

Radical reconstruction of society is the real issue

Chicago, 1966

"In the North there are brothers and sisters who are suffering discrimination that is even more agonizing, in a sense, than in the South. In the South, at least, the Negro can see some progress, where in the North all he sees is retrogression."

"The black revolution is much more than a struggle for the rights of Negroes. It is forcing America to face all its interrelated flaws—racism, poverty, militarism, materialism. It is exposing evils that are deeply rooted in the whole structure of our society. It reveals systemic rather than superficial flaws and suggests that radical reconstruction of society itself is the real issue to be faced."
