Day Care Mother of the week chosen

Mrs. Clarice Rush was chosen as "Day Care Mother of the Week" by the newly acquired N.Y.C. workers, working with the A.M.A. Family Day and Night Care Program. Working closely with child care coordinator, Mr. Archie Easter Jr., they held a drawing. All of the active day care mother's names were put in a box, shaken up and Derrell, one of the N.Y.C. workers, ran his fingers through the pile of paper and came up with Mrs. Rush's name. Since all of our day care mothers are so good, it would be unfair to let the child care coordinators choose one, so the N.Y.C. people devised this means of equal opportunity.

Mrs. Rush has one daughter, 2 years old, that keeps her and her husband busy even when she isn't keeping other children. Mrs. Rush has been with the Family Day and Night Care program for 3 years and had previously been with Albina Child Development Center. Mrs. Rush is providing child care for four children. She also puts quite a bit of time

King's Table opens

International King's Table opened its 14th restaurant in Oregon this week at 8233 North Syracuse at Ivanhoe streets in the St. Johns district of Portland, according to Roger Houmes, vice president of operations for the Eugene-based national restaurant chain.

Frank Evans is manager of the newest King's Table restaurant which opened Monday, July 2. Evans has been with the International King's Table organization since 1968. He started with the company in Salem and most recently was manager of the company's Corvallis restaurant.

King's Table restaurants feature the American smorgasbord and cater to families, young couples and senior citizens. The smorgasbord menu was first introduced by Wilbur Houmes, now president of International King's Table, Inc., at his first restaurant in Springfield in 1957.

Houmes said that the second restaurant was opened in Salem in 1964 and the American smorgasbord concept of dining received such an excellent response that it prompted the organization of the International King's Table Franchise Company in 1965. The present corporate name was established in 1969.

Roger Houmes said that the new St. Johns King's Table will provide both convenience and the variety of

Summer school begins

St. Andrew's Summer School for neighborhood gradeschoolers was off to a good start on Monday, June 18. This year the six week program is designed for 80 children and includes fun activities as well as strong academic curriculum. Sr. Grace Tash, a reading specialist who will be at the school in the fall, is on hand to give special attention to students who can benefit by her expertise. In addition to certified teachers and college students who act as classroom instructors, St. Andrew's has a full and energetic staff of neighborhood youth volunteers and NYC Workers who act as aides and plan afternoon activities.

The summer schedule includes weekly field trips to local and out of town spots of interest. This full and varied program at St. Andrew's has attracted many youngsters and the high daily attendance seems proof that the program is meeting neighborhood needs.
