

Air Force Academy seeks women

Young women interested in applying for a nomination to the Air Force Academy freshman class entering next June must act immediately as their nominations will arrive at the Academy by January 31st, 1976.

There are several sources for young women wishing to apply. Primary among them are senators or congressional district representatives. Other sources are available as well. Interested women students should contact their high school counselors or write to the admissions liaison office, United States Air Force Academy, Colorado 80840, for more information and assistance. Prospective applicants may also call the admissions liaison office at (303) 472-2640.

Women became eligible to attend the nation's military academies when President Gerald R. Ford signed the measure into law October 7th, 1975. The first contingent of about 150 women cadets will arrive at the Air Force Academy June 26th, 1976.

Before the bill became law, the Air Force could not accept applications from women. But now Academy admissions officials are urging all interested women students to submit applications. Since the nomination process is somewhat lengthy, hopeful women cadets should act immediately.

Competition for acceptance will be keen and women must meet the same basic qualifications as men for consideration. That is, they must be at least seventeen years old but not past 22 on July 1st of the year they enter the Academy; be a U.S. citizen; be of good moral character; and be unmarried.

Academic selection standards will be the same for men and women. Just as men, women will be judged for leadership potential based upon extra curricular activities - school leadership positions, women's sports and membership in civic and community organizations.

Applicants must also pass a physical aptitude test and a medical examination. These tests will be scheduled by Academy officials.

The four-year academic, military training and athletic program of the Academy is physically and mentally demanding. It begins with the rigorous six-week basic cadet training course almost immediately after arriving at the Academy.

Women cadets will live separately from the men, but nearly all other aspects of cadet life will be coeducational.

At the end of the four years, women will receive bachelor of science degrees with majors in any of 21 academic areas. They will also be commissioned as second lieutenants in the Air Force.

African missionary visits Berean Church

Reverend Deighton Douglin from Zaire, Africa, will be the person coming from the greatest distance to the fifteenth anniversary celebration of Berean Baptist Church, January 7th through 11th. The Berean church has had an active supporting interest in the ministry of the Douglins ever since the visit of Deighton and Alice Douglin to the church in the earlier years. Alice Douglin is a Zairian national. Mr. Douglin has been actively engaged in training African teachers and administrators and has observed at first hand the changes from colonial to revolutionary and nationalistic leadership in Zaire. Reverend Douglin will be speaking on Thursday and Friday evenings, at 7:30 p.m.

A reception for Douglin on Friday evening after the service will afford an informal opportunity to talk with him personally.

Berean Baptist Church has existed for longer than fifteen years, having started in the home of its founding pastor, Reverend Russell J. Smith, in 1955, but it was not incorporated until 1961. The schedule of special events will start with a message from the previous pastor, Reverend Rozell Gilmore on Wednesday evening. There will be three different slide presentations, portraying the history of the church, beginning with the first section on Wednesday. It was during Reverend Gilmore's pastorate that the church began its Child Care and Teen Center activity.

Sunday's events include participation by two former members, Mrs. Jean Wilkinson and Mr. Carey Hill at the usual Sunday School time. Mrs. Wilkinson is a music teacher and composer who spent many years at Berean teaching Bible and music. She will share some of her own compositions. Mr. Hill, who is coming from Oakland, California, was chairman of the building committee during the construction of the sanctuary. At the 11:00 worship service Pastor Willie O. Peterson will present a message on the theme of the anniversary: "This treasure in earthen vessels."

Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. the choir of Marantha Church will present special music and the speaker will be Dr. Charles Losie, Director of the Conservative Baptist Association of Oregon. It was the CBA's volunteer construction group, "Craftsmen for Christ" that provided much of the technical assistance as well as labor during the building of the sanctuary. Some of the volunteer craftsmen are expected to be at the anniversary services, along with ministers of CBA churches who contributed support when the church was still a mission of the state organization.

The word "Berean" in the church's name refers to a group of Christian believers mentioned in the New Testament who "searched the scriptures daily" to investigate the validity of what was being preached to them by Christian missionaries. The name of the church highlights one of its three emphases through the years: Bible study, service, and missions.
