SA plans day camp
 The Salvation Army's Moore Street Community Center is expanding its summer day camp program this year to include children from the entire metropolitan area. The weeks of June 29 and July 6 are designated especially for children from Northeast Portland.
 Open to children from the ages of 6-12, the cost for one week session of day camp, including round trip bus transportation from Beaumont School to the Moore Street Center, is $30. ($20 for current members of the Moore Street Center.) Scholarships are available. For scholarship information or application, call Joyce Gonzales at 282-2572.
 The program for the week includes swimming, arts and crafts, games, special olympics and a carnival on Monday and Tuesday, and a field trip (i.e. the Zoo) on Wednesday. On Thursday the group is bussed up to the Salvation Army's Camp Trestle Glen in Barton, Oregon for an overnight camp-out, with a return to the Center at noon on Friday.
 The Day Camp program can accommodate up to 50 children per week with its facilities and staff of 15. Although bus transportation from Beaumont School to the Moore Street Center is only available from June 29 through July 10, children living in Northeast Portland are welcome to participate in any of the sessions. The Salvation Army Day Camp program begins the week of June 22 and ends on August 21.
 The Salvation Army is a Christian organization, and its Day Camp program has a spiritual emphasis. All of the camp staff members are Christian and are trained to be especially sensitive to the needs of children from low income or single parent households.
