by Spencer Barrett

Leslie White a member of Bethel A.M.E. Church, Portland, was ordained an elder of the African Methodist Episcopal Church last Friday at the Church's annual conference in Seattle.

Leslie attended Martin Luther King, Jr. Elementary School where he was President of the Student Body. He continued his education at Jefferson High School where he graduated with honors and was also President of the Student Body. Leslie is now a Junior at Morris Brown College in Atlanta where he has a 3.6 G.P.A., and is Vice President of Student Body.

Leslie began the process of becoming a minister as a licentiate. After two years of study he was ordained an Artinerent Deacon, and now after two more years of study he has been ordained Elder of the A.M.E. Church which means he's a full pledged minister.

When asked if he planned to stay in Portland or whether he would go elsewhere, he stated, "I have no definite plans right now, I'll just go where the Lord leads me."
