Salvation Army feeds hungry

Portland's Salvation Army is anticipating a record number of Burnside area residents and transients, as well as senior citizens, to join in two traditional Thanksgiving dinner programs.

More than 1500 Burnside area people are expected to enjoy a turkey and trimmings meal at The Salvation Army's Harbor Light Center, 134 W. Burnside, between 11:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. on Thanksgiving Day.

The Rose Center is located at 1785 N.E. Sandy Blvd.

"Without The Salvation Army, sad to say, many if not most of these seniors and Burnside people would have a joyless holiday," said Lt. Col. David P. Riley, commander of The Salvation Army's Cascade Division.

"For many, there would be inadequate nutrition on a day known for plenty."

For more information regarding this and other holiday programs sponsored by The Salvation Army, call 234-0825.

'Vision' meets in Senate office

New Clear Vision of Oregon will once again organize five to fifteen voters to gather in Senator Bob Packwood's office for a one- to two-hour letter-writing discussion this Wednesday at 1:00 p.m.

Several weeks ago in a protest organized by groups other than New Clear Vision, Elaine Franklin, a Packwood aide, insisted that protesters reduce their numbers from 60 to 15 so that the office would not be disrupted.

Two weeks ago a group of twelve met, quietly discussed Packwood's record, and wrote letters to the Senator, and after one and one-half hours left without incident.

However, last week the group of only seven citizens was greeted with a rearranged office, allowed only to sit on the floor, and after half-an-hour was violently removed from the office and cited for loitering.

Judy Hoffer, spokesperson for the group, commented, "It is not the way we are communicating our message but the content of our discussion that is being restricted. We have not been at fault for the disruption of Packwood's office. If we were allowed to exercize our constitutional rights we would not be in the newspapers or on T.V.. It is Packwood's staff director that has caused a confrontation. If we were supportive of militarism they would be giving us chairs and a table."

Protest organizers maintain they will continue asserting their right to quietly gather in a publicly funded office. The public is invited, but participation is limited to 15 people per week. Phone New Clear Vision at 222-5701 for more information or to sign up for the gathering.

questions that lie at the heart of American democracy."

Dellums and Weiss, with twelve British women, filed suit in U.S. District Court in New York on November 9th, seeking to halt deployment of 160 cruise missiles in Britain next month. Federal judge David Edelstein denied a motion for a temporary restraining order but set a hearing for November 21st.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs argued that this is "one of the most serious issues in this world—total destruction." They said deployment of the missiles violated international law and the U.S. Constitution. As a first-strike weapon, the cruise missile could lead to nuclear war without Congressional approval, which is prohibited by the U.S. Constitution. It violates international law because it does not discriminate between civilian and military targets.

Equipment for the missiles is already arriving in Greenham Commons, 50 miles from London. A recent poll in the London Daily Mail said 94 percent of British voters want their government to have control over the missiles and 68 percent believe Reagan would fire the missiles against the wishes of the British government.

Something To Think About

ROBERTA B. VANN
DIRECTOR

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY

Many people desire to express their sympathy by sending flowers or some other memorial in addition to extending their condolences in person. Others do this because they cannot attend either the visitation or the service.

For the most part, those who wish to demonstrate their feelings should be able to do so, in the way they prefer and which is most natural for them. Flowers, for example, have a message all their own—one which is universal. They also add beauty to the casket setting and to the funeral service.

While it is considered proper for the family to suggest a certain memorial (such as a donation to a particular charity), this should not be done in such a manner as to exclude alternate expressions of sympathy. It should also be presented in such a way so as not to be construed as a tangible solicitation of sympathy. The funeral director can advise on these and similar matters.
