Introducing Free Car Care Clinics. Because car care isn't for men only.

It's for women too.

ARCO Car Care Clinics, administered by the Portland Metro Area League of Women Voters, are open to anyone—including men—the age of sixteen and over.

These specially designed 2½ hour clinics will consist of an instructional slide show and important "hands on" practice in such basics as changing a tire, jump-starting a battery, operating a self-serve pump, checking tire pressure and inspecting fluid levels.

You even get a kit of reference material to take home. Plus a free tire pressure gauge.

Remember, the Portland Metro Area League and participating independent ARCO dealers stress that a well-maintained car not only reduces gasoline consumption and conserves energy, but helps make our air cleaner.

To assure reservations, call the League at 227-7502, starting Oct. 8, 9:30 am-5 pm (answering service after 5 pm).

Volunteers visit jails

Thirty-five persons attended training sessions sponsored by the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, to enable them to visit Rocky Butte Jail and other correctional institutions.

According to Executive Secretary Tim Hornbecker "the main objective of the program was simply to offer our personal presence, that is, our friendship to persons in prison."

As a result of the training workshops, six teams of volunteers are being established. Among their responsibilities will be visiting Rocky Butte, the Multnomah County booking facility, Multnomah County Correctional Institution, Claire Argow Center; taking families to visit relatives at the Oregon State Penitentiary and other state institutions; providing child care while parents visit prisoners; visiting families of inmates; and helping families meet emergency material needs.

Among those who participated in the presentations were Commander Stanley Kerner, Officer Larry Kennedy, and Chaplains Jim Mulder, Harlan Nelson and Ed Stelle.

The Society of St. Vincent de Paul is a worldwide organization of Catholic men and women. The group was founded in 1833 by a twenty-year old student of the Sorbonne University in Paris, Frederic Ozanam. He and other students sought to visit the poor, bringing bread, clothing, concern and friendship.

Cable TV

(Continued from page 1 col. 3) revenue to help cable television carry the burden. We are building close to a quarter million dollar studio facility with equipment for the public to have at their disposal. I will have a very small staff to start out with, three other persons besides myself. All of us are undertaking a job that will be challenging, but also quite satisfying. My philosophy is that cable can offer a lot more diversity and flexibility to give to the community a chance to say something. Our channels won't need any sponsors.

"Right now we are still building a 35-channel cable television system on Portland's west side. We are competing for a more extensive city-wide franchise. That particular franchise is scheduled to be awarded in May of 1980. Our station is based locally in Portland, so we know we can provide a good service to the people here. I plan to let communication majors at any college or high school come in and get some training in our studio. I feel some type of intern or work-study program can be arranged. They can learn something and give some of their knowledge to participating civic groups who are producing shows. I want to sharpen everybody's skills and provide an access to do so."

Atkins says he has been trying to locate persons and civic groups in the Black community that may want to learn television skills and produce their own programs. He says he would like the Black community to please identify themselves.

"Liberty Cable is here to serve the whole community. I extend and invitation to any organization to get in contact with me, so that I can bring information and skills to you."

Coordinator Atkins says commercial broadcast stations are required by the Federal Communications Commission to provide public affairs programming, but he says Liberty Cable has five, 24-hour stations and equipment being provided for at no cost to any one.

"Do you wish people to think well of you? Don't speak well of yourself."
