A huge talent in a small package

Denise Lucas proved herself to be a one-woman gang last week at the OSSA-U.S. Bank state Class AAA track and field meet in Eugene. Denise parlayed her talents into 32½ individual points. If you're not impressed by that, look at it like this. Willamette won the boys' title with a total of 34 points for their entire team effort. Denise's 32½ points was higher than any of the other boys' teams at the state meet.

In spite of Denise's heroics at the meet she received hardly a mention in the media. The Saturday Oregonian carried a blurred color photo of the Beaverton mile relay team savoring their victory. It's no coincidence either that the front page photo of the Rose Festival Queen was in black and white. Too cold.

Denise has steadily improved in her years at Jefferson High School and in this her final year, she has left no doubt as to her competitive nature and her willingness to achieve. This diminutive young lady has heart for days. Here's how Denise capped her career at the state meet:

- Long Jump — Winner, Denise Lucas, Jefferson, 19-6.
- 400-Meter Relay — Winners, Jackie Taylor, Sedrice Phillips, Marissa Minnieweather, Denise Lucas, 48.91.
- 100 — Winner, Denise Lucas, Jefferson, 12.27.
- 200 — Winner, Denise Lucas, Jefferson, 24.84.
- 400 — Winner, Denise Lucas, Jefferson, 55.56.

Jefferson and Madison tied for second place with a team score of 44 points. Beaverton won the team title with 46 points.

The Kareem always rises to the top

Kareem played Game No. 1 as though he was a legend in his spare time and Boston trounced the Lakers pitifully, the big man gathered himself and has played games 2 and 3 as if the exorcism didn't work and he's still possessed.

The Lakers lead the series 2-1 going into the fourth game at the Forum Wednesday night. Kareem is the elder statesman of the league at 38 but he's playing as though he were 28. There's no secret to it, as goes Kareem, so go the Lakers. Pat Riley has made the correct adjustments and L.A. starts with the big man on the offense and on the defense.

The most basic fundamental of team basketball has always been to establish dominance in the pivot both offensively and defensively. On the offense this will force the defense inside and create good percentage shots from the perimeter. Michael Cooper and Bob McAdoo have handled that end. On the defense the backcourt turns everything to the middle for the big guy and are in perfect position to run the fast break on a missed shot or steal. Fundamental basketball no matter how you slice it. Magic and Worthy have handled that end. Rambis is doing all he can to allow the Lakers a second chance if anything fails. Superman has sure enough handled his end.

There's no need for you Boston fans to panic at this point, but unless K. C. can come up with something to get Dennis Johnson closer to Magic, panic time is closing in. Pat Riley made a monster move when he moved Magic over to guard Ainge. Remember that it was just last year that K. C. switched D.J. over to Magic and turned the series around. L.A. was up 2-1 at the time, too. Make no mistake about it, D. J. will give Magic a fit if he can get close to him.

The media has made a big deal about the physical nature of the last two games and that's ridiculous. Have you ever watched a final series that was not a contest of strength? Boston has won championship upon championship by beating their opposition to a pulp. Jim "Jungle Jim" Luskatoff was the league's hatcherman for years while wearing the Kelly green of Boston. Tom Heinsohn was a scoring machine when he played for Boston because he physically wore out the people defending him. The great Philadelphia team of 1967 had a brother named Luke Jackson that would make last year's McHale-Rambis confrontation look like a square dance. Where were these writers when Boston's Sam Jones picked up a stool and charged Wilt in the championship series? These players have been bumping heads all season and suddenly everyone's talking too physical. If a player can't take the pushing, the shoving, and the body contact in the NBA, then he should start looking for a day job. Long-time Portland writers should be ashamed to talk about this series being too rough. Take Maurice Lucas off the Blazer championship team and discuss the Blazer chances. I'll never forget how Luke busted Dawkins up side his head and turned the series around.

Game No. 3 was rough because of the importance of going 1-up in the series. Both teams had to have that win at all costs. Boston must take one game in L.A. to survive. The new format of 2-3-2 dictates the intensity that the players have exhibited.

Maybe the fans and players will begin to appreciate the job that Larry O'Brien did as league commissioner. Since the new commish has been in office, the draft has been changed to a 7-team lottery, which was a joke, and now the final format has been changed to save money on airfare. The incentive to play for the home team advantage has all but diminished in the 2-3-2 set-up. Boston has three players that make at least $1 million per year and L.A. has one player that makes $25 million and the league wants to cut costs in their showstopper.

A final note: it sure sounds strange not to hear Larry Bird's name mentioned in every breath by the commentators and writers. The new MVP has been in a blue funk thus far, so let's watch closely to see how the tag of greatness fits on his chest. Kareem has certainly shown why the great tag was placed over his ticker.

You can't win them all

For those of you that were looking forward to our coverage of last week's Boys State Golf Tournament at Glendoveer G.C., I apologize. When we went to press the tournament had not been completed and I chose not to do the story unless I could do it justice. Kevin Newborne, the PIL medalist from Grant High School, ran afoul of the treelined Glendoveer track and encountered all sorts of trouble on his way to a first-round score of 89. Competing for the first time in the state tournament might have added a few strokes to Kevin's score during that first round because Kevin bounced right back for a smooth 76 in the second and final round. It was a case of a little too late this year but this youngster will be back.

