Kwanzaa 1984

The Black Educational Center invites the Black community to join them at this year's Kwanzaa celebration. The festivity will continue now through January 1, 1985. The program is an African-American celebration of the First Fruit of the Harvest. You are encouraged to bring your kids and yourself out to this enlightening cultural holiday. Kwanzaa will take place at the Black Educational Center located at 1640 N.E. Alberta each day at 7 p.m., except Saturday, when the festivity will begin at 3 p.m.

First Jazz '85

Le Bon will be appearing on Sunday, January 6. They will take part in the Jazz Society of Oregon's "First Jazz '85," at the Pine Street Theater, 221 SE 9th Ave. This first Sunday after New Year's bash is a Jazz Society tradition dating back over 10 years. Le Bon will share the stage with a number of Portland's finest jazz musicians, including Manteca, Rich Halley and the Lizard Brothers, Ron Steen, Nancy King and Dan Perz. We promise to be on our most dignified behavior. The music starts at 4 p.m., and runs through until about 11 p.m. Adult refreshments and food will be available. Admission is $7.00 ($6.00 for JSO members). Proceeds will be used to promote future live performances by local artists.

The Herero Danzers are offering dance classes for children and adults. Register now for their "Introduction to Dance" class which begins in January. For more information call 299-9111.

Steel Pulse, Grateful Dead highlight KBOO New Year's

KBOO has a New Years Eve date for you that will make this holiday unlike any you have ever celebrated. We will be broadcasting two different live concerts from the two coasts.

The first live concert is from New York City with the great sounds of Steel Pulse, a burning Reggae Band from Jamaica. This great show will begin at 7 p.m. Pacific time. You will be there for all the excitement when the ball in Times Square drops down.

The second concert will feature the Grateful Dead live from San Francisco beginning at 10 p.m. This concert will last until 2 a.m. This is the Traditional Concert that the Dead have played for the past ten years in San Francisco. Tickets to these two shows would cost you up to $25 each — if you could find them, and that doesn't include the price of airfare. KBOO is happy to bring them to Portland for your listening pleasure for free. Your listener sponsored, community radio station invites you to the New Years of your life, maybe even to two. These two concerts are made possible in part through grants from Key Largo Restaurant and Night Club and Headeast located in Portland, as well as the 3000 members of the KBOO Foundation. KBOO is located at 90.7fm on your radio dial.

Artists can get advice

"How good is my artwork?" "What is it like to be an art student in Chicago?" "What opportunities are there for me as an artist?" "What should I be doing to improve my work?"

Prospective artists often have difficulty obtaining first hand information about educational opportunities in art and design. Of course, catalogs and brochures from art schools provide facts but they often don't answer the most important questions a potential art student may have.

The Pacific Northwest College of Art, a division of the Portland Art Association, will host its 2nd Annual Portfolio Day, on Saturday, January 19, from 12 noon to 4 p.m. Last year over 400 art students, parents, art teachers, counselors and individuals seeking career changes were in attendance, making Portland's portfolio day one of the largest in the United States. There is no charge for admission to this career day for the visual arts. Just tuck your artwork under your arm and come to Portfolio Day, 1219 SW Park, Madison Street entrance.
