Maureen E. Chavis, the daughter of Mrs. Althea Chavis and Matthew Chavis is a graduating senior at John Marshall High School. She has been involved with group activities at school and outside school programs all through her high school years.

During her freshman year, Maureen participated in the track program at her school and won a varsity letter. She was selected to be a member of the Student Relations Advisory Board. In her junior year Maureen was a member of the varsity basketball rally squad and is currently a member of the varsity basketball squad. She became a finalist in the Montgomery Ward Hi-Board.

In 1978 Maureen served as a hostess at the first Debutante Ball given by The Links, Inc. and in 1979, Maureen took her own place among fifteen senior girls presented at the Starlight Cotillion, in this year's Second Debutante Ball given by The Links.

Perhaps one of the biggest memories of Maureen's days at Marshall was the day Maureen was recognized as a runner-up in the competition for princess from Marshall for the Rose Festival.

Maureen has been a good student in high school and for a career, she is thinking of becoming a flight attendant. She plans to attend Portland State University in the fall.

The Portland Chapter of Jack and Jill of America, Inc. also claims

Terri as a member, and currently, Terri is Far West Regional Teen Treasurer for this organization. She has been a volunteer for the Christmas families' project "Second Wind," and the Oktoberfest.

Terri plans to attend Oregon State University with a degree in Business Administration as her goal.

State gives garden advice

Free gardening hints will be available beginning April 16th, at the tip of your touch-tone dial. The Dial-An-Answer gardening advice system will begin in mid-April this year and extend through September.

You can dig up all the dirt by calling 229-4833 or 229-4855 beginning Monday morning, April 16th. This is a service of the OSU Extension Service which offers nearly 300 "quick answer" tapes covering a wide range of horticultural and food preservation topics.

The Dial-An-Answer messages, prepared by Extension agents and specialists, are available in such categories as lawns, tree fruits, insect pests, houseplant care, canning and freezing foods and livestock. One tape (#4100) will be updated weekly to list the current gardening problems for the metropolitan area. Another (#4101) will list the plant clinic sites where gardeners can seek assistance and advice from trained Master Gardeners.

A list of tapes can be obtained by writing Multnomah County Extension, P.O. Box 1261, Portland, 97207. Send for your tape listing now to be ready when the lines open April 16th. Trained Master Gardener volunteers will staff the system this summer. The hours will be from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except for holidays.

All too often, we tend to fool ourselves when we go shopping. We spend hours looking at price tags. But won't spend five minutes figuring out what something will cost us over the long run. This kind of oversight can turn out to be a costly mistake.

Take a look at these refrigerators for example. The one on the left costs about $500. The one on the right about $600. They may look identical. But they're different when it comes to one important point. How much energy they use.

The $500 refrigerator is constructed with thin walls and has no energy-saver switch. The $600 refrigerator is constructed with thicker, better insulated walls and comes equipped with an energy-saver switch for humid climates.

As incredible as it may sound, compared to each other, the energy-efficient model can save enough money on your fuel bill over its lifetime to cover its entire original cost.

There are lots of other products on the market that are designed to save energy. Dishwashers. Automatic thermostats. Fluorescent lighting. Weather stripping and insulation. You can even purchase a blanket for your water heater.

The point is, products that save energy may cost a little more at the cash register. But once you take them home, they're the best bargains you can buy.

I don't want to pay any more on my utility bills than I have to. Send me information on energy-saving products.
