AMA opens drop-in center

The Door, a drop-in center for ex-prisoners, drug addicts and people with emotional problems, will hold an Open House on Sunday, September 23, 1973, from 3:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

The purpose of the Center is to provide a place where these people can meet with each other as well as become involved with people who can assist them in finding a better way of life.

The Center will provide refreshments, friendliness, discussion groups, vocational and housing assistance, and Bible study. Also, there will be games, places to sit, books to read and music.

The sponsoring groups are the Christian people and churches in the surrounding area who are convinced that they have an obligation to provide supportive assistance to those who have fallen victim to the various vices of society and seek to be free.

The center will not serve as a "hang-out." Instead it will be geared to those seeking a better way of life, and especially to those who made Christian commitments while in prison and need the fellowship and support of Christian people.

There is a need for volunteers who will serve as hosts, hostesses, and supervisors. Churches are encouraged to send in the names of groups who would like to serve in the afternoon or evening. Groups such as missions circles, brotherhoods, ushers, and adult groups. There are several afternoon and evening slots that need to be filled.

The center will operate on donations from those who see the need for this ministry. Your share of $5.00 or $10.00 a month for one year will help. Send your tax deductible contribution to OUTREACH, 3909 N. Overlook Terrace, Portland. To volunteer, call Rev. John Parker at 282-4705, or the Albina Ministerial Alliance Office at 288-9254.

The public is invited to the Open House, located at 4936 N.E. Union Avenue.

Prayer overcomes prejudice

Racial prejudice and other ills can be overcome through effective prayer, Albert B. Cichlow, C.S., said in Portland.

A Christian Science lecturer and practitioner from Petit Valley, Trinidad, Mr. Cichlow is the first Black to serve as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Mr. Cichlow spoke at the invitation of the Eighth Church of Christ, Scientist. "Prayer Power" was the title of his lecture.

Every human heart is yearning for what only genuine prayer can bring, Mr. Cichlow said.

"The first requirement of effective prayer," he declared, "is that we acknowledge our ever-present connection, our continuing relationship, with inexhaustible good, God."

Christ Jesus showed how to experience "prayer-power" at all times.

The prayers of Jesus were effective," he explained, "because he expressed the Christ. The Christ-spirit governed him. And so his thinking was always God-oriented and good motivated. Jesus understood that what consciousness entertains, that is, what you think and feel, and what you admit from the world's thinking about you externalizes itself in your body and experience."

He held that the healing power of prayer is available to everyone. "Jesus healed," he said, "not by treating the externals, but by establishing every man's Christliness in his thought. His way of utilizing prayer may be likened to what we do when we're unhappy with a picture on the television set. We don't change the picture on the television set by trying to clean it off, or re-color it, or anything like that. We simply replace the picture by changing the channel. We make a connection with another source."

"In like manner, Jesus had become a master of changing the image on the screen of consciousness. He knew how to blot out the tragic, heart-rending pictures that paraded before his eyes, and in their stead unveil the wholesome, spiritual realities of being."

He added, "As surely as did Jesus, we can know the Christ as a source of prayer-power and find our prayers effective. We can experience God as a very present help in trouble."
