

SABIA to perform

SABIA will perform traditional and new songs from Latin America at the Old Church, 1422 S.W. 11th, Portland, on Friday, July 26 at 8 p.m. as a benefit for the Corinto Sister City Project.

The members of SABIA play traditional and new songs from Mexico, Central, and South America on a large variety of indigenous and classical instruments. Their versatile repertoire is enhanced by a unique collection of songs about women, and their own original compositions. Energetic in their performances, they have received an overwhelming response from audiences throughout the United States, Canada, and Latin America.

The group SABIA takes its name from a South American bird whose song announces springtime. Its members bring us a message of cross-cultural understanding, political freedom, and human rights, expressed with beauty, strength and humor. The power of the music stems from their superb vocal and instrumental talent and from the sincere, unpretentious belief in what they sing.

SABIA in concert is an exciting and moving experience and should not be missed. For more information please call 234-7080 or 295-7783.

Metro Farmer's Market opens

Below market prices for fresh produce, meat, fish, eggs, etc., are the rule for the "Metro Farmer's Market" located on Union Avenue between Cook and Fargo streets which opened Friday, July 19, 1985.

The Northeast Community Development Corporation (NECDC) which received a $12,000 grant from the Portland Development Commission for this project, will operate the market in the Northeast community. Ray Eaglin has been hired as the market manager. The market offers a place for shoppers to make purchases of quality produce with "right off the farm freshness," without the cost of a middle man or high overhead.

The Metro Market will be open each weekend (Friday, Saturday and Sunday) through September 29, 1985, from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. A grand opening celebration will be held on the market grounds Saturday, July 28, with Mayor Bud Clark highlighting the activities.

UP With Kids summer program

One hundred seventy-eight Portland grade school children spent the past three weeks discovering that learning doesn't have to stop once summer begins.

These students were part of "UP With Kids," a University of Portland summer learning program held at Holy Cross School June 24 - July 11. University students working toward special education degrees received credit for teaching courses to children from different ethnic and economic backgrounds. This unique program encouraged interaction by bringing students of all ages and skill levels together in one classroom.

The program's theme was "On to Oregon." Students learned dances and music native to Oregon, studied ecology first-hand, and wrote and produced their own Oregon-based play on videotape. Students also tried their hands at creative writing and computers, and worked on reading and math skills.

"UP With Kids" was launched last year by U. of P.'s School of Education under the guidance of Dvonna Duncan, coordinator of special education. According to Duncan, the program has "grown far beyond all expectations." The Portland program almost doubled its number of students this year and a new "UP With Kids" began classes in Redmond, Oregon, July 15.

Life Center receives food

On July 10, 1985, Life Center was the recipient of a ton of food. This was a gift from Christ Community Church of Dundee, Oregon, Dr. R. B. Pamplin, Jr., Pastor. Since 1968, Life Center has served the Tri-County area at the rate of 30,000 people a year with food, clothing, furniture, cooking utensils, dishes and all types of needed items that are useful to people.

Life Center is a non-profit charitable agency and their major source of income is from United Way, which is spent in total for salaries, food, utilities, taxes, insurance, office equipment and printing. The entire communities in and around Portland are recipients of Life Center's emergency basic services whether they be individuals and/or families who are in need of emergency services.

Life Center's purpose is to provide families and/or individuals with items they are in need of. The Center operates on a self-help basis, which enables low-income citizens to come into the Center and do volunteer work in exchange for the items they need.

All items are donated to the Center by citizens; citizen participation is an integral part of Life Center; the whole existence of the program is dependent on this factor.

But the success of volunteer program does not lessen the responsibility of government. Today the poverty cycle is a social and public problem and government must do its share otherwise poverty will exact terrible penalties in higher health care cost, a higher death rate and millions of poorly nourished youngsters growing into poorly functioning adults.

Paperdrive

A paper drive to benefit Sickle Cell Anemia will be held on July 25, 6 - 9 p.m., and on July 26 and 27, 9 a.m. - 9 p.m., at Fred Meyers, Union and Killingsworth.

For paper pickup, call 249-1366 or 249-0023.

Zoo camp

Zoo Camp for four and five-year-olds will be held at Washington Park Zoo, in one-week sessions, afternoons. Pre-schoolers will learn about the animals through songs, crafts and games. Call the zoo education division at the Washington Park Zoo for more information, 226-1561.

Child abuse booklet

A new publication designed to educate parents about child sexual abuse is now available from Gov. Vic Atiyeh's Office of the Citizen's Representative.

"The Parent's Handbook" provides parents with useful information about talking with children about sexual abuse, according to Jeffrey Lewis, Citizen's Representative.

The book also describes signs that may alert parents to possible instances of sexual abuse and makes suggestions about what to do if a child says he or she has been sexually assaulted. Tips on selecting pre-school or child care centers are also included.

The handbook was prepared with the assistance of child abuse experts from throughout Oregon. Materials were reviewed before publication by Julie Allen of Salem, Tina Frost of Portland, Molly Reed of Cottage Grove, Diana Roberts of Salem and Faye Lindemann-Taylor of Portland.

"The Parent's Handbook" is available by writing the Office of Citizen's Representative, Governor's Office, Room 160, State Capitol Building, Salem, OR 97310. Questions concerning the publication, which is free, may be addressed to the Office of the Citizen's Representative, 378-4582.

Love Works

We all agree that we want to love ourselves and others unconditionally, but how do we do this in a realistic way that works all the time? The World Peace University is sponsoring a workshop with Ken Keyes entitled, "Love Works" to resolve this basic issue. The workshop is entertaining and informative. It offers answers and methods that enormously increase energy, insight, love and inner peace. The techniques learned in this workshop can be used immediately to effectively and consistently enhance the quality of life.

Ken Keyes has written 12 books including The Hundredth Monkey and Handbook to Higher Consciousness with over two million copies in print. Founder of the Ken Keyes Center in Coos Bay, Oregon, he has traveled coast to coast doing weekend workshops which have been attended by over 10,000 people.

Song of People, Songs of Life

"Songs of the People... Songs of Life" benefit concert will be held on August 25, 1985, 6:00 p.m., at the Pine Street Theatre, Pine and 9th, in Portland. Tickets for the concert are $5.00 at the door.

Featured will be Jim Page, the ThunderBird Sisters, Tribal Voice with poet John Trudell. The event is sponsored by Butler Support Group/Indigenous Women's Network.
