitude with which Oregon is going to put its team into the final round. Oregon is confident, and feels the pigskin can be put over the Aggie goal line, as it has so many times before.

LODGE TEMPLE IS READY

Red Men to Dedicate New Building on East Side Sunday.

Willamette tribe, No. 6, Improved Order of Red Men, will dedicate its new temple on East Ninth street and Hawthorne avenue, Sunday, November 26, at 1:30 P. M. The speak-

CHURCHILL DEFEAT ONE BIG SURPRISE

E. Scrymgour, Prohibitionist, Unseats ex-Secretary.

CORNER ORATIONS CITED

Man of Fanatical Convictions, Raucous Voice, Violent Style of Oratory," Description.

CLASS PLAY DELIGHTFUL

WASHINGTON HIGH ACTORS SCORE BIG SUCCESS.

Presentation of Satire on Frothy Side of Life Masterful and Charms Large Audience.

Nearly 500 young and enthusiastic classmates and proud parents and friends saw the January 15, 1922, class of Washington high school present "Dulcy" in the municipal auditorium last night. Audience and cast got real enjoyment out of the bright little satire on frothy life of this day, and it was fortunate that Mr. Scrymgour was able to picture it in a forcible and effective manner.

"Dulcy" is one of those snap-up-to-date studies of modern life that are enjoying such a vogue these days. It scintillates with bright lines and carefully planned scenes and denouements. The cast handled their many operations results like veterans and showed the results of careful coaching and were letter perfect, the only error being that they were even a little too perfect at times, a most excellent fault and a good play where many and more a halting one.

Dulcy, in the person of Alleen Burrows, was just such a vivacious person as fitted the role. Her work, while difficult in its studied crudity, displayed real histrioic talent. Ange Warden played by Violet Faulkner was a wily, charming character. Mildred Copenhagen handled the difficult role of Mrs. Forster with discernment. The girls were exceptionally well clad and dressed their parts well. In fact, all the makeup and wardrobe were of a professional class.

On the stage, Dulcy's husband, Clifford Zehring, had the most difficult part, and presented it in excellent fashion. Harold Peterson as Mr. Forster entered into the spirit of being 53 in a gathering of young folks and received a handsome amount of applause. Richard Soden must have devoted some time to studying down to the bone for he had it down to perfection, as did Melvin Stewart as the "loose nut."

The great feature of the evening was the enjoyment that all were in the employment that all were in the battle of the dainty assortment of tulle-clad candy girls to principals on the stage. The girls should be complimented for the machine-like precision with which the entertainment moved, and not a hit of the enjoyment came from the efforts of the Washington high school orchestra, under the direction of Harold Bayley.

STUDENTS LEAVE TODAY

Need Delegation to Attend Conference at Berkeley, Cal.

A N OASIS of harmony and fun was the minstrel show at the Heilig last night, and an audience that packed the theater even unto the topmost boxes was in attendance.

Rusca & Hockwald have been sending musical companies on tour for many years and making a financial and artistic success in their ventures when bigger and more pretentious offerings have failed.

Representatives of 12 colleges and universities on the Pacific coast will gather in Berkeley for the semi-annual conference of inter-collegiate student body presidents and the annual meeting of the Pacific Inter-collegiate Press association.

Pacific coast institutions which will be represented are University of Washington, Washington State University, Oregon Agricultural college, Willamette university, Reed college, University of California, Leland Stanford university, University of British Columbia, University of Idaho and Pacific university.

DRIVERS TO GET LIMIT

Drunken Autoists Will Receive Maximum Penalty, Says Judge.

Intoxicated automobile drivers appearing before Judge Ekwall in the municipal court in the future will be sentenced to 30 days in jail, their license will be suspended for an indefinite period, and they also pay a heavy fine in addition, according to a statement made yesterday by the judge after several such cases had appeared before him.

"Too much of this is going on today," declared the judge. "There only one way to stop it, and that is to make the offenders pay the maximum punishment. From now on any such case appearing before me will get the limit."

