MAURICE ARAO -From Kenya, the son of a witch doctor and heir apparent to the same powers that kept his grandfather in power and alive for 140 years, gave all that up for greater power and the promise of eternal life through Christ Jesus.

He preaches the gospel and challenges the witch doctors with the power of God, just like Elijah. When they see that Jesus is more powerful, they forsake their demons, their sins and their practices for Jesus.

He now has 140 churches in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania with upwards to 50,000 people saved and many more being added daily. Revival is going on in Kenya with about 17,000 people being saved weekly and Maurice's independent work is right in the middle of it.

Catholic convention

The 1985 Clergy Convention of the priests of the Catholic Archdiocese of Portland in Oregon will be held August 19 - 21 at the University of Portland. The annual event draws priests from throughout western Oregon.

The theme selected for this year's gathering is "The Future of the Eucharistic Church." Father David Powe, OMI, will be the keynote speaker. The theme is especially important in light of the dwindling number of priests to serve as parish pastor. Already one lay pastor has been assigned in the archdiocese. Several workshops on the overall theme will also be provided during the convention.

A variety of resolutions will be voted on by the clergy at the convention. Generally, the resolutions are advisory in nature. While many of the resolutions will be offered at the convention itself, several have already been released.

This year marks the fifth annual Clergy Convention for the priests of the Portland Archdiocese. There are 175 diocesan priests and 230 religious order priests serving in parishes in Western Oregon. The Archdiocese of Portland is headed by Archbishop Cornelius Power along with two Auxiliary Bishops, Bishop Kenneth Steiner and Bishop Paul Waldschmidt, CSC. The archdiocese covers the western half of the State of Oregon from the Pacific Ocean to the Cascade mountain range.
