Regular cut won't do it

"Longer hair and styling for men is here to stay," said Rick Wells, amiable owner and manager of the Appian Way Barbering & Styling. "Styling tailors a man's hair to his particular features and enhances his looks as a conventional hair cut could never do."

In his shop, located on the lower level of the Thunderbird Motor Inn, Rick discussed the benefits of hair styling for men.

"No one is too young or old or has the wrong kind of hair for styling. With the right kind of grooming and conditioning, everyone with styled hair can be handsomer and more in fashion."

"A lot of the public still think men's hair styling is for teenagers or people in their early twenties. It's not true. More and more people, from smaller children to middle aged doctors and lawyers, have their hair styled."

Properly styled hair, Rick said, complements the facial features. "The hair is cut and combed to blend with the particular features of each person. Proper conditioning is another important factor in styling."

The Appian Way shop is open Monday thru Saturday, 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Three stylists, Rick Wells, Steve Potts and Jim Jasperson, are on hand for appointments.

A $1,000 sale or simple advice, same friendly help

Whether he has come to buy a thousand dollar camera or just to get a few pointers on improving family snap shots, the customer at Sandy's Camera Shop can count on the friendly interest and valuable practical advice from Kevin Smith, mgr., and the rest of the friendly sales staff.

"Every customer comes into our store," said Kevin, "should get some new pointers on shooting pictures or on the use of different accessories or film. I never want a customer to leave without benefitting from at least a little useful knowledge."

Kevin does not believe in pressing a sale or in selling inexperienced photographers equipment too expensive or sophisticated for their needs.

"Many of our customers have little or no knowledge of photography. Knowing that, I try to sell them cameras or other equipment that is reasonably priced and easy to operate. Later, as they gain experience and want to get into more interesting and challenging photography, I'll point out the advantages of using the more advanced equipment."

"We want to establish the confidence and trust of all our customers. We like to see them come in and ask for a particular salesman, if for no other reason than to get advice on some problem with their camera. We're always glad to help if we can."

Sandy's features a variety of brand names and prices in cameras. Besides top names like Leica, customers can find such brands as Nikon, Canon, Pentax and Olympus. These last named brands Kevin recommends as the most likely to last over the years.

"Besides those," Kevin said, "there are a myriad of cameras that I would put in the high school or basic college category. They're priced at between $200 and $250 and have all the basic features of other cameras but less reliability and prestige value."

A college graduate with a degree in Wildlife Technology, Kevin had no plans for going into sales work. He has been with Sandy's for seven years, and has been at the Jantzen Beach Shop for the past two.

Besides cameras, Sandy's features movie projectors, binoculars, tape recorders and stereo units among other items. The store also offers camera repair and rentals.
