

Female Libs Hate Jackie

Jackie Onassis is hated by the women's Lib. It is not hard to understand because the former first lady is opposite of everything the women's Liberation Movement stands for and she is the most popular American female alive.

Many feminists continue to ask the question what makes her so popular and why? She's not a woman of accomplishment like Eleanor Roosevelt, Florence Nightingale or Marion Anderson?

She won a vogue contest and she married two powerful men, Jackie is a woman who believes in pleasing her husband, doing and seeing things his way, Jackie's line of thinking for a successful marriage she says, "The most important thing for a successful marriage is for the husband to do what he likes best and does well. The wife's satisfaction will follow."

This is against everything the feminist stands. They would say throw off their bras, get rid of the curlers, and look at themselves as persons, not sex objects but not Jackie-O. She has always been a man's woman and today she is America's most beautiful woman.

Her body is Jackie-O's first concern, and she treats it as her most important asset. One of her greatest assets in relationships with men is the total attention she pays to the person she is with. "When you're with her, she pays to the person she is with. "When you're with her, she makes you feel like you matter to her," said one of the men she dated before her marriage to Onassis.

In spite of the women's lib movement many American females still see in Jackie a woman who comes close to being ideal.

Highway needs chainmen, jr. inspectors

For the next several years, the Oregon State Highway Division will be engaged in a series of major construction projects in Eastern Oregon, extending from Hermiston to Ontario.

Because of the scope of the projects, there is a shortage of trained personnel available in the engineer technician level of junior inspectors and head chainmen. Highway personnel officials said there were several openings available in these areas. These jobs are subject to Personnel Division regulations.

Individuals interested in these openings should contact Robert Hector, Highway Regional Office Engineer in La-Grande.

Carolyn's Collections

CARAMEL PIE
 2½ Cups Sugar
 3 Tablespoons Flour
 2 Tablespoons Cornstarch
 3 Tablespoons Butter, Melted
 3 Cups Milk
 4 Large Eggs
 Pinch Salt

Combine in a large saucepan the sugar, flour and cornstarch. Add to this the butter, mild and slightly beaten yolks of the eggs. Add salt and place over medium heat.

Place ½-cup of sugar in a heavy skillet over medium heat. Stir the first mixture at frequent intervals while you keep an eye on the sugar in the skillet—don't stir. As soon as the custard mixture begins to cool slightly stir constantly until it reaches a rolling boil. By this time the sugar in the skillet should have begun to melt. When almost all of it has melted, stir well. It should be caramelized and bubbly all over.

As soon as this stage is reached add the first mixture, stirring constantly. Continue cooking until it is smooth, creamy and thickened.

Remove from heat. Beat the egg whites for meringue. Pour the caramel mixture into two baked 9 inch pastry shells. Top with meringue. Bake at 350 degrees until slightly browned.

TV Time Answer Girl

Q: You said the reason children under 18 were not allowed to be in David Frost's studio audience was the same reason they were not allowed in "X"-rated movies. Then why do they show both David Frost and some of the more suggestive movies on TV where children under 18 are watching?—K.S., Bristol, Conn.

A: You've a valid question. There are TV executives who maintain that such programming is based on the supposition that parents will guide the viewing of their offspring, as they are assumed to guide the movie fare. Realistically, of course, that is not always the case.

Q: Martin Milner is really cool. Is he as straight in real life as he seems to be on "Adam 12"?—G.M., Grand Rapids.

A: Possibly more so. In real life Marty describes himself as "very dull." He is very involved with the drug abuse campaign and travels a great deal for that cause.

Q: Is Laurie Prange, the young girl who was in the opening show of "The Name of the Game," going to be in other TV shows soon?—T.M., Baltimore.

A: After her successful TV debut in the "Name," Laurie was immediately signed for an upcoming role on "Medical Center."

Counselor calls on 'hot line'

Any person in the Portland Community College district can pick up the phone and call a counselor, on a new "hot line" just set up by the college.

Counseling appointments will be arranged on "hot line" request covering all sorts of problems about college programs, learning difficulties, financial aid, vocational choices, legal aid matters, testing and guidance, and personal problems. The telephone number is 244-6111, extension 302; it operates any time during the day and evening until 9 p.m. except Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday.

Sweater suit latest thing in men's wear

There's a new kind of suit abroad in menswear, a suit which marks the change from that old term to the newer designation of "men's fashions." It goes by various names, but "sweater" suit has been generally adopted to cover the varieties of this new look.

Instead of the standard jacket, pants and vest, tailored in a standard frame, the sweater suit conforms naturally and easily to the body. It's also capable of many colorful versions.

One popular style is based frankly on the cardigan, which becomes a jacket with a shirt collar and cuffs added. Viceroy Sportswear does it in a double-knit of acrylic and silk blend, bonded by the Coin process to acetate tricot. The bonding makes possible the tailoring of the knit into a suit look. Viceroy adds a wide leather belt, to make the fashion aspect of this new kind of suit.

Belts, in fact, are the accent seen everywhere on sweater suits. In other versions, they cross a sweater vest, which is worn with a shirt beneath it, a scarf in the neckline. Still other vest suits are made with bonded woven fabrics.

Elegant Heir, boys' fashion house, uses an acrylic fabric Coln-bonded to tricot, in gray and white plaid for a double-breasted and belted tunic vest and matching pants. Other versions come in chalk stripes or tweeds, just as do standard suits, but with all the new look of the sleeveless jacket and the sweater vest.

Still another form of the sweater suit is derived from medieval dress, the belted tunic and pants which were standard dress in those times. Like the sweater vests, the tunics pull on over the head.

Some have laced fronts, while others have convertible collars into which scarves can be tucked. The belts are varied, from lizard-print leather to wide black leather ones studded with metal grommets. (A Fashion League Feature)
