Morgan St. challenges Grambling

Morgan State College, led by coach Earl Banks, will tangle with the Tigers of Grambling College in the 3rd Annual Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Football Classic at Yankee Stadium on Saturday, September 22, 1973. Game time is 3:00 p.m.

Grambling College, visitors in this year's classic, is coached by Eddie Robinson, the number one college division coach with 215 victories in his career. Robinson is starting his 32nd year at the Grambling helm.

Coach Banks, whose Morgan State Bears will be the home team in the 1973 classic, ranks third among active college division coaches with a .758 winning percentage.

The game is played for the benefit of the New York Urban League's educational programs. Livingston L. Wingate, executive director of the New York Urban League, stated "The game has taken on a two-fold purpose. It has been of tremendous financial aid to our educational programs and other League programs. It has enabled us to help the Black colleges who are facing great difficulties in keeping their independence."

For example, Wingate pointed out that during the years 1971 and 1972 when the game was played the New York Urban League received 50% of the gate and the colleges received 25% each. But because of the financial difficulties that the colleges are facing this year, both the colleges and the League will be equal partners — each receiving one third of the gate.

The success of the Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Football Classic can be traced to the excellence of the football displayed by Morgan State and Grambling, and the enthusiasm of the fans. Over 135,000 spectators have attended the two previous classics and a sellout is expected again this year. Fans around the nation and in New York City in particular, have made this game the number-one draw in college football in New York City and the number-one sports spectacular among Black people in the nation.

Leisure Hour holds tournament

Leisure Hour Golf Club of Portland sent a large contingent of representatives to Carmel, California for the Western States Gold Championship. Vernon Gaskin is the Northwest area representative; Charles Garter, Leisure Hour Champion; Booker Taylor, British Columbia Champion; Richard McAfee, Leisure Hour player; and George Rankins, Leisure Hour Golf Club Tournament Chairman. It was pointed out by Mr. Rankins that "we didn't bring home any 'iron' (trophies to non-golfers), but the competition was tremendous and provided by over 300 golfers including women and junior golfers."

Following the Western States Tournament will be Leisure Hour's 29th Annual Tournament to be held at Bowman's Mt. Hood Golf Club, Wemme, Oregon, on the 6th and 7th of August.

Leisure Hour's Tournament is considered one of the finest social events in the Northwest and participants are from many parts of the United States and Canada. Families have traveled from as far as Baltimore, Maryland and Denver, Colorado for this world of entertainment and George Rankins, along with his assistant Tournament Chairman Bill Russell, says this year will be the greatest. They expect to have to turn some persons away because of the location and widespread interest in this event.

The program is as follows: August 5, 6:00 p.m., Leisure Host Hour; August 6, Tee Time 7:30 a.m., 6:00 p.m. Salmon Bake, 8:00 p.m. Dance; August 7 Tee Time 7:30 a.m., 5:30 p.m. Awards Banquet, Charles Rawlins is the Club President.

KPTV features Black football

This fall an exciting new football schedule will be seen live each week on KPTV, Channel 12. For the first time, Black College Football will be telecast live each Saturday at 10:00 a.m. for fourteen weeks starting September 8.

Each live broadcast will feature the major teams from the Mid-Eastern and Southwest Athletic Conferences, including Grambling University, Jackson State, Texas Southern, Alcorn A & M, Morgan State and Southern University.

Black College Football is growing dramatically in importance and has recognized big league stature in sports. Black colleges have accounted for as much as 15% of the total draft of the National Football League in recent years, with the majority of players coming out of schools in the Mid-Eastern and Southwest Athletic Conferences.

Twenty-four years ago the first Black player was drafted out of Grambling by the pros. Since then there has been a continuous parade of top-flight pros whose careers were molded at small Black colleges. From these two conferences have come such all-stars as Leroy Kelly of the Browns, Deacon Jones (Rams and Chargers), Willie Lanier, Buch Buchanan and Otis Taylor of the Chiefs, Willie Davis of the Packers, Johnny Sample (Colts and Jets), and Isiah Robertson of the Rams.

Black College Football has major-league drawing power as evidenced by the 10.5 national rating achieved by the Morgan State-Grambling game two season ago as the NCAA lead-off game on network.
