If Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier fought the "Thriller in Manila," then the feaseo between WBC heavyweight champ Larry Holmes and 8th ranked Scott LeDoux should be called the "Mis-match" in Minneapolis. Holmes, 35-0, took command from the outset.

In round one, Larry threw 54 punches and only two of them right hands. LeDoux threw ten and none landed. Round two saw the champion began to figure out the awkward style of LeDoux and sent 77 punches his way of which 15 were haymakers. By this time, it was clearly evident that the 6-1 challenger was no match for the swift 6-3 champion.

Holmes began to move laterally, flickering out that long lethal left jab, like a Cobra flicks his tongue.

Believe me the referee did a terrific job, despite the strong protests from a pro LeDoux crowd. It's true, LeDoux can take a great deal of punishment, and that in itself is bad. For these are the fighters that usually always end up with a good deal of brain damage. And from a fighter the caliber of Larry Holmes, Scott LeDoux could have been seriously hurt by not going down.

There's just no way he could have survived 15 rounds with Holmes, who is a better fighter than most people give him credit for. LeDoux wanted to continue and in a post fight interview he said, "I was slipping punches, then he should immediately be examined by a physician, and an EKG should be the first order of the day."

A Lane County grand jury returned indictments Monday on seven Oregon Duck football players, accusing the seven of theft of services by telephone.

Terrence Jones and Eugene "Choo Choo" Young were charged Monday with class "C" felonies and Joe Figures was charged with a class A misdemeanor for making illegal phone calls on the credit card of UO assistant basketball coach Jim O'Brien, according to Darryl Larson, deputy district attorney.

The shameful thing here is the way these minor problems have been blown out of proportion by a sensation seeking press. The University of Oregon has done nothing that other top football institutions aren't doing. When in Rome, do as the Romans, and that is exactly what has to be done to compete.

What is a few phone calls home?

Believe me, recruiting is a tough, tough business and let's face it, if all things are equal then the program that offers the most amenities are the ones the blue chip athletes will choose. The Oregon Ducks were on the threshold of being a great football team, before all the so-called scandals, and was ready to challenge SC for the PAC-10 title.

What all this will do, we'll just have to wait and see. Coaches don't win football games, players do. And competition in recruiting dictates that you must keep up with the Jones.

Which leads one to wonder if the State of Oregon wants a good football team or will be forever satisfied with mediocrity. How do you suppose Alabama is invited to a lucrative bowl game every year? Bear Bryant doesn't win games, put the bear at QB and the Crimson Tide is 0-11. But with alumni help in recruiting, and the Alabama press not worrying about who's making phone calls home, the Tide is a perennial power in football. So now U of O will clean up their act while others continue their current recruiting practices. Others will make money from bowl games, while U of O will wonder how they can continue to deal with Title IX.

Draft counseling available

For those who are concerned and would like to seek further information, the Urban League Northeast Youth Service Center will be sponsoring draft counseling services to the community on Thursday July 10th and 17th between 12:00p.m. and 3:00p.m.

The Northeast Youth Service Center is located in the King-Facility at 4815 N.E. 7th Street. For further information please contact: Marie Martin at 288-6708 extension 44.

The Northwest Draft Counseling Center (NWCCC), a new non-profit organization, has opened its doors to provide help to 18-20 year old males faced with the prospect of registering for the draft.

Sponsored by the Oregon Coalition Against the Draft, the NWCCC is being established to provide objective and advocacy-oriented information and counseling to youth faced with decisions about possible military service.

In addition to providing technical information about Selective Service regulations, the NWCCC will provide a supportive environment in which draft eligible youth may explore their beliefs about war and their own participation in the military. The center is located at 215 SE 9th Avenue, 3rd Floor, 238-0605.

Draft registration begins

Registration is merely the collection of names and addresses of people who might be called to serve in the event of an emergency. No physical examinations, no classifications, and no inductions are involved in the simple registration process. No one is being drafted for military service at the present time.

Below are some commonly-heard questions concerning military registration, and answers supplied by the White House Press Office.

Q. When will registration begin?

A. This year's registration program will take place during the two-week period beginning on Monday, July 21, and concluding on Saturday, August 2.

Q. Who must register in 1980?

A. All men born in the years 1960 and 1961 must register.

Q. Where will the registration take place?

A. At each of the 34,000 post offices in the country, during their normal business hours.

Q. Are there special times during the two-week period when individuals must register?

A. Yes. Men born in 1960 should register during the first week. Those born in 1961 should register during the second week. In addition, specific days of each week have been assigned for registering individuals depending upon the month in which they were born, in order to avoid long lines at post offices. Men born in January, February, or March should register on Monday. Men with birthdays in April, May, or June should register on Tuesday. Those with July, August, or September birthdays should register on Wednesday. And men born during October, November, or December should register on Thursday. Friday (all day) and Saturday morning are make-up times for those who cannot register on the day indicated by their birth dates.

Q. Give me an example. When would I be required to register if my birthday happened to be August 22, 1961?

A. Your registration day would be Wednesday, July 30. If for some reason you were unable to register on that day, then Friday, August 1, or Saturday morning, August 2, would be your make-up day. You will not be turned away if you appear on another day, however.

Q. What if I am 18 years old now, but will turn 19 years old in the fall? Should I wait until my birthday to register?

A. You should register this summer along with everyone else who was born in 1960 and 1961. Your year of birth is the determining factor, not your age when registration takes place.

Q. When will other young men be registering?

A. Beginning in January, 1981, men born in 1962 will register. Thereafter, men will register when they turn 18 years of age.

Q. What is involved in registration?

A. The registrant simply reports to any postal clerk and requests the brief registration form. He then completes the form with the required information at the post office and returns the form to any postal clerk. The clerk checks the form to ensure that it has been filled out legibly and completely and returns it to the registrant to be signed and dated. The postal clerk then checks some standard form of identification such as a driver's license, validates the form with the cancellation stamp of the post office, and the registration process is complete.

Q. What information is required on the form?

A. The form requires only: the registrant's name, permanent and current address, telephone number, social security number, and date of birth.

Q. What happens next?

A. The information is forwarded to the Selective Service System and placed in computers. Approximately 90 days after registering each registrant is mailed an acknowledgment letter which includes the information entered into the computer. If the information is inaccurate, the correct information should be recorded on an enclosed change of information form and mailed to the Selective Service System.

Q. Will draft cards be issued?

A. No. The acknowledgment letter will be the only document a registrant will receive indicating that he is registered.

Q. What are the penalties for not registering?

A. A non-registrant could face a fine of up to $10,000, imprisonment of up to five years, or both.

Q. It is unlikely that disabled or handicapped individuals would be drafted into military service. Are they required to register?

A. Yes. An individual's physical condition has no bearing on the requirement to register. Those confined to institutions are required to register upon release from confinement.

Q. Undoubtedly, some individuals - because of illness or hardship - will be unable to register on their appointed day. What will happen to them?

A. Nothing, if they fulfill their responsibility to register as soon as they are able. Registration materials will be available at the post offices continuously.

Q. What provisions are being made for those who wish to register as conscientious objectors?

A. The determination of a registrant's classification is made by members of his local draft board. Because the local boards are not in an active status at this time, no classification of any type are being issued to registrants. Therefore, those who consider themselves conscientious objectors are required to register. If they so wish, they may write "CO" on their registration forms. Such action will not invalidate the registrations, nor will it confer conscientious objector status on the individuals.

Q. If the draft boards are not operating at this time, will other classifications such as physical or hardship deferments be offered?

A. No. If classification actions are resumed in the future, registered individuals will be given an opportunity to apply for special classifications. Classification is not a part of the registration process.
