Dr. Milton Davis

Undaunted, he borrowed $500 from the Government of the Virgin Islands — used $300 for transportation and went to St. John's University, New York. The Catholic Dean noted that "Anyone who would travel 1,800 miles in educational pursuit was certainly worthy of support" and arranged for installment payments which was not the common course as of today.

Noteworthy is the fact that Dr. Davis finished St. John's University in three years. He did not borrow another cent through the three years, but went all year and worked his way through performing varied jobs from dishwasher, porter, newspaper reporter, assistant pastorates, etc. He repaid the Virgin Islands, not $500 but $2,000, as his way of establishing a contributing scholarship for other natives — a work he continues to assist today.

Though pastoring, teaching, building churches and many other endeavors, Dr. Davis did not return to the Virgin Islands to have his small home church; however, after 27 years of ministry and planning to retire from active pastorate, he took a sabbatical and returned to the Islands and worked as Assistant Attorney General. However, the call of the church continued. The United Methodist Church was expanding the work of the Judicial Council. He was offered his current position of Legal Council to the Judicial Council, handling legal matters for local churches, bishops, conferences and the Church. One of the major accomplishments of this Conference, Dr. Davis notes, is that General Conference Legislation has been prepared to expand the work on the budget of the Judicial Council which means their legal staff will be expanded and back logs lessened.

Dr. Davis' wife, the former Alice Virginia Ligon, is niece of Dr. D. Ward Nichols, of Columbia University, M.A., and holds a Master of Library Science. Their son is a graduate of Tennessee State and is Program Manager of Educational Television to the Virgin Islands.

"In doing the things he wants to do," Dr. Davis is a member of the Board of Directors, Los Angeles Council of Churches, Board of Directors, Los Angeles Urban League, and Board of Directors, Los Angeles NAACP, enjoys his hobby of music, playing guitar and organ and continues his ministry commitment as pastor to Church of the Master, Los Angeles and a San Fernando Valley congregation.

When it comes to price, Newitz really does beat the heck out of other building supply dealers. He likes to save and he knows you do too. That's why he continues to buy up overstocks and closeout goodies at a fraction of their original price and pass the savings on to you. Check this week's list and remember there's more good prices on items we don't have room for here.