Golf is a sport where learning how to win is as important as your final score and the experience that Kevin has gained through this competition will undoubtedly be utilized in his quest for championships.

Byron Kelly represented Benson High School at the tournament but he had a tough two days. In Byron's case it was: "Some days you eat the bear and some days the bear eats you." The bear ate good for two days on Dude.

Byron shot an 89 in the first round and an 83 in the final round. Dude was something to see because he never lost his composure or sense of humor. He was going against the best that the state had to offer when his game suddenly deserted him. That's enough to make a grown man cry but Dude just hung in there and tried to be patient.

Keep the names of Kevin Newborne and Byron "Dude" Kelly in your minds because they will soon be two of the top golfers in this area. They have had the opportunity of starting early and they're gaining that valuable exposure that eludes most young Black golfers. Hang tough fellas!

While I was following these young men around the course I could not help but notice the support that the other golfers had as they attempted to reach for their stars. Byron and Kevin had only myself and their fathers. You Leisure Hour members need to be spanked and I'm going to do it.

If this would have been a dance, there would've been 100 members in attendance and all dressed up. As members of the Western States Golfing Association it is our responsibility to encourage and support the Junior Golf program. Where were you?

These young men came up through the Leisure Hour program and when they needed you most, you abandoned them. "I had to work" will be the typical response, I'm sure, but it doesn't wash. I can catch at least five you at Broadmoor, on any week day, playing with the "Bums." The time has come for Leisure Hour to return to its intent, to encourage and support junior golf AND the junior golfers.

Scientists Expose Government-supported Psychiatric Abuses of American Citizens

The Church of Scientology has, for more than 30 years, been one of the most effective organizations in investigating and exposing government-funded psychiatric experimentation carried out on American citizens, often without their knowledge and consent. The Church has stressed that Americans must be free from such abuses and dangers.

In 1975, for example, the Church revealed documents it had obtained under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) which detailed the work of Dr. Amadeo Marrazzi, a psychiatrist at the Missouri Institute of Psychiatry. Marrazzi had been involved in the CIA's mind control experiments since 1951 and had conducted illegal LSD experiments on his patients without the knowledge of patients, guardians or his superiors.

Following the Church's revelations, Marrazzi was brought before a Senate hearing and accused of having "devastated" an 18-year-old psychiatric patient with LSD.

Despite the irrefutable evidence of Marrazzi's crimes, the Department of Justice refused to take any action against Marrazzi and ordered the case closed altogether.

In 1979, the Church exposed massive Army experimentation using a mind-crippling psychiatric hallucinogen, nicknamed "BZ." This drug, classified as up to 100 times more powerful than LSD, was given to hundreds of soldiers at Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland during the 1960s, as part of a government-sponsored psychiatric "research" program.

Recently the Church released FOIA documents which showed that blacks were singled out for use as human "guinea pigs" during extensive testing of LSD and other destructive hallucinogenic drugs in a CIA-funded research program at the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) Addiction Research Center in Lexington, Kentucky.

Such documentation is evidence that the government has been heavily involved in psychiatric experimentation on American citizens, and that U.S. agencies have been supporting the psychiatric establishment with massive funding, despite the fact that psychiatry has been found to be alarmingly ineffective in bringing about its stated goal: mental health.

Moreover, psychiatry's dismal statistics and its appalling results raise serious questions about the government's support and use of psychiatry. For example:

• In 1983, the Church's newspaper, FREE-DOM, reported the staggering fact that psychiatrists were incorrectly diagnosing 50 per cent of their patients as mentally ill when they were actually suffering from only a physical ailment.

• The suicide rate among psychiatrists is more than 50 per cent higher than the suicide rate for the average citizen in the United States.

• At least 50 per cent of all those who commit suicide have had previous psychiatric contact.

• In a study of nearly 400 reported cases of murder, suicide, rape, arson and kidnapping, it was found that each person responsible for the act had either been recently under the care of a psychiatrist, or had, not long before, been released from a psychiatric facility; and

• The list of psychiatry's failures is horrifying — Charles Whitman, the infamous "Texas Tower murderer"; Juan Corona, brutal killer of 25 migrant workers in Yuba City, California; Mark Chapman, killer of John Lennon; Robert DeSalvo, better known as the Boston Strangler; James Earl Ray, assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.; Lee Harvey Oswald, assassin of President John F. Kennedy; and Sirhan Sirhan, assassin of Robert F. Kennedy — the list is endless. All of these murderers had a history of psychiatric treatment prior to committing these murders.

The Church has made numerous submissions to Congress and to other organizations, detailing the damaging effects of psychiatric treatment and experimentation on our citizens and calling for an end to government funding of this destructive, unconstitutional use of taxpayer monies. As a result of the Church's exposure of the Army's BZ testing, for example, the Army agreed to destroy their stockpile of this drug, thus preventing its further use.

In response to the Church's effective actions in exposing these experiments and in campaigning for an end to government support of psychiatric drug testing, government agencies have occasionally mustered attacks against the Church, but our work to educate American citizens and to bring about a reform of such abuses will not be deterred.

The Church of Scientology believes that freedom from brutal psychiatric treatment and drugging is one of the basic rights of all men, and we will continue our campaign to reform not only psychiatry itself but also the government agencies who have supported and condoned the psychiatric community's abuse of the rights of American citizens.
