

Business Notes

Advertising expenditures in the U.S. come to $286 per person per year. Our closest competitor, would you believe, is Bermuda, where $12.5 million worth of advertising rains down annually on a population of 60,000, for a per capita expenditure of $208. (Of course that per capita figure would be considerably less if you counted in the tourists to whom much of this advertising probably is directed.) After Bermuda comes Switzerland ($196 per person annually), Finland ($178), Norway ($166) and Australia ($160).

Teledyne Wah Chang was recently fined $4,000 for having an employee ignite a pile of hazardous waste by throwing a common road flare onto it. The Teledyne Wah Chang company in Millersburg (near Albany) has been under fire for years by environmentalists as being a danger to the public health. Metals refined at the plant are used in both nuclear weapons and civilian nuclear power plants.

The Accreditation Board of Engineering and Technology recently granted accreditation for Portland State University's electrical-electronics engineering program. The decision will help to complement the university's civil and mechanical engineering programs, which already were accredited. More than 1,100 full and part-time students are enrolled in Portland State University's School of Engineering undergraduate and graduate degree programs in civil, electrical and mechanical engineering.

The Small Business Administration and the General Services Administration are sponsoring a cost and price analysis course from Sept. 12-16. The seminar is offered to women- and minority-owned businesses and their staffs. It will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Edith Green-Wendall Wyatt Building, 1220 S.W. Third Ave., Room 223. Pre-registration is required. The fee is $25.

America's Black population remains significantly poorer (as measured by income) than white America according to statistics provided by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

A new analysis, "America's Black Population: 1970 to 1982," paints a mixed picture of increases in educational attainment, home ownership, divorce and separation rates and the number of families headed by women. The bureau said the number of Blacks living in poverty jumped because of unemployment, inflation and other economic factors. Blacks below the poverty line grew from 8 million to 9 million during the decade and represented about 34 percent of America's poor each year. Income gains for Blacks in general tended to lag behind the overall population, the reports states. In 1971, Black families averaged 60 percent of the income of white families, but by 1981 that had dropped to 56 percent.
