Summer fun with 4 - H

BINGO BANGO BONGO - Rhythms on the bongo drums are included in the music program for summer group singing and dramatics also will be on the agenda.

The newest look in summer excitement is fashioned for the youth of Portland's urban community, and can be seen beginning June 23, at the King Neighborhood Facility, 4815 N.E. 7th Avenue, where staging is by Urban 4-H Center.

Again Urban 4-H has met the challenge of empty summer days by providing a program of activities geared to youngsters from six to 16, from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 in the afternoon, five days a week. Enrollment is open and registrations are being accepted. Each day will be filled with a variety of activities, focusing on having fun while learning new skills and making new friends.

One of the highlights of the 1980 summer school program at the 4-H Urban Center is the introduction of a bi-lingual staff who will provide the bridge between languages for the children of the Indochinese community. The program of summer activities is available to youngsters whose first language is Chinese, Laotian or Hmong. Bi-lingual leaders on the 4-H staff this year are Sing Cheng, Shan Vang and Phia Xiong of the Indochinese community. An invitation is extended to parents to register their children at 4815 N.E. 7th Avenue, or calling 287-1770, announces Ira Mumford, program director and extension agent.

For youngsters enrolled in the summer program, three pick-up points will be established to provide transportation to and from the King Center for those who cannot otherwise attend. The daily program will include snacks and lunch at noon. The program is cost free, except for special tours where there is a nominal fee.

IT'S AN ACT - Puppetry takes the spotlight when 4-H puppeteers are on stage. Summer club members will learn how to put on their own show.

BY THE YARD - Staff leader Betty Handy will be on hand to assist with a clothing and sewing segment this summer.

SPORTS - Youngsters enjoy a popular sports program supervised by teen leaders.

STEP LIVELY - indoor sports and dancing are part of the summer 4-H program.
