Bandstand Salutes Smokey Robinson

Dick Clark's "American Bandstand" will celebrate Smokey Robinson's Silver Anniversary in the music industry with a special edition of the program, airing December 12 on ABC-TV.

The many facets of Robinson's career—which has now touched four decades—will be reviewed. Although it would be impossible to reflect individually on each of his many accomplishments, all music played that day on "American Bandstand" will relate to Robinson, who will be on hand to perform "Being With You," "Who Said" and "Cruisin'."

His days with the Miracles will be remembered by "Mickey's Monkey," "Going To A Go Go" and "Shop Around," which were only a few of the group's many hits.

Long called one of music's most influential figures, Robinson has also had tremendous success as a songwriter. That aspect of his illustrious career will be highlighted on the show by the songs "More Love" (Kim Carnes), "Ain't That Peculiar" (Marvin Gaye) and "The Way You Do The Things You Do" (The Temptations).

Long a part of the Motown Records family, Robinson's own family—represented by nephews Keith and Darrell, who are also signed to the label—will also appear on the salute, performing "You're My Gardener."
