KBPS RADIO PRESENTS LEONTYNE

Opera diva Leontyne Price sings "What I Did For Love," accompanied by Cabaret pianist Bobby Short. Virtuoso pianist Vladimir Horowitz discusses his second love - the opera. And one of the greatest opera directors of all time, Rudolph Bing, defends his controversial career.

These musical finds, true discoveries for even the most knowledgeable opera buffs, are part of BACKSTAGE WITH RICHARD MOHR, 13 half-hour programs that take listeners behind the scenes of the operatic world.

The new series premieres on KBPS Radio at 10 p.m. on Saturday, October 11th.

Noted opera record producer Mohr invites two guests to join him each week for informal chats about opera, and occasionally drops in on a "live" studio performance. The results are candid conversations with such luminaries as bass Jerome Hines, soprano Ashley Putman, and baritone Sherrill Milnes. They discuss everything from stage etiquette to sore throats.

Mohr's guests in the first program are Leontyne Price and Bobby Short. The conversation touches upon European opera sung in English, the music of Richard Strauss and the opera diva's remarkable career.

A Public Radio Awareness Month Special, this series was produced by the South Carolina Educational Radio Network.

WILLIAM FOSTER

Foster heads All-Star band

Dr. William Foster, Director of Bands at Florida A&M University, Tallahassee, has been named Director of the 1980 McDonald's All-American High School Band.

As director of the All-American Band, Foster will conduct the Band's performances in the nationally-televised Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York and a holiday concert at Carnegie Hall.

During his distinguished musical career, Dr. Foster has created more than 200 band pageants performed by the Florida A&M University Marching Band for nearly 700 million people throughout the country. Also under Foster's direction, the Florida A&M University Symphonic Band is renowned for its concert performances.

For his work with student-musicians, Foster has earned a number of honors and awards, including a resolution issued by the Florida Legislature for Distinctive Achievement, a Citation of Excellence from the National Band Association, and a Distinguished Service Award from his alma mater, the University of Kansas. He holds a doctorate degree from Teachers College at Columbia University.

As an adjudicator, clinician, lecturer and consultant, Foster has appeared at more than 35 colleges and universities. He is the author of the textbook, Band Pageantry, and has published numerous articles in music education magazines.
