

No one will be free until all people are free.

The American education system has tried to bury the vast and treasured history of the American Black people. They have taught millions of students in history classes all over this country saying that Black people were savages and slaves.

The truth is that Black History goes back to ancient Egypt. If you've seen the pyramids, you've seen one of the ten wonders of the world. The first irrigation system of the world flowed from the Nile. Blacks introduced trade and commerce to the world. Gold was introduced for the use of mankind. Mathematics and medicine were given to the world.

The Portland Observer takes pride in publishing this Special Edition on Black History. We plan to continue to lead in educating and promoting equality among men and women in the Portland area. We hope that you will learn and appreciate the fine culture and tradition that the Black race has given to this country and maybe one day the history books will be written in truth so a special edition like this will no longer be needed to educate all races about each other.

Portland Observer
Staff and Management