St. Andrew, Second Church share church facility
 On Easter day, April 19, 1981 - St. Andrews Community Church and Second United Church of Christ will begin sharing the church facilities located at N.E. Ainsworth and 30th Avenue, Portland, Oregon.
 Amidst community unrest and racial dissention, a positive statement is being made by this action. Two churches of differing traditions, religious heritage, and ethnic backgrounds are affirming that they can effectively worship the Lord within the confines of the same structure. Both congregations are members of the Central Pacific Conference of the United Church of Christ.
 Second United Church of Christ, founded in 1904, has been at the Ainsworth address since 1930. However, changes in the demographic makeup of the community has effected the membership of the Second. The result has been that much of the beautiful and reverent, two-storied, brick and stained-glass structure has not been fully utilized. Therefore, the congregation voted on March 1, to share its facilities with St. Andrews, a sister congregation that is part of the demographic change.
 This agreement is in perpetuity.

The St. Andrews congregation willingly accepted this offer, since it has outgrown its current building located at 4800 N.E. 30th Avenue. This building will be occupied by the Emmanuel Church of God in Christ.
 Church services for Second Church will be held each Sunday morning at 10 a.m., beginning Easter day. The St. Andrews Sunday School will be held from 10:15 - 11:15 each Sunday: beginning Sunday, April 26, 1981. The St. Andrews worship service will begin at 11:30 a.m., beginning also on Easter Day '81.
 The pastors of the two congregations, the Rev. Dr. R.H. Hyenemann of Second Church and the Rev. Cortlandt Cambric and Louis Osborne of St. Andrews, are guiding the coordination of the programs of the two congregations. They see this cooperation as a means of strengthening the impact of both congregations, by developing a positive witness to the wider community.
 The Coordinating Committee is composed of: Helen Wilson, Ken Jacobs and Joseph Goodling of the Second Church and Edward Aquino, Margie Holmes, and Hazel Motley of St. Andrews.