Ernest Palmerston, who was arrested for driving while drunk and having a passenger, was fined $75 and his license suspended six months. Palmerston, on the night of November 15 ran down an elderly woman at East Twenty-eighth and Sandy. When arrested he was found to be intoxicated and liquor was found in his car.

Alleged Gunman Arraigned.

BEND, OR., Nov. 17.—(Special)—Indicted by the Deschutes county grand jury, Walter Danneier was arraigned in circuit court here this morning on a charge of assaulting Owen Thompson. He will plead to prove he was acting in self-defense and already pleaded guilty and had been sentenced to pay $200 and to serve a 50-day jail term for carrying concealed weapons. Witnesses stated that Thompson drew a gun as Danneier rushed him with a choir.

Liquor Raids Net Seven.

In a series of liquor raids conducted last night by members of the police, four squads seven persons were arrested as violators of the city dry laws. The names were Mike Bokich and Don Steve, taken at 249 Couch street, Anthony Maras, Mike Maras and Steve Erga, caught at 35 North First street, and Koste Christ and Louis Steen, arrested at 511 Lovejoy street.

ed again and again for the charm and melody in their baritone voices. The soloists, composed of original ways were Huri and Harry. Next two of the six amusing comedians. Later the six brothers put on a clever vaudeville skit in soldiering with steps. Al Coleman and Lasses Brown, the latter of whom afforded his agility by maneuvers with his surprisingly large mouth, with Arthur Malone, completed the list of principals.

The olio was filled with vaudeville specialties, in which the comedy of Frank Kirk as a musical man afforded great fun, and Chick Beem's mimicry was most amusing. A courtroom comedy, on the levee, a trio of amazing young men dancers and plenty of new songs and jokes rounded out the programme. It moves rapidly and with a constant flood of applause. The men's voices are genuinely rich and melodic, and their harmony is delightful.

There will be a matinee today and a performance tonight.

New Lumber Company Formed.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 17.—(Special)—Articles of incorporation for the Western Lumber & Door company were filed today with the Clarke county recorder. The company, which is capitalized at $50,000, plans to take over the plants of the Iceless Refrigerator company, now defunct, and operate a lumber mill and sash and door factory. The incorporators are: U. McDonald of Bellingham, Harry Bates of Seattle, W. P. LaRoche of Portland and Louis Schaefer of Vancouver.

Transportation Luncheon Topic.

ester W. Soden, who recently completed a tour of the world, is to address members of the Portland Transportation club at their regular meeting next Tuesday noon on "Interest in Foreign Lands." Mr. Soden studied transportation problems during his five years of traveling in Asia, Africa, South America and Japan.

Subterfuges Are Gone.

"We are rid," said the Westminster Gazette, "of the compromises and subterfuges which have made parliamentarians clickable" while the Daily News declares the action "has blown a breath of clean air into our discredited parliamentary institution" and rejoices at the establishment of a "strong, effective and able opposition."

They recognize that the outcome means a return to party government and the disappearance of all they most disliked in the survival of the coalition long after they regarded its dissolution as due.

Subterfuges Are Gone.

"We are rid," said the Westminster Gazette, "of the compromises and subterfuges which have made parliamentarians clickable" while the Daily News declares the action "has blown a breath of clean air into our discredited parliamentary institution" and rejoices at the establishment of a "strong, effective and able opposition."

They recognize that the outcome means a return to party government and the disappearance of all they most disliked in the survival of the coalition long after they regarded its dissolution as due.

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

Several of the newspapers derived satisfaction from the fact that the conservative majority is not overwhelmingly large, thus enabling the opposition to exercise a wholesome check-up on the predominant party.

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

The Times regarded the results with dissatisfaction and said it deserved a laudable argument for maintenance of the coalition. The newspaper would have preferred that the balance be held more evenly between the liberals and laborites but believes the country has nothing to fear and much to gain from ventilation of the labor party's ideas in particular.

The Daily Herald, exulting over labor's successes, said it anticipated another election within 18 months, and added:

"If meantime we play our cards boldly and skillfully we ought to have a labor government without a doubt."

<p