

JACQUELYN RENFRO

Jacqueline Renfro teaches kindergarten children at Rockwood Park Elementary School.

Reynolds senior kindergarten tutor

Jacquelyn Renfro, whose face lights up when she is called "Lynn," is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Renfro. Lynn was presented at the Starlight Cotillion in the early spring, an annual event under the sponsorship of The Links, Inc. for outstanding graduates of Portland area high schools.

Reynolds High School in Troutdale will be conferring a diploma upon Lynn in June. She has had a very successful high school career at Reynolds. Beyond keeping up her scholastic standing at Reynolds she has been interested in track and gymnastics for her first two years there.

For the junior and senior years Lynn has been a member of the school's dance team and has played the flute in Reynolds High School Band. Twice she has marched in the Rose Festival Parade in this music section.

Currently, Lynn has been getting in some practice teaching as an assistant kindergarten teacher at Rockwood Park Elementary School. We show her here with three pupils from her morning classes.

Goals for Lynn include a college career to afford her a chance to study Child Psychology. Along the way she has a wish to become an airline flight attendant as she loves to travel. With her family she has traveled extensively within the United States and has also been in the Caribbean when she and her family visited Barbados. Lynn's other hobbies include swimming, bicycle riding and horseback riding.

Members of the Salem Branch, NAACP presented Governor Victor Atiyeh with a proclamation commemorating the 25th anniversary of the Brown vs. Board of Education desegregation decision.

Across the nation, NAACP Branches visited Governors, Mayors and other public officers — at noon — to ask their support for making the U.S. Supreme Court decision a reality.
