Black seeks post

 I have been asked to seek the office of Mayor by numerous little people, young folks and senior citizens. Because these people were not the big power brokers who control the happenings in our city, I felt that I had to give their request serious consideration. I thought about it night and day and eight hours ago, reluctantly, I decided to become a candidate for that office. I say reluctantly not out of disrespect for the office, but because of the many pressures and responsibilities which go with being the Chief Executive of such a fine city as Seattle. The people of our city should have a mayor whose sole object is the welfare of our total city.
 As Mayor of Seattle, I would bring to the office over fifteen years of outstanding public service, both in the legislature and the city council. The record will verify that my service in the city council has demonstrated that I have a deep concern for all of our people. Poll after poll has shown that the people of our city trust me and believe that I am serving in the best interest of our city. I have had no special interest which controlled my actions and have been available both night and day. Many honors have been bestowed upon me for my work in the city council, the legislature and in the community and all I ask is a chance to serve in a different capacity.
 Every time a senior citizen takes a 10c ride in our city, it is a testimony of my service. Each time a handicapped person rides in a taxicab at a reduced fare, there is evidence of my work. Whenever you hail a cab which is cruising along, you are receiving the benefits of my forward thinking. The crime statistics which show our crime rates going down are hurried along by the good work of the crime prevention commission which I authored and the fine policemen whose salary increases I have championed all during my service in the city council. The youth programs which provide jobs in the summer had their beginning in the seminar on equal opportunity which I sponsored during my first year on the council. Our city had a firm campaign contribution and expenditures long before Initiative 276, because of my efforts to keep spending down.

 Let me answer my critics by measuring myself alongside the other candidates. The President of the City Council has had eighteen months to do nothing much but campaign for the Office of Mayor. He has not served on any of the standing committees during that time, even though other Presidents always were on the key committees. He cannot claim any outstanding feats of leadership as all of you know... no legislative programs of outstanding nature bear his sponsorship... but he votes against people programs regularly and usually goes along with the bosses who govern downtown; not that I have anything against downtown, but I think I measure by standing tall alongside him and his record.
 Unwittingly the candidacy of Councilman Hill is designed to lead the liberal environmental voter into political quicksand in the primary election with nowhere to go in the final election. It would be much better if those voters would join with me and bring forth a better balanced program for the city government. Besides, I believe Councilman Hill needs a bit more seasoning in the accommodation of the other fellow's viewpoint before he makes such a bold step.

 Mayor Uhlman has violated the public trust which has been assigned to him and used the public treasury as if it were his own political war chest. He has robbed the poor by using Model Cities funds to beef up his own personal politically-oriented staff. He hired and fired with the likeness of a ward heeler as exemplified in the firing of Bob Porterfield from Consumer Protection to pick up John Hempleman and then when Hempleman made his first major mistake, he wielded the axe in taking off Hempleman's political head in the manner of a medieval king. There was no mercy or understanding in him when he dealt with that fine young man. He should have counseled and even reprimanded, but not thrown him to the wolves. He misused the economic development funds in the Central area by putting almost all of the money ($125,000) in a loan to an ill-fated night club while allowing many other small businesses to go wanting for financial assistance. After twenty million dollars of Model Cities funds, the Central area is more blighted than ever. And after more millions, Yesler Atlantic needs much more urban renewal. Yes, there is a time for change.
 I have no money for this campaign, but the lessons of Watergate should have taught us that the fellow with the most money is not necessarily the best man for the job. Will you help me to restore confidence in our government... and make our city government truly serve all of its people.

 work is proceeding in accordance with the Contract. During such visits and on the basis of his observations while on the site, he will keep the owner informed of the progress of the work, will endeavor to guard the owner against defects and deficiencies in the work of contractors, and he may condemn work as failing to conform to the Contract Documents."
 Kenward expressed concern that homeowners are not receiving quality work and gave his assurance that he will investigate this matter. He also guaranteed that any recipient that calls the PDC office will be contacted personally in an attempt to find a solution to the problem.
 Kenward emphasized that there are many satisfied homeowners who are pleased with the work done on their homes. The ceiling of $3500 in the rehabilitation grants and of $1000 on the home repair grants limits the amount of work that can be done on a home, but the work that is done is expected to make it more comfortable for the family. To this end, the work that is done should meet acceptable standards of workmanship.
 Kenward believes the program to be of social and economic benefit to the community. As with any program, there are deficiencies - but these he will work to remedy.
