

OBSERVATIONS FROM THE SIDELINES

By Kathryn H. Bogle

Flash! Late Tuesday afternoon Deanna Talley, graduating senior at St. Mary's Academy was chosen by her classmates to be their Princess representing St. Mary's in our city's Rose Festival Court. The new Princess is the youngest daughter of Olga and Ben Talley.

Portland Urban League personnel have just returned from a national conference in Kansas City, Missouri. The national office titled this meeting, "First Annual National Urban League Career Training and Economic Resources Conference."

Theme for the conference held at the Raddison - Muchbach hotel, was "Economic Empowerment in the 80s: Knowledge, jobs and Capital." Mrs. Freddie Pettet, executive director of Portland's Urban League, was invited to participate as a panelist for the Women's Forum. Mrs. Pettet's topic: "The impact of Increased Female Labor Market Participation on the minority Worker."

Also attending from our local office were George Rankin, Terry Williamson, Myrtle Carr, Jeanne Hartzog, Julia Robertson and Jose Vasquez.

National Urban League President Vernon Jordan, in his closing address to the conference, encouraged local staffs to "make every effort to meet the needs of the community in this time of inflation." Mr. Jordan will come to Portland on May 23rd to speak at the Annual Urban League Dinner and Fund Raising event. This affair is to be held at the new downtown Marriott hotel near the waterfront.

It's dashing out of class at Jefferson High School for fittings or to keep appointments with photographers that keep Princess Marce Rodgers on a hectic schedule these days.

Chosen as Jefferson's representative on the Rose Festival Court for 1980, Marci is an experience photographer, is the photo editor of her senior yearbook, and has had her work published in community publications.

Her parents, Rebecca and William Rodgers, introduced Marci to the community at the 1980 Starlight Cotillion given by The Links, Inc., a few weeks ago. The young woman plans to major in communications at Seattle University next year.

The April, 1980 issue of "Business," an Oregon monthly slick paper magazine, covering people and business of the area, directed one of their feature articles to Dick Bogle - Television Anchorman. A first for his race in this area to be a reporter, newscaster and anchor for television news, Bogle is the senior newscaster at KATU with 13 years at the ABC station.

Dr. Norval Unthank Jr. is one of three Oregon architects elected fellows in the American Institute of Architects. He is to be invested in June at the institute's national convention in Cincinnati, along with Richard A. Campbell and Brooks Gonsul of Portland.

Unthank, the eldest of five children of Portland's late Dr. D.N. Unthank and Thelma Unthank, I. maintained his offices in Eugene for many years and is of the architectural firm of Unthank, Seder Poticha in that city.

Popular William Gerald, principal for three years at Arleta Elementary school, expects to be back soon treading the halls of Arleta. Gerald is calling an end to his recuperative period at home following surgery and is feeling fit once again.

Maurice Lucas is back in town for a brief visit with wife Rita. Taking a breather from the New Jersey Nets, the former Blazer star will also be putting some finishing touches on plans for the "Maurice Lucas Basketball Day-Camp" set for the summer months.

This year, camps will be back at the campus of Lewis and Clark College. They will be divided into three sessions. First camp for boys will be from July 21 to July 26; second camp, also for boys, will be July 28 through August 1. Girls will have their days from August 4 to August 8.

More about the Lucas Day-camp later.

Rita is happy to have Maurice at home in Portland, but probably will see little of him (except at breakfast) since she is studying for final exams at Lewis and Clark College.

Rita, slender as a reed, beautiful and brainy, already has her Masters degree in Public Administration from Harvard University. Her bachelors is in English was won from Wheaton College in Massachusetts.

She is currently completing her second year toward this but expects to do her final year somewhere on the eastern seaboard - as close to Maurice as possible.

Both sorrow and joy can touch a family at the same time. Anna Kathryn Morrison, born in Oakland on February 21, 1904, died in a local hospital on April 9, after a long illness. Grieving her passing here are her brother, Earl Morrison and his wife, Maggie Morrison.

Last rites, held at Bethel A.M.E. Church, were conducted by the Rev. L. Fisher Hines. Members of Dahlia Temple L.B.P.O.E. of W. had a part in the service, and men of Bethel Church were official pall bearers. Miss Morrison had been a member of Bethel since her early childhood, and had been faithfully active in many of the organizations of the church.

Besides her brother and her sister-in-law, Miss Morrison left a nephew, Ronald Morrison of Los Angeles, and a niece, Carole Morrison of New York City.

Committal was private. Cox Funeral Home, Inc., was in charge of arrangements.

During the grief at the Earl Morrison residence, Mrs. Morrison learned of plans already made by St. Stephen School to honor her at a reception on May 4. Invitations, issued with joy and received by Maggie's friends say the reception is to honor "a very great and humble lady for her 20 years of devoted service to the Parish of St. Stephens, the community, and to 720 fifth graders" she has taught.

Door prizes for the Links, Inc., Ebony Fashion Fair set for this Friday evening at the Hilton, sound plenty exciting.

Fabulous Link Geneva Jones seemed to wave a magic wand like a fairy godmother and has outdone herself this year. She has gathered prizes that will thrill anyone to own.

Now hear this! Air fare for two to Reno with Air California or: a weekend for two at Oregon's own resort at Sun River. Those are for starters. You might win a quiet brunch for two at the Hilton, or you might get lucky and receive a $50.00 certificate to spend at Mary Ellen's Boutique. There will be Fashion Fair cosmetics, there will be travel bags from More cigarettes, and so on.

If you don't win one of these - you can't lose if you are there, because when the last fashion design has crossed the stage, your ticket stub will take you to the Disco dance.

It all happens Friday, April 18 at the Portland Hilton.

"A Celebration of Creativity" is to be observed by Southminster United Presbyterian Church, at 12250 S.W. Denny Road in Beaverton, on April 26 and 27. This is to be an exhibit of art forms of "authentic originality" in stained glass, pottery, oils, embroideries weaving, sculpture and other artistic expressions.

Al Goldsby, well known metal sculpturist, will be among the 40 or so artists showing some latest creations. Saturday hours, 10 am to 9:00 pm.

The Metropolitan Youth Symphony Association has arranged for their young musicians to showcase their musical talents at a gala concert to be given on April 20 at 3:00 pm in Evans Auditorium at the Lewis and Clark College campus. Michelle Mitchell, and Stephanie Cole are orchestra members.

Norman Leyden, internationally recognized, will be guest conductor. The concert will also feature Lajos Balogh, the regular conductor of the orchestra, who will perform with his wife, Dolores Balogh in the "Double" violin concerto by J.S. Bach.

Admission is very nominal. Senior citizens and students are admitted for even less.
